DEWEY BLASTS SECRECY OVER POLAND'S FATE

Open Discussion of Future Urged.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on page 7.)

New York, Oct. 8.—Gov. Dewey, Republican Presidential nominee, this afternoon denounced the secrecy of current diplomatic negotiations attempting to fix the future of Poland.

Dewey spoke from a reviewing stand in front of the public library here while an estimated 50,000 men, women, and children of Polish extraction marched in Fifth av. in the annual Pulaski day parade. Other speakers included former President Hoover, Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.], and Jan Ciechanowski, ambassador of the Polish government in exile.

"There is not a sensitive man or woman thruout the United States," said Dewey, "who does not want to see as one of the results of victory the reëstablishment of Poland as an independent and sovereign nation reborn upon a basis which will be permanent.

Open Discussion Urged.

"We would like to know more about the plans for that consummation. We would like to know more about the results of the private deliberations of those who are now discussing Poland's future in secrecy. American citizens of Polish descent would do well to do everything in their power to bring discussions of Poland's fate from the dark to the light.

"Be assured that whatever transpires in the next few months, the American people will not be satisfied unless we meet the just claims of the Polish people upon our gratitude, sympathy, and admiration, and upon or desire that all peoples shall have the freedom to which they are entitled."

Policy Criticism Avoided.

The 42 year old candidate, who has vigorously attacked President Roosevelt's domestic policies and his communist following, has leaned backward in his campaign so as not to criticize the New Deal foreign policy in any way that might be interpreted as interfering with war time relations and peace time negotiations with our allies.

Dewey's collaboration with Secretary of State Hull, unprecedented in American political history, is limited, however, to the diplomatic discussions leading toward a world peace organization of sovereign nations.

Close associates of Dewey let it be known today that Hull, if he is willing, may remain as an American representative in peace negotiations in the event of Republican victory in November.

Envoy Urges Help.

Ambassador Ciechanowski did not mention Russian Dictator Stalin's acquisitiveness toward Polish territory in his address today, but he indicated a desire that America take a hand in diplomatic defense of his homeland boundaries.

Hoover spoke not only as a former President but also as former head of American relief agencies that fed Poland after the first World war.

"No one could address this parade of protest of tens of thousands of Americans of Polish descent," he said, "without conviction that the Polish cause never will die. Dark as the future of her freedom may look today, we have witnessed here the eternal spark of the Polish soul which has kept alive her right to live for a thousand years. No matter what may happen, the freedom of spirit cannot die."

Sen. Wagner, who is campaigning for reëlection, declared "America will help with other nations of the world to bring freedom to Poland."

Dewey arrived here early today from Charleston, W. Va., where he traced the Red framework of the New Deal in an address last night.

Dewey's attack on what he termed President Roosevelt's "soft" disavowal of communist support "will be rebroadcast at 11:30 a. m. [Chicago time] tomorrow over the Blue network, Republican Chairman Brownell announced.

Memory Fails McKeough on $10,000 Salary

BY LEWIS HUNT.

Raymond S. McKeough, former Democratic congressman, now regional director of the CIO's political action committee, "doesn't know" who signs the checks for his $10,000 salary since the CIO's $700,000 trade union account was frozen to avoid violating the Smith-Connolly act, he told the house committee investigating campaign expenditures yesterday.

Raymond McKeough.

He was under questioning two hours at a public hearing of the committee in the United States courthouse. The hearings will continue today, with officers of CIO packing house workers' unions subpenaed for investigation of reports that members have been forced to give up $1 each to the PAC drive to reëlect President Roosevelt.

Asked About Frozen Fund.

When first asked about his salary checks, McKeough said he was paid by PAC. Rep. Brown [R., O.] said that it was testified before the committee in Washington "that some $700,000 contributed by seven international unions to CIO-PAC, one of them the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, headed by Sidney Hillman, was frozen July 17 so it would not be used for political purposes." Brown asked if that was the fund from which McKeough was paid.

"Not if it was frozen," said the witness.

"You have testified here you were paid by PAC," said Brown.

McKeough questioned that, and Rep. Brown asked to have the transcript read back. McKeough interrupted: "Just a minute. The national offices now are not only PAC but also the National Citizens' Political Action committee."

Denies Law Violation.

Brown asked if the witness wished to correct his first statement and McKeough replied, "The salary paid me is not in violation of any existing law of the country."

"State specifically," Brown demanded, "are you paid by the CIO-PAC?" McKeough said he had been until the fund was frozen.

Rep. Sparkman [D., Ala.] interrupted with the explanation that there are three funds in the New York offices, which, he said, are the frozen $700,000, the collection of "voluntary donations" to PAC, and the newly set up National Citizens' committee's treasury. "We have been assured that no money would be spent from the frozen fund," he said.

Still Wants to Know.

Brown again demanded of McKeough, "How were you paid?"

"I presume from whatever funds in the national office that were not frozen," the witness said.

"Are your checks signed by CIO-PAC or NC-PAC," Brown asked.

McKeough answered, "I don't know."

McKeough was as vague on the part regional and national PAC officers are to play in indorsing congressional candidates. Rep. Sparkman said Hillman told the committee national offices would make no indorsements. McKeough said state groups would pick the candidates and regional officers would only advise.

Calls for Wire Copies.

Brown then called for copies of an identical telegram sent by McKeough to PAC chairmen in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana Aug. 24. It read:

"Please immediately notify all locals and PAC committees thruout

FOOD POISON MAKES SCORE AT PARTY ILL; NINE ENTER HOSPITAL

Physicians of the health department and at County hospital yesterday were seeking the source of food poisoning that caused more than a score of persons to become ill, nine of them violently so, at a party Saturday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Nakis, 840 S. Winchester av.

The party, attended by more than 80 persons, was a farewell to the Nakis' 18 year old son, James, who is to report for induction into the army this morning.

About an hour after guests had partaken of some of the 400 sandwiches and a pan of gravy that had been supplied by a caterer, the first indications of poisoning occurred. When homemade remedies failed to allay the symptoms, a physician was summoned. He sent the nine most seriously ill to County hospital, treated others who complained, and sent them home.

Physicians at the hospital said that all of the sufferers would recover. The sandwiches contained roast beef.

10,000th Flying Fortress Delivered to U. S. Army

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 8 (AP).—The 10,000th B-17 Flying Fortress was delivered today to the army air forces. The aircraft war production council announced the army in rapid succession took delivery of No. 9,999 from Douglas Aircraft company in Long Beach; No. 10,000 from Boeing in Seattle, and No. 10,001 from Lockheed in Burbank.

Now He Knows Why They Call Them Booby Traps

Kansas City, Kas., Oct. 8 (AP).—Pvt. Harley Paul Collins, home on furlough, showed his wife how the boys make booby traps. He hooked up a shell, a board, a nail, and a piece of wire. He tripped and the contraption went off. He was wounded in the leg.

Willkie's Body to Lie in State in New York

New York, Oct. 8 [Special].—The body of Wendell Willkie, 1940 Republican Presidential nominee who died early today of coronary thrombosis, will lie in state at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church from 2 p. m. tomorrow until funeral services are held at 3 p. m. Tuesday, it was announced tonight.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. John Sutherland Bonnell, pastor of the church. Burial will be in the family plot at Rushville, Ind.

The decision to permit the public to view Willkie's body was made following numerous requests to the family, a spokesman said. Earlier it was announced that funeral plans would await word from the son, Lt. [j. g.] Philip Willkie, on duty with the navy "somewhere in mid-ocean."

The remains were moved today from Lenox Hill hospital to an upper East Side undertaking parlor, where two policemen were assigned to guard the body and a special traffic officer was placed outside to keep the curious from congregating.

Mrs. Willkie with Him.

Mrs. Willkie, who had been ill with a sore throat last week, was with her husband when he died, arriving about five minutes before the end.

The death of the 1940 Republican standard bearer was unexpected. He entered the hospital Sept. 6 for a physical checkup and rest. Dr. Benjamin Salzer, his personal physician, said a streptococci throat infection developed Wednesday.

The infection affected the heart muscles, according to Dr. Alexander Ghiselin, a throat specialist, who was called to attend him. His condition became critical about midnight last night and he was placed under an oxygen tent.

Joked with Nurses.

Lamoyne Jones, Willkie's personal secretary, said Willkie awoke about 1 a. m. today and appeared so much improved that the oxygen tent was removed as no longer necessary.

"Mr. Willkie began to joke with his nurse as she swabbed his throat," Jones said. "When asked how he felt, he said, 'How can I talk with my mouth full of that stuff?'"

Willkie went to sleep after receiving this attention, it was said, and about 2 a. m. suffered a heart attack. He died without regaining consciousness. Jones and Drs. Ghiselin and Salzer were with Mrs. Willkie at the deathbed.

CAREER BRIEF AND HECTIC.

GREAT BLAST FELT AS 2 FLYING BOMBS ARE HIT AT SAME TIME

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP).—Anti-aircraft gunners, spraying the sky with an intense barrage of fire during two flying bomb attacks tonight against southern England and the London area, heard a tremendous explosion in the sky. Anti-aircraft gunners or Mosquito patrol pilots downed a pair of buzzbombs in flight.

Gun crews pumped so many shots at the bombs during the two attacks that hundreds of coastal families were driven to shelter to escape falling flak.

The first attack, at the darkest hour before moonrise, caused damage and casualties for the fourth successive night. The bombs came from the east. One demolished a group of three houses and damaged a hospital.

WPB AUTHORIZES 116,800 ICEBOXES IN 4TH QUARTER

HODGES TROOPS TIGHTEN NOOSE UPON AACHEN

LONDON, Oct. 9 [Monday]—(AP).—A powerful new offensive put the United States 3d army six miles ahead on a 20 mile front between Metz and Nancy last night, and the American 1st army was on the verge of throwing a noose around the Germans at Aachen.

Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army attack was aimed at wiping out a shallow German salient. The towns of Clemery, Lixieres, Serrieres, Jeandelaincourt, Moivrons, Fessieux, Ajoncourt, and Arraye et Han were captured in a sector a dozen to 20 miles south of Metz.

Reported in Aachen.

Fighting inside Aachen was reported in three London newspapers this morning, but there was no confirmation of this from allied headquarters. The British papers, attributing their reports to front line dispatches but not giving their source, said American troops had entered Aachen from the southeast and that house-to-house fighting raged in the city.

Dispatches from 1st army headquarters reported only that the city was almost isolated by American troops encircling it.

The German radio said the Americans had thrown two fresh tank divisions into the battle north of Aachen "where attacks now have assumed the character of a major assault."

The 1st army's newest assault, launched before dawn yesterday from east of Aachen, carried to within 1,000 yards of the enemy's last road to Cologne. North of the city, other troops from the Ubach break-thru in the Siegfried line struck a mile deeper southward, bringing in the upper jaw of the vise.

Task Force Probes Area.

A small task force with tanks and self-propelled guns probed the defenses of Aachen itself, biggest city encountered in the invasion of Germany. Thirty-seventh largest city of the pre-war reich, it had a population of 165,000.

Staging one of their rare night assaults, Lt. Gen. Hodges' men southeast of Aachen caught the Germans by surprise, advanced east of the besieged city, and late yesterday seized Crucifix hill, dominating the ground near Haaren, 1¼ miles northeast of Aachen.

They were within little more than half a mile of the Aachen-Cologne road, sweeping that last escape route for the Nazis in Aachen with shell and heavy machine gun fire. The strength of the Aachen defenders was not known, but a Reuters dispatch estimated it as low as 1,500 S. S. [elite] troops.

Repulse Triple Attack.

A three pronged German counter-attack toward Alsdorf was flung back. Generally resistance north of Aachen appeared to be melting.

In the Hurtgen forest area southeast of Aachen, other doughboys advanced thru the dense pine woodlands, and were within 7 miles of Duren, 20 miles from Cologne.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY ON THE MOSELLE RIVER, France, Oct. 8.—The seesaw battle for Fort Driant, one of the principal outer strong points of Metz, was undecided tonight after six days of bitter fighting. American infantry men, who yesterday made a small advance, were thrown back after dark by a German counter-attack, which was preceded by a shattering artillery barrage.

Our troops once more hold only the southwest corner of Driant or about one-tenth of its area. The immediate Driant area is roughly tomahawk shaped, one side 900 yards, the second 800, and the other 400 yards.

No Terrain for Foxholes.

During last night's counter-attack, the Germans in one of Driant's casemates managed to depress their gun muzzles enough to fire directly into one of our positions. Since it is nearly impossible to dig into the ground because there are only a few inches of dirt and rock, our troops withdrew to underground positions seized on our initial entry.

Reports yesterday that the Americans were within Driant at the northwest corner were erroneous. Our troops were outside the wall at that spot. Infantry aided by combat engineers still are attempting to force their way down a tunnel which they believe will lead into one strong point. When the steel door was broken open a pile of rubble was found on the other side, which is being cleared away.

The steel doors are equipped with sliding peep holes thru which it is possible to fire, while there are recesses along the tunnel wall from which a man can shoot his rifle or machine gun without exposing himself.

Auroran Takes Wrong Turn.

Corp. C. E. Wilkinson, Aurora, Ill., a runner for an artillery unit, had an unusual experience in Driant yesterday. He took a wrong turn while looking for an American position, followed a moat and finally saw an open door with a Garand rifle leaning against it. So he stepped inside just as some one shouted at him—in German.

Wilkinson darted outside, reached cover as a machine gun opened fire, and finally got back to our lines. He was somewhat shaken to learn that he had just been in and out of the principal Driant fort which we are fighting to reach.

Farther north on the west side of the Moselle river our troops under the command of Lt. Col. Jack Ward, Moscow, Idaho, have seized the northern half of Maizieres and tonight were trying to drive the Germans from the southern end of the town.

Make Use of Rolling Mill.

Principal German opposition centered around a rolling mill, which is ideal for machine gun and small arms fire. This attack launched yesterday was going well, with 30 prisoners taken.

We visited an artillery observation post this afternoon and watched our guns, including captured German 105s, pour shells into the German sector in Maizieres. The personnel included three Missourians—1st Lt. James Stanley of Independence, 2d Lt. Robert Gossin of Kansas City, and Pvt. Arlyn Witte of St. Louis.

Gossin was highly pleased with the results of one round fired while we were there. It was directed against a German soldier standing beside a dugout and after it had lit Gossin told the battery, "I don't see him now. He's either gone or—you know."

Yesterday in the Nancy area we found three majors from Chicago. They were Philip Gilbert, press relations officer of the 12th corps, whose wife, Nancy, lives at 1625 Ashland av., Evanston, Ill., and is the daughter of the late Clinton Merrick, Evanston alderman; Robert W. Black, 14 W. Elm st., Chicago attorney, and Frank J. Cibulka, 2912 Wisconsin av., Berwyn, Ill., co-publisher of the Berwyn Beacon.

Mako First Hungarian Town to Get Red Mayor

MOSCOW, Oct. 8 (AP). — Little Mako, near the Hungarian-Romanian border, has become the first Hungarian town to have a mayor appointed by the Red army. A Red Star dispatch said today that the former mayor and a number of pro-Nazi families fled when the Russian troops approached.

REPORT STALIN WILL LEND U.S. SIBERIAN BASES

Reds Not Expected to Fight Japan.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8.—Air bases in Siberia for the launching of bombing attacks on Japan have been pledged to the United States by the soviet union after the war in Europe is ended, it was learned tonight from an unimpeachable source.

The pledge reportedly was delivered thru the mouth of Marshal Stalin. It was not revealed whether the promise was made to President Roosevelt at Teheran or to Secretary of State Hull at Moscow, altho it was indicated the pledge was made personally to an American official of high rank, not Ambassador Averell Harriman.

It was not disclosed whether the promise included a declaration of war against Japan. Observers expressed the belief Russia will not join in the attack, as all soviet energies will be bent on rebuilding territory ravaged by Nazis.

Reverse Lend-Lease.

The grant of bases would constitute reverse lend-lease on the part of the soviets. There has been considerable criticism in this country over failure to demand such action on the part of Russia against Japan in return for the billions of lend-lease aid being poured into Russia.

Highest American military and civilian officials are reported disturbed over possible Russian withdrawal of the pledge of the bases as a result of the growing list of minor irritations between the soviets and the western allies.

Most recent of these irritations was Russian ejection of British and American military missions out of Bulgaria late last month.

Minimized by Allies.

American and British officialdom minimized the incident and later reported that the matter had been satisfactorily adjusted.

Other irritations include:

1. The Russo-Polish dispute, which flared when Russia announced her intention to keep about one-half of pre-war Poland and has continued as a result of the premature uprising of Polish underground forces in Warsaw to challenge Nazi invaders.

2. Russian resentment at allied stalling over the Red request to maintain a military mission in North Africa on the opening of that theater of war.

3. Differences between Russia and Anglo-American representatives at the Dumbarton Oaks conference looking toward establishment of a basis for post-war peace organization.

Clash Over Italian Regime.

4. Russian recognition of the Badoglio government in Italy without consultation of the western allies.

5. Similar recognition of Gen. De Gaulle before the western allies had made up their minds about the French leader.

6. Russian upset of Anglo-American peace negotiations with Bulgaria during the negotiations. Bulgarian surrender to Russia enabled the Reds to make the peace terms.

7. Russian suspicion of allied motives in invading the Balkans. It is asserted the Reds fear invasion of Greece, Albania, and Yugo-Slavia is calculated by the British to offset Russian influence and plans in the Mediterranean.

8. Russian refusal to permit American aviators captured in Romania to march in a victory parade with Red troops in Bucharest.

9. Russian recognition of Finnish peace terms without consultation with Britain.

10. Maintenance of a large [illegible] embassy staff in Mexico, which has given rise to suspicion that the Reds intend to exert heavy influence thruout Latin America at the end of the war.

11. Russian reluctance to coöperate with the allies by giving military missions freedom of the eastern front.

REDS RIP THRU NAZI LINE ABOVE EAST PRUSSIA

Only 10 Mi. from Border; Push On in Hungary.

LONDON, Oct. 9 [Monday].—(AP).—Two Russian armies have crashed 62 miles thru German lines on a 174 mile front in Lithuania in a four day offensive, Premier Stalin announced last night. He disclosed that the Reds had driven within 10 miles of German East Prussia and 29 miles of Memel, German annexed Baltic port.

Ripping thru heavy fortifications, the Russians also were advancing fast on the Latvian port of Liepaja and were threatening the approaches to the East Prussian rail center of Tilsit, Stalin and a bulletin disclosed.

72 Miles to Budapest.

Simultaneously, other flying soviet columns invading Hungary sped to within 72 miles of Budapest, reported a bag of 4,000 prisoners in two days, and reached the Tisza river, last big natural hurdle before the Magyar capital.

Moscow dispatches said an early Hungarian capitulation would come as no surprise, and there were reports of a cabinet crisis in Budapest. The Paris radio quoted Budapest diplomatic reports that German nationals had been ordered to flee to Germany.

Striking 41 miles northwest of Siauliai, along the highway and railway to Liepaja, one Russian column captured Mazeikiai, 48 miles southeast of Liepaja. Seda, 44 miles southeast of Liepaja, also fell.

Road Junction Seized.

On the Siauliai-Memel route the Red troops pushed 41 miles west of Siauliai and captured the road junction of Telsiai; then drove on thru Plunge, 20 miles from the East Prussian frontier. Thirteen miles to the south Rietavas was captured.

In thrusts southwest of Siauliai, Erzvilkas was captured. This village is 10 miles northeast of the East Prussian frontier as constituted after Nazi conquests and 34 miles northeast of Tilsit.

Moscow dispatches said the entire axis center in the Baltics had been crushed and that 15 German divisions, about 150,000 men, were on the verge of being trapped between Memel and besieged Riga, Latvian capital.

Reds Advance in Yugoslavia.

In Yugoslavia the Russians crossed the 3,000 foot Homoljske mountains in eastern Serbia and captured positions only 51 miles southeast of Belgrade, the Soviet bulletin said.

Berlin said that Red army troops had crossed the Danube 23 miles northwest of Belgrade, which Marshal Tito's headquarters declared was surrounded. The Germans placed the two Danube bridgeheads at the mouth of the Tisza river, which is 10 miles from a rail network whose seizure would trap Germans still in the lower Balkans.

The Soviet bulletin said that Red troops south of the Danube in Yugoslavia had captured Petrovac, 51 miles from Belgrade. The Russians were only 12 miles from the Belgrade-Nis railway.

Berlin said the Russians were using 500,000 troops in Hungary and Yugoslavia.

Moscow's bulletin said Russian bombers made a mass raid Saturday night on Breslau, about 150 miles southeast of Berlin, causing fires visible 124 miles.

NAZI WAR SUMMARY.

Germany's army bulletin yesterday said:

"On the Balkan front there is strong enemy pressure on the Tisza estuary. Near Belgrade and in the area of Zajecar fighting has been continued. In southern Hungary a fierce battle developed, particularly for ridges leading to the Koros. The soviets continued their attacks in the wooded passes of the Carpathians but were foiled.

"Our troops are waging heavy defense against further advancing infantry and tanks near Memel and upper Windau. Disengaging movements between the Dvina and Riga bay have been continued according to plan. Closely following enemy forces were repulsed.

FINNS SEIZE PORT OF KEMI; TAKE 500 OF NAZI GARRISON

HELSINKI, Oct. 8 (AP).—Capture of the port of Kemi, 20 miles east of Tornealv, and the interment of 500 Germans taken in the town by Finnish forces was announced today by the Finnish army command. A bulletin issued by the German high command today reported that four Russian divisions on the extreme northern wing of the Finnish front had launched an attack on the Nazi line south of the Ribachii peninsula and succeeded in pushing back advanced German positions.

YANKS EXTEND FRONT TO 12 MI. BEFORE BOLOGNA

ROME, Oct. 8 (AP). — American troops have broadened their front menacing Bologna to 12 miles and pushed thru mud and stout German opposition to within 10 miles of Castel San Pietro, important station on the Bologna-Rimini rail and highway route.

Tho still 12 miles from Bologna, the doughboys widened the sector below that key north Italian city by a westward push across the Bologna-Prato road.

Advance Near La Spezia.

The Americans reached the southern slopes of Mount Castellazi and the village of Giulietto in their closest approach to the big communications city. Castelnovo, east of the main Bologna-Florence road, was captured.

Negro troops of the United States 92d division on the western end of the Italian front won the twin heights of Mount Costa and Mount Canala, 20 miles southeast of La Spezia naval base and three miles inland, in the first significant gain on that sector in recent days.

On the 8th army's Adriatic front, Indian forces knocked the enemy from Mount Farneto, a mile and a half northwest of the upper Fiumicino river and 15 miles west of Rimini. Hampering flood waters of the Fiumcino river have dropped slightly.

Aided by Italian Patriots.

Italian patriots are fighting alongside British 8th army men in the mountain sector, official reports said, and have increased their activities far beyond allied lines, attacking German garrisons at Trieste, Imperia, and on the Bologna-Rimini highway.

[Sunday's German war bulletin said: "The 8th army resumed its attacks in the Etruscan Apennines after fierce fire preparation. Paratroops and grenadiers repulsed the enemy offensive in counter-thrusts to their starting positions. The enemy breach in the mountains west of Rocca Casciano has been sealed off. Mountain positions in the sources of the Rubicon changed hands several times."]

FASCISTS AIDED BY TENOR GIGLI, ITALIAN SAYS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, Italy, Oct. 8.—An Italian Partisan who had been condemned to death by the Fascist police corps and was saved by the allied entry into Rome has accused the noted tenor, Benjamino Gigli, of assisting at his questioning, it was announced today.

Gigli's accuser is Giuseppe Albani, a hunchback, who is said to have killed Nazis and Fascists during the Fascist regime and to have found himself with a price of $2,500 on his head. According to his story, as published here today, Emilio Cerroni, Gigli's brother-in-law, was one of the policemen who arrested, beat, and turned him over to the Germans. Gigli helped to question him and called him "criminal" and "murderer," Albani charged. Cerroni, one of three bodyguards now employed by Gigli, was arrested yesterday at the tenor's home.

FALL CAUSES DEATH.

Andrall E. Pearson, 72, of 1544 Arthur av., real estate dealer and former Jamesville, N. Y., glove manufacturer, died in County hospital yesterday from injuries suffered when he fell downstairs at his home Aug. 20.

BRITISH PAPERS TO SCAN UNIONS' REPORTER CURB

Only Members Could Cover Meetings.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 8.—London newspaper proprietors will meet tomorrow to decide what to do about the Trade Union congress ban on non-union reporters at its annual conference in Blackpool next week. The TUC represents nearly 7,000,000 British workers and the forthcoming conference, dealing mainly with peace time labor problems and post-war reconstruction, is expected to be one of the most important in its history.

It was decided a year ago to allow only members of the National Union of Journalists, affiliated with the congress, to attend its meetings but this is the first time the decision has been put into effect.

The ban raises an important issue both for the trade union movement and for the newspapers who demand the right to select their own reporters to cover the conference.

Urge Lifting of Ban.

Newspaper owners already have met with the TUC general council to urge the lifting of the ban. Describing the meeting in a report to the conference the general council said the newspaper chiefs warned that the ban probably "would prevent some of the newspapers from sending any representatives to the meetings they had regularly and faithfully reported for a long period."

The agenda for next week's conference contains 76 resolutions dealing with wage problems, hours, social insurance, industrial welfare, education, legislation, and government policy affecting the work of the unions. In addition it has to consider a special report on post-war reconstruction and another on the future structure and closer unity of the trade unions.

State Control Favored.

The reconstruction report calls for state control of the economic life of the country and national finance and government ownership or control of a wide range of industries—coal, iron, steel, and transport. It emphasizes the trade unions' demand for a big share in these controls.

To enable labor to play its full role in the proposed switchover from private enterprise to state ownership or control it was suggested the unions must coördinate their activities by speeding up the process of amalgamation and federation. With membership swollen by war workers, the unions possess reserves totaling 2 billion dollars and, according to some observers, now are at the peak of their influence and prosperity.

WAR JOBS DONE, 65 AIDS RETURN TO THE TRIBUNE

Retired or discharged after serving from one to four years in the United States army, navy, or marine corps, 65 employes of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE have returned to their former or better jobs.

Seventy-seven of the 797 Tribune employes who left their jobs for military service have been released. Eleven of those who returned to work subsequently left THE TRIBUNE and one was killed in an automobile accident. A dozen did not return.

That a welcome awaits those who are on military leave is assured by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, who recently said that not only will they be taken back in their jobs, but those who filled the jobs will be retained to make THE TRIBUNE bigger and better.

Folder Given on Release.

A leather folder, the personal gift of Col. McCormick, has been given to each Tribune employe released from military service. The folder has a place for a picture and is large enough to hold certificates of discharge and other important military papers.

Thirteen men who left THE TRIBUNE to serve their country have lost their lives. Four are missing in action, two are prisoners of war in Germany, and one is interned in Switzerland. Four others have been wounded in action and now are recovering.

Lieutenants Graham Trevor and John T. O'Brien and Raymond J. Zeilinski and Joseph R. Deferville are missing in action. Robert Freislinger and Charles Shanley are prisoners, and Jerry Walters is interned in Switzerland.

Pacific Air Hero Returns.

The wounded include Capt. William Denslow, Lt. Arthur Middleton, Robert A. Handley, and A. Giannini.

Outstanding among those who are back at work is Lt. Gene Filip, a member of the staff of W-G-N. Lt. Filip, 24, was commissioned a bombardier and spent 32 months in the service. All his combat flying was done in the Pacific theater.

Lt. Filip is the wearer of the silver star citation, air medal and Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster indicating a second wound. Two Japanese machine gun bullets from a Zero went thru his legs the first time he became a casualty. He went back into action and a short time later suffered shrapnel wounds of his face and head and lost the sight of his left eye.

Others who have returned to The Tribune staff include Edward J. Barry, Andrew T. Murphy, Harold A. Revoir, George T. Schreiber, Frank Segreti, Carl O. Strand, Louis Wolf, George Morgenstern, Milton J. Dempsey, James C. Gann, Bernard Widera, Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen, Robert M. Morrison Jr., Karl G. Sward, Jack Brickhouse, Tom Cafferty, Stanton Kramer, Joseph Piatkiewicz, Clyde J. White, and George Williams.

FOUR FROM CHICAGO TELL HARDSHIPS AS CAPTIVES IN BULGARIA

Stories of hardship and mistreatment in Bulgarian prison camps were related yesterday by four Chicago airmen among 300 recently returned to 15th army air force headquarters in Italy.

Lt. J. R. Rissman.

Lt. J. K. Whitmore.

They are Lt. Jack R. Rissman, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rissman, 3214 Eastwood av.; Lt. Joseph K. Whitmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whitmore, 5547 Kenmore av.; Staff Sgt. Arthur C. Mullen, son of Mrs. A. C. Allen, 13824 Wentworth av., and Staff Sgt. Joseph J. Barta, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barta, 2715 S. St. Louis av.

Lt. Rissman told of spending two days in a torture chamber when he refused to reveal information about his squadron.

KOISO LAYS JAP DEFEAT TO LACK OF PRODUCTION

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 8 (AP).—An appeal to the Japanese to increase war production "to crush the enemy forces with a single stroke," was made today by Premier Gen. Kuniaki Koiso.

Koiso attributed the "gradual retreat" of the Japanese in the Pacific to the fact that "home front production was not sufficient to cope with the general counter-offensive of the enemy."

The premier spoke bitterly against Japanese "in leading positions in society" who are self-satisfied, who hoard for profit, who deal in black markets, or who dare "to commit deeds against morals."

WOMAN IN NAVY 15 YEARS TELLS OF PACIFIC WAR

Lt. (j. g.) Sophia G. Monteville, who has been in the navy for 15 years, arrived in Chicago yesterday after 12 months aboard a hospital ship in the South Pacific, where she had a close-up view of action against the Japs at the Marshalls and Kwajalein Islands.

Lt. Sophia Monteville.

She talked of two things, the bravery and courage of the wounded who were taken aboard her ship by medical corpsmen and the amazing growth of the navy's hospital service from peace time levels.

"We didn't have much time to watch bombs and shells exploding or war ships slugging it out because we had to take care of the wounded," she said. "Some of them were brought straight from the battle."

Lt. Monteville, who will be assigned to the Navy pier after her leave, was stationed at Honolulu before Pearl Harbor and left there in January, 1941, arriving at Great Lakes six months later after being delayed in Chicago. The tour of duty just completed was her second aboard a hospital ship.

night counter-attack erased half the Americans' 100 yard gain of Saturday inside the mile and a half long fortress.

Germans made sallies from bulk-headed underground passages, and also fought from pillboxes raised by hydraulic lifts. Allied planes pounded supporting forts across the Moselle river, knocking out guns that had taken a toll of Driant's attackers, and sending huge chunks of concrete gun emplacements sailing into the sky.

Rake Chain of Hills.

Dispatches from the front said a hill chain east of the river was knocked nearly bald by the fierce air attack and enemy guns were temporarily silenced. But late in the day one of the German long range guns opened up again.

Between Metz and Aachen, 3d army men captured Echternach, Grevenmacher, and Wormeldange on the Luxembourg-German border. Only a few German patrols remained in the tiny duchy.

Along the seaward flank of the allied armies, Canadians made slight advances above Antwerp against stubborn resistance, and captured the hamlet of Hoogerheide, only 1,500 yards from the Germans' flight road on the Flushing spit which connects the islands north of the Schelde river estuary with the mainland.

Canadian infantry clung to their toehold on the north bank of the Leopold canal, altho their bridgehead had been compressed by German pressure. On the Canadian eastern flank, on a line three miles outside Tilburg, several local enemy counter-attacks were beaten back with approximately 200 Germans killed and 30 prisoners taken.

Straighten Nijmegen Line.

Air reconnaissance this morning of the Walcheren area flooded by a new breach in the dike by R. A. F. bombings showed approximately eight miles already inundated.

To the northeast, American air borne infantry throttled a German effort to push into the area north of Nijmegen, killing or capturing at least 200 of the enemy.

The British between Nijmegen and Arnhem straightened their line, taking the village of Halderen. Supplies were steadily rolling into Holland.

The 7th army, composed of United States and French forces, on the southern end of the allied front took two villages in the Vosges foothills, but yielded ground northeast of Epinal to a tank led enemy counter-blow. Enemy counter-assaults were driven off in the Le Thillot area 18 miles north of Belfort.

Destroy 132 Gun Positions.

Ninth air force fighter-bombers gave the Siegfried line a super-pounding yesterday, destroying 132 heavy gun positions that have been slowing down the American 1st and 3d armies.

Weather was described as "universally good" inside Germany, but there was heavy fog over Holland, Belgium, and northeastern France that kept 8th air force and R. A. F. heavy bombers grounded.

Lightning bombers smashed an ammunition train and a passenger train in Germany. A Thunderbolt squadron raked German air fields, destroying three planes and damaging seven.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Sunday's German war bulletin as broadcast from Berlin said:

"The large scale battle in the area north of Aachen is being continued with undiminished violence. Americans in this sector continued their attacks after fierce fire preparation and with the support of strong battleplane contingents. They got stuck in their fight, however, for pillboxes and forward strongholds were stubbornly defended by our troops. A heavy battle for some of the breaches is still in full swing.

"Mopping up operations in the Parroy forest are steadily progressing. Enemy troops have been bottled up northeast of Epinal. Enemy pressure has been intensified on both sides of Remiremont."

Yanks Closing In on Aachen

Robert Montgomery Ends Navy Duty; in Hollywood

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 8 (AP).—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios said tonight that Lt. Comdr. Robert Montgomery, former screen actor, will go on inactive duty tomorrow after three years' navy service. Montgomery is still under contract but M-G-M said it has no "immediate" plans for him. The 42 year old actor arrived here last night.

YANKS FIGHT OFF NAZI WILD WEST DRIVE INTO TOWN

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 8. — The Germans, bitterly defending the approaches to their Gérardmer-St. Dié line in the Vosges mountains, threw in counter-attacks with infantry and tanks again to hold American advances to a matter of a few hundred yards.

It was touch and go for a while for the Yanks in Vagney, seven miles east of Remiremont. Yesterday our infantry fought from street to street and house to house to clear the village and seemingly had all under control. Our patrols had even ventured farther eastward toward a ridge.

Then the Germans struck back with more than 500 foot troops and several Mark V tanks that came in on two roads. One tank raced into the town from the southeast, and blasted at buildings with its 75 mm. gun while crew men hurled grenades thru windows. One of our tanks was knocked out and grenades just missed one of our command posts.

Infantry Driven Back.

The German infantry, however, ran into grief, for our troops deployed quickly and blocked roads. After a brisk fight the Nazi infantry dropped back, leaving several dead. A Panther tank, finding its position in the town untenable, ran the gantlet east out of Vagney. It came right thru our patrol, but the G. I.s didn't have weapons heavy enough to stop it. Today the enemy dropped 105 mm. shells into the village.

Farther north, at Herpelmont, a junction of five roads 13 miles east of Epinal, other American infantry reached the city limits. One of our machine gun crews distinguished itself by killing or wounding more than 30 Germans.

Nazis in Yank's Bed.

Pvt. Edward Stuba, Youngstown, O., came up with two German prisoners he caught under his blankets last night. Before going on guard detail he climbed into a barn loft for a nap. Later he went on duty. Returning a few hours later, he spied his blankets at the other end of the loft with two men under them. Stuba jerked the blankets away—and there were the two Germans!

Nazis' Hopes in Aachen, Trier, and Metz.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

The success of the British second army in driving a wedge 50 miles deep into the German lines up to Arnhem is beginning to bear fruit. It has made it possible to secure a base, facing eastward north of Aachen, sufficiently large to launch an offensive. This was started on Oct. 2 by American troops.

This has been represented as an attempt to breach the west wall. There has been no official statement as to the mission of this operation. It might be a serious attempt to punch a gap thru the west wall but this seems unlikely as the 10 mile front is small.

According to German reports, the attack is in two parts. An American cavalry division, using motor vehicles instead of horses, is attacking northeastwardly from Sittard. Five miles to the south two American infantry divisions are attacking to the east, and in the first three days advanced about four miles to Ubach and beyond. It is the latter attack which is the main one. Its immediate task is to cut the roads leading from Germany into Aachen.

Nazis on Line They Chose.

Aachen was reached by the Americans on Sept. 3 after the 1st army had sped 200 miles from Paris in four days. Some of the 1st's forces had been delayed by action against German rear guards.

The United States 3d army reached Metz on Sept. 4. A day or so later the British 2d army arrived at the border between Belgium and Holland.

These rapid advances gave many the impression that the Germans were about down and out.

What really happened was that the German high command had decided to withdraw to a line roughly where the Germans are now. The order for the retirement apparently was issued about Aug. 16. The Germans had had about two weeks to prepare and were waiting when the allies arrived.

Allies Try an End Run.

After the first attacks against Aachen failed, the next effort was to go around the south end. The drive went thru the German lines for about eight miles to Stolberg, where it got stuck. This success, however, gave a base from which to attack Aachen from the south as well as from the west.

The allies got into Aachen but they have been unable to drive the Germans out of all of it. The latter have roads leading to the northeast out of Aachen. Over these they bring in troops and supplies at night.

The attack thru Ubach, if it can be pushed a little farther, will cut the roads and establish a base for attacking Aachen from the north. It might even be possible to encircle the city.

Three Cities May Hold Wall's Fate.

Thru Aachen run the great railroad lines and the main multiple-lane hard surfaced roads. The possession and use of these is almost essential for an advance beyond in order to keep the troops supplied. There are no detours around Aachen suitable for the heavy traffic that flows behind a modern army. Similarly, Trier and Metz block the roads and the railroads which are south of Aachen and north of the Vosges mountains. This is a 125 mile front.

This explains why the fighting along this part of the German border is centered in these three places. If they can be taken that part of the West Wall may go down quickly.

After the allies discovered that the war wasn't over, a halt became necessary to bring up huge quantities of supplies for an army stated to number 2 to 3 million men. The Germans have had six weeks to recondition their lines and get set. They worked constantly to improve their positions.

Strong Earthquake Hits Vienna, Nazis Broadcast

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP).—A "strong earthquake" shook Vienna yesterday, the German news agency DNB reported today in a broadcast.

Germans Flee Southern Greece

AIRMEN FIND NAZIS FLEEING FROM ATHENS

British Troops Pound Corinth Defenses.

PATRAI, Greece, Oct. 8 (AP).—The Germans were reported fleeing from Athens today before British forces hammering at the gate to the Greek mainland at Corinth.

Corinth, guarding the southern entrance to the Corinth isthmus, which leads 45 miles eastward to the Greek capital, was reported deserted except for several hundred Greek puppet troops.

British commanders said the Germans were in flight from Greece by land, sea, and air, hurrying to get back to Germany before the Russians and hostile forces of the Balkan countries slam the door.

The report that the flight from Athens had begun came from Spitfire pilots operating from Greek bases. They said they saw ferry-type craft and at least two fairly large ships in the harbor and attacked them with rockets.

Planes Hit Air Fields.

Thus far in the whirlwind campaign thru the Peloponnesus the British have captured about 2,000 Greek "security" [collaborationist] troops and large stores of arms.

Seven bridges over a main highway near Rion, east of here, were blown by the fleeing Germans. Royal engineers quickly bridged the gaps by using empty steel oil drums which the Germans had left behind.

Take Port South of Corinth.

ROME, Italy, Oct. 8 (AP).—Capture of the port of Navplion, 40 miles south of Corinth, at the top of the Gulf of Nauplia in the northeastern part of the Peloponnesus, was announced today in an allied bulletin.

The capture of Corinth would seal off any Germans left in southern Greece, but it was apparent from the lack of resistance that most of them had fled.

The fact that Corinth was threatened represented a tremendous movement of the light forces invading Greece, since those marching on the strategic city last were reported 70 miles away at Rion.

Warship Sinks Destroyer.

The British destroyer Termagant, harassing enemy shipping and the Greek coast to head off any units trying to withdraw from the multitude of Greek islands, ventured into the northern Aegean and sank an enemy destroyer and seriously damaged another in a sea battle near the entrance of the Gulf of Salonika on Friday night.

The bulletin also announced that British warships had moved close to the Albanian shore and plastered enemy targets north of Corfu, off Greece's west coast, on Thursday.

EDDY, CHICAGO GENERAL, LEADS SMASH AT METZ

NANCY, France, Oct. 8 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy of Chicago, 52 years old, who came up thru the army the hard way, was disclosed today as the commander of the U. S. 12th army corps, which is leading the new advance between Nancy and Metz.

Maj. Gen. M. S. Eddy.

Units participating in the push include the 35th infantry division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Paul W. Baade; the 18th infantry division under Maj. Gen. Horace L. McBride, and the 6th armored division led by Maj. Gen. Robert W. Crow.

Eddy is the general who outmaneuvered Field Marshal von Rundstedt to crack the German stand on the Moselle river. Before that he had made the 9th division famous in the North Africa, Sicily, and Cherbourg peninsula campaigns. It was his outstanding work as commander of the 9th which led to his elevation to command the 12th corps.

The need to build up supplies after the rapid advance had brought him to a halt along the Moselle for a number of days, and the Germans had time to regroup. They were firmly established on the high ground across the river. Eddy sent part of the 4th armored and most of the 35th infantry division south of Nancy.

Surprises the Germans.

He gambled that the Germans would believe Hitler's dictum that the allies are "military idiots," and would not expect us to try crossing in the south because, instead of just one river there were six sizable tributaries to negotiate.

The German command, turning to guard the southeast, took its eyes off the vital sector between Metz and Nancy, and Eddy was quick to take advantage.

He had held back the armored combat team from the 4th and most of the 80th division. The infantry crossed the river near Lousy at night. Two bridges were built. On Sept. 12 the Germans realized their mistake. A counter-attack almost reached a pontoon bridge.

Holds the D. S. C.

At the most critical moment up rolled Eddy in a jeep and, with German shells falling all round, he ordered the armored force across to attack. For most of Sept. 13 the armored division rolled across, and by night the battle was won and German defenses on the Moselle were broken and outflanked.

Eddy, who looks like a kindly college professor, rose from lieutenant to major in the last war, and fought over much of the same ground around St. Mihiel which his command took in this war. He rose steadily in the army, and when the African invasion began he was in command of the 9th, which landed three combat teams in French Morocco and Algeria, took Bizerte, and spearheaded fighting in Sicily.

For personally leading his troops time after time under machine gun and artillery fire in the Cherbourg campaign, Eddy was awarded the distinguished service cross.

BORN ON NORTH SIDE.

Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy was born near Sheridan road and Buena av. on the north side and has three brothers in Chicago suburbs, John E. Eddy of Hinsdale, W. Sprague Eddy, Winnetka, and George Eddy Jr. of Evanston. Their mother, Mrs. George Eddy of Evanston, died last August.

25 JAP COASTAL SHIPS SMASHED BY U. S. BOMBERS

Philippines and Borneo Oil Port Hit.

ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Oct. 9 [Monday]—(AP).—Allied planes sank or destroyed 25 Japanese coastal vessels and small craft in strikes around Ceram and Halmahera, headquarters reported today. Air fields also were bombed during the widespread raids Friday.

Four Japanese float planes were destroyed at Zamboanga, southern Philippines, by a patrol plane. The assault was aimed at Wolfe field and the seaplane base. Ramp installations, a hangar and a bomber were damaged.

Hit 23 Off Ceram.

Twenty-three of the coastal vessels were hit off Ceram by medium bombers, fighter-bombers, and patrol planes. Thirty-four tons of explosives were dropped on airdromes and barracks. Fighter-bombers hit the Kaoe airdrome on Halmahera with 1,000 pound bombs and set fire to a small freighter and a coastal vessel.

Allied bombers dropped 50 tons of explosives on Rabaul defenses and troop concentrations at Wide Bay, New Britain. Other planes attacked New Ireland and Bougainville targets. One allied plane was lost.

Yanks Gain on Peleliu.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Oct. 8 (AP).—New land gains against Japanese remnants in the southern Palaus and aerial attacks against the largest northern island of the chain were reported today in a navy bulletin.

On Peleliu, marines and soldiers advanced yesterday against Nipponese holding out on Umorbrogel mountain. Supporting marine Corsairs dropped 1,000 pound bombs on Japanese positions.

American planes attacked Babelthuap, in the northern part of the archipelago, destroying a fuel dump and two small buildings in two villages.

Set Up Military Rule.

Today's bulletin disclosed that military government was established on Peleliu Sept. 16, second day of the invasion. This jurisdiction was extended to nearby Kongauru and Ngesebus islets two weeks later.

The Japanese toll since the invasion started: on Peleliu, 11,083 killed, 214 captured; on Angaur, 1,150 dead, 11 imprisoned.

STILWELL'S AIR FORCE BAGS 114 SHIPS IN MONTH

Destroy 163,000 Tons in September.

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 8 (AP).—Planes of the United States 14th air force destroyed more than 163,000 tons of Japanese shipping and killed nearly 4,000 enemy troops during September, a bulletin from Gen. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

More than 110,000 tons of seagoing shipping representing 42 vessels more than 100 feet in length were sunk, bringing the total of enemy shipping sunk since January to an aggregate of 233 ships of nearly half a million tons, said Stilwell.

Eleven ships totaling 11,700 tons probably were sunk and 61 vessels of 41,400 tons were damaged, making a monthly total of 114 vessels successfully attacked.

Sink Naval Vessel.

In addition the 14th army air force sank 445 enemy boats of less than 100 feet as well as a naval vessel of similar size, probably sank two naval vessels and 46 miscellaneous craft and damaged two naval vessels of less than 100 feet and more than 1,700 miscellaneous craft.

Much of the damage represented in the category of less than 100 feet in sunk, probably sunk, and damaged was Japanese troops and supply shipping on the Siang river and on the West river in Kwangtung.

The Chinese high command reported that the enemy's drive to outflank Kweilin, air base in Kwangsi province, momentarily was stalled and that Chinese troops had scored minor successes against the newest Japanese offensive in Fukien province.

Hold Japs at Bay.

The high command said the enemy was being held at bay by Chinese forces 12 miles west of Hingan and 25 miles north of Kweilin, where Chinese defenders were reported prepared to make the city China's Stalingrad.

In Fukien province, where a Japanese amphibious force landed 10 days ago, the high command said Chinese troops had recaptured Diongloh, 15 miles southeast of Foochow, last Chinese held port on the east coast. The high command said yesterday that the enemy had put ashore additional troops northwest of the capital.

CAROL, LUPESCU TELL MEXICAN FRIENDS GOOD-BY

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Oct. 8 (AP).—Former King Carol and Madame Elena Lupescu bade farewell to their friends here tonight. Early tomorrow they start for Brazil with the undoubted hope of returning to Romania before very long. Of his future Carol said, "I have no plans beyond Brazil."

Altho he will not put it into words, it is obvious that he hopes to return to his own country. From Brazil his route would be via Portugal, where he was welcomed by Premier Salazar when he fled from Romania, and then from Spain.

Carol and Madame Lupescu received about 300 guests in a large salon of Mexico City's newest restaurant.

AIRMEN BLAST SUPPLY ROUTES TO NAZI FRONTS

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP).—The mighty allied aerial offensive against German targets continued today with medium, light, and fighter bombers blasting Nazi communications and supply depots.

More than 300 9th air force Marauders and Havocs raked German communications and supply depots in the Rhineland and Ruhr servicing the Nazi armies opposing the American invasion of the reich.

Fighter bombers, slashing thru more than 200 Nazi fighters, ranged in great strength thru the Rhine valley and behind the German armies from Saarbrucken to Dusseldorf, bombing and strafing air fields, military positions, and water and rail transport.

Fighter bombers of the 12th tactical air force destroyed 27 enemy locomotives and 40 railroad cars and shot down two ME-109s. They raided five enemy air fields and knocked out two gun emplacements. Fifteen enemy planes were destroyed on the ground and rail installations at Strasbourg, Boblingen, Frieberg, and Offenburg were strafed.

American losses from British and Italian bases on Saturday were 51 bombers and 15 fighters. Eighth air force escort planes knocked down 22 Nazi fighters. Ninth air force fighters and bombers chalked up 16 kills against an equal number of losses.

RABAUL HAS 120 HOUSES NOW; IT ONCE HAD 1,800

Mitchell Squadron Has Destroyed Them.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 13TH AIR FORCE, at a Pacific base, Oct. 9 [Monday].—In 247 raids on Rabaul during six months a group of B-25 bombers commanded by Col. Harry [Lighthorse] Wilson, has razed all but 120 of the 1,800 houses in that ex-city. Satisfied, the squadron is now working on the Dutch East Indies. The figures were released today by Maj. Matt Little, a former Chicago radio parts manufacturer, now on Wilson's staff.

Sgt. Raymond Bowen, 3339 S. Seeley av., was waist gunner in a plane which took part in the 500th mission of his Liberator bomber outfit. Lt. Raymond Adasiewicz, 3104 S. Aberdeen st., was pilot of a P-38 [Lightning] on the first fighter sweep over the Philippines. Lt. William Skolnik, 1355 E. 63d st., has completed 13 months of flying transport planes over New Guinea.

Pvt. Robert Quinn, 7029 S. Prairie av., is post exchange clerk and Pvt. 1st Class Anthony Porcard, 1024 N. Drake av., clerks in airforce headquarters.

Some Newcomers Listed.

Newcomers include Sgt. Fred Sun, 844 E. 43d st., engineer-gunner; Sgt. Michael Dufalo, 3331 N. Springfield av., radio man-gunner, and Pvt. David Soutar Jr., 1045 N. Ridgeway av. Lt. Robert Coale, who once took the Gallup poll in Chicago, is pilot of a transport flying airmen to and from furloughs in Sydney, Australia. He calls his plane the "Atabrine Airliner."

Lt. Kenneth Walkoe, 3930 N. Oak Park av., is assistant engineer-officer for a B-25 outfit at Sansapor. Maj. Charles Humble, who had a Packard automobile sales agency in Milwaukee, is supply officer for the same outfit.

Bronze stars, air medals, or oak leaf clusters have been awarded to Lt. Raymond McCabe, 7953 S. Muskegon av.; Lt. Robert McCaw, 9726 S. Hoyne av.; Sgt. Mark Kohn, 3334 W. 66th pl., and Sgt. Harold Thiele, 819 Cornelia av.

Chicagoans Promoted.

Capt. Leo Engemann, 11305 S. Fairfield av., Corp. Samuel Schwarz, 3900 W. 19th st.; Tech. Sgt. Irving Hoffman, 2103 N. Western av.; Lt. William Hughes, III., 620 Sheridan rd., Evanston, Ill.; Lt. Warren McMillan, 1952 Lincoln av.; Maj. Saul Weislow, 5330 Harper av.; Corp. Bernard Klipp, 3259 W. Lexington st.; Staff Sgt. Eugene Bosiacki, 3925 N. Lowell av.; Staff Sgt. Roy Hinkel, 3163 N. Francisco av., and Corp. Robert Cloud, 1531 Touhy av.

You go up to Capt. Cortez Houston of Fulton, Miss., find he is going your way, ask him for a ride, climb in, and find you are the only passenger in a plane built for 25 persons. You ask him why.

"Both wings are loose from getting caught in a down draft, one is bent from a collision, and we lost one motor yesterday," he says. "We are taking her down to junk her. You're welcome to come along."

TRIBUNE readers who have requested the names of service men to whom they desire to send gifts for Christmas, will receive a list of articles which service men will most appreciate when donors are furnished with the names early in December.

Letters from TRIBUNE readers anxious to help brighten the Christmas season for some soldier, sailor, or marine confined in a hospital continued to pour into the TRIBUNE office yesterday. They were expressive of deep appreciation for the part this newspaper is playing in enabling them to remember a sick or wounded service man at Christmas time.

Persons who desire to send Christmas gifts to service men in hospitals need only fill in the coupon which appears on this page and mail with self-addressed envelope to the Chistmas Gift Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The coupon must be inclosed in an envelope and not pasted to a postcard.

JAPS FALL BACK AFTER MOVING 2 MILES INTO INDIA

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, Oct. 8 (AP).—An official spokesman said today a Japanese reconnaissance force which penetrated two miles into India in the lower Sangu river border area had retreated after being contacted by West African patrols. The Japanese force was estimated at 400 and the operation by the enemy was "to test our hold on the Indian border," he said.

A bulletin from Adm. Mountbatten's headquarters said the western African patrols were "in close contact with the enemy." The Sangu parallels the Kaladan river but flows in the opposite direction, northward.

R. A. F. Liberators made a 2,000 mile night round trip and bombed the new Thailand-Burma railroad, concentrating their attack from 100 foot altitude near Pitsanuloke, 240 miles north of Bangkok.

your state to positively make no political indorsements until approved by regional and national offices of CIO-PAC."

"I presume this means that state groups can't act without approval; the language is plain," Brown said.

"I only meant I didn't want these fellows running around loose until they got together in the various districts," said McKeough. "I may have been inadvertent in my language."

For Him to Decide.

"It is absolute written evidence that you expect to make indorsements," Brown said, and McKeough answered, "That is for you to decide."

Brown and McKeough also debated whether the CIO director made speeches in that capacity or as a politician.

"I have a dual personality," said McKeough. "At union meetings I am a CIO speaker. At a ward meeting I am just a Democrat."

When Brown asked McKeough about reports of forced collection from union members, the witness said the only instance he knew of was the complaint made by Rep. Grant [R., Ind.] that his brother had been solicited. That, McKeough said, was a special assessment of $1 that had been collected for several years. Brown declared it was made to replace the $100,000 fund given by the union to the fund now frozen.

VETO HILLMAN AS DEMOCRATS' VOICE AT FORUM

New York, Oct. 8 [Special].—Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO political action committee, and Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, were up in arms today over announcement that Hillman would represent the Democratic side of the Presidential election program at the Herald Tribune forum Wednesday night.

Hannegan told reporters that if he had been asked to furnish a speaker for the forum he would "have suggested a regular Democrat" and not Hillman.

Hillman sent a telegram withdrawing as a speaker from the program. He said he would have been glad to speak as the PAC chairman, but could not subscribe to the "erroneous impression" that "I would speak as a Democrat."

Hannegan said the Democratic party was not asked to provide a speaker for the forum. If it had, he stated, "I would have some one from the Democratic party and not a representative from the American Labor party."

ESCAPES DEATH 3 TIMES IN ONE BOMBER'S CRASH

FIFTH U. S. AIR FORCE HDQ., New Guinea [Delayed]—(AP).—Three times Lt. Robert D. Best of Frankfort, Ind., faced death and three times he escaped—all within a matter of hours.

First he nearly burned to death in the pilot's seat of his Mitchell as flames flickered around him from burning hydraulic fluid touched off by a Japanese bullet. Then he nearly drowned when his bomber broke in two after landing on the sea.

Third, after fighting his way 40 feet to the surface and swimming to a life raft with his crew, they paddled until nearly exhausted to keep from washing ashore on a Japanese held island. They had drifted one-third of the way when a Catalina rescued them. Best's wife, Theana, of Sandersville, Ga., gave birth to a daughter two days later.

Charles Fischetti, Cousin of Al Capone, Arrested

Charles Fischetti, 44, cousin of Al Capone and once his bodyguard, was arrested yesterday by Chief John McGinnis of the county highway police as Fischetti sat in an expensive automobile at Barry av. and Sheridan rd. He was taken to the Willow Springs county highway lockup.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by M. Seitter, 6454 Laflin st.]

THE QUESTION.

When did you say "Never again!"?

WHERE ASKED.

Adams-Monroe subway station.

THE ANSWERS.

Blanche Weiter, laboratory technician, 6927 Normal blvd.—Another girl and I felt very unhappy because we hadn't been invited to a friend's wedding reception. We decided to celebrate anyway and walked into a swanky establishment for dinner. We took one look at the menu, checked our wallets, and left.

Mrs. Morrie Alstrom, housewife, 5023 N. Winchester av.—My husband is a contractor and several times he has gotten army construction jobs. When he went down to Missouri I locked up the house and went with him. It was an overcrowded army town and we had to live in a tourist cabin more than a year.

Angele Carol Prutz, model, 5030 Kenmore av.—When I was 10 years old my uncle took me up for a seven minute airplane ride. The instant we left the ground I became panic stricken and wanted to go down. I guess the thought of being so far away from everything with nothing apparently holding us up frightened me.

Marguerite Van Puymbrouck, multigraph operator, 56 W. Goethe st.—The last time I slept until the last minute and then flew out of bed and rushed to work I swore it would never happen again. I feel so much better if I get up early, dress leisurely, eat a good breakfast, and get to work a few minutes early.

Carolyn Enid, model, 142 E. Ontario st.—I was divorced recently and my first marriage was my last. A girl who is career minded and hopes to make something of herself is better off single, I think. Marriage is fine for a girl who plans to be a model wife and keep house, but if she has many outside interests it doesn't work.

Mrs. Harold Jensen, art student, 3102 Cullom av.—Last Sunday afternoon my husband went across the hall to help a man fix his camera. It was time for dinner and I expected him to return in 15 minutes. He was gone three hours, so I took the dog and the car and went to dinner alone. I was sorry tho when I returned.

NATURE STROKES HUES OF AUTUMN OVER WOODLAND

Gold and scarlet leaves of sugar maples are dancing in the sun—ballerinas of the slowly coloring spectacle of autumn in the forest preserves.

Smooth sumac is waving parasols of purple-red leaves. Wild asters, white and lavender, are to be seen in the brightest profusion in years. An occasional dandelion lifts a face revived to May time butter-yellow freshness by the recent rains.

Followers of the theory that it takes a frost or cold snap to make brilliant color insist that the hues are somber compared to what will meet the eye when Jack Frost gets a nip at nature. The oaks are still green and brown with only occasional shafts of their usual reds and yellows.

With that promise, sightseers have ahead of them miles of trails of beauty in the 36,000 acres of forest preserve. For even without frost or cold, the ash and linden are dipped in sunlight.

Chicagoan Severely Hurt in Eastern Plane Crash

KING OF EGYPT FIRES DICTATORIAL PREMIER AND ENTIRE CABINET

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 10 (AP).—King Farouk has dismissed the Egyptian cabinet under Nahas Pasha. The news caused a sensation in Cairo.

It has long been known that differences existed between the king and the prime minister. It was believed no questions of foreign policy were involved.

Formation of a new government was entrusted to Achmed Maher Pasha. Palace circles said the king's action was motivated "by his desire to see Egypt ruled constitutionally," the inference being that the previous premier was governing in a dictatorial manner.

ONE DIES, 1 HURT IN HOTEL BLAZE; 30 ARE RESCUED

Nathan M. Purdin, 62, was burned to death, and his wife, Margaret, 50 injured early today in a fire that trapped them in their room on the second floor of the Crescent hotel, 4065 Ellis av.

Mrs. Purdin leaped from a window when she and her husband found front and rear staircases cut off by flames shooting upward from a rubbish fire in the basement. Thirty other guests in rooms near that of the Purdins were carried down ladders by firemen.

Mrs. Purdin was taken to the Chicago hospital.

Finally Passes Test for Naval Aviation.

[This is the second of four articles relating to the exploits of Comdr. Norman [Bus] Miller, navy squadron leader, who has wrought more damage on Japanese shipping and military installations than any other aviator in the war.]

BY LT. KEN CLAYTON.

Eighteen year old Bus Miller was strolling home after his weekly stint as trombonist in the Winston-Salem, N. C., band concert on June 29, 1926, when he decided to join the navy.

His decision was to cost the Japanese 66 ships sunk or damaged, and untold weeks of anguish 18 years later when Comdr. Norman M. Miller's fabulous aerial exploits in his PB4Y search plane were to earn for him the title of the United States navy's "one man task force."

When Bus reached home that evening, he woke his father and told him what he had in mind.

"I didn't know what I wanted to be—a doctor or lawyer or what," Miller recalls now, "and that seemed like as good a bet as any."

Enlists as Apprentice.

Next day, Bus and his father drove to Raleigh. The navy recruiting officer pointed out that Bus would have to enlist that day, June 30, in order to be eligible for naval academy appointment, since such an appointee must have served in the navy at least a year and must be no more than 20 years old.

On that day the "one man task force" of 1944 started his naval career as an apprentice seaman. He earned his Annapolis appointment the hard way and was graduated with the class of '31. His orders took him to sea aboard the battleship Nevada.

He had studied theories of flight at the academy and liked the course. He had received 15 hours of dual instruction and had soloed. When he was called up for his aviation physical examination, however, he didn't pass because of his eyes. Later at Bremerton, Wash., Miller was given a second chance and failed again.

Finally He Passes.

"That almost broke my heart," Miller admits. He had resigned himself to a career as a line officer when he got a third chance.

"They were dipping into classes later than mine for pilot material, so I knew this would be my last chance," he says. "I had high hopes until I found out I was to be examined by Lt. Comdr. Guy Fish. Everybody told me he'd flunk me sure. But he didn't."

Miller was not completely unknown when he began his Pacific exploits. He was one of the half dozen navy men entitled to wear the commendation ribbon recognizing the inauguration of the Southwest Pacific air line from Hawaii to Australia. He had flown the first neutrality patrol in the Atlantic on Sept. 9, 1939, and had taken a congressional committee on a tour of all Caribbean bases at a time when war was threatening.

In January, 1942, he accompanied Prime Minister Churchill to Bermuda and brought the governor of Bermuda back to Washington. Then, with a few hours' rest, he took off for Soerabaja, Java, halfway around the world, with supplies badly needed by our PBYs in the Pacific. This tedious journey proved a heartbreaking as well as a backbreaking one for Miller.

Becomes Squadron Skipper.

He was one of the flyers finally forced to retreat from Soerabaja when only a handful of PBYs, P-40s, and B-17s left a few hours before the Japs took over there.

Miller then moved back to Pearl Harbor for patrol work in Flying Fortresses and Liberators. Later he was transferred to Jacksonville, Fla., to the naval aviation training program. He was made skipper of VB-109 in July, 1943, was ordered into the Pacific with that outfit on Nov. 4, and moved into an active combat area last Dec. 31.

Bus Miller's nickname, an abbreviation of "Buster," was given him by an elderly Negro on duty at the White House when Miller was two years old. Little Norman's parents had left him in care of the attendant while they toured the President's home; when they returned for their son the old Negro was feeding him bread and molasses and jovially addressing him as "Buster."

Has Five Children.

The "one man task force" is a six-foot, black-haired, brown-eyed southerner with few hobbies and fewer minor vices. His most absorbing interests are his flying and his family. He and his wife, Thelma, have five youngsters ranging from 3 to 12 years of age, three boys and two girls.

Between flights, Miller plans each moment of his next mission as if it were a major campaign. He scans every picture, every map, and every report available on the areas he expects to strike. He reviews each of his own missions in a careful study of pictures taken from his own plane, the "Thundermug."

His vigorous leadership has paid off in squadron performance. His VB-109, basically a search outfit, is credited with masthead height attacks on 147 enemy ships. Of these 43 were sunk, 91 damaged. These figures exclude landing barges, sampans, fishing boats, and similiar vessels.

Expects a Long Life.

The man who raided Truk seven times answers seriously the question as to how he expects to live long enough to enjoy such a life.

"Well," he says indignantly, "I don't see why not. All four of my grandparents lived to be past 80."

The Japs at Truk were unable to believe their eyes when they received their first demonstration of Miller's unorthodox lower than level bombing tactics.

Miller was to make six more equally effective flights over Truk lagoon during the next two months, but none of those subsequent attacks was destined to fool the enemy quite so neatly as did this first fantastic raid.

Altho the Japs, on guard as usual, were aware of the low flying Thundermug's presence over their lagoon, they were so confident that only a friendly craft would roar over Truk at such a foolhardy altitude that they flashed on helpful lights to warn the pilots of various aircraft obstacles.

Bombs Straddle Destroyer.

Miller grasped his momentary advantage and swung into a bombing run on a destroyer lying in the main anchorage of Moen Island. Four 1,000 pound bombs straddled that vessel as he rumbled over it. The little brown men recovered quickly. They enveloped the navy search plane in intense gunfire as Comdr. Miller banked into a strafing run with all 10 of his .50 caliber guns at work. Multi-colored tracers decorated the sky around the busy Thundermug.

Then, while the Japs continued their display of spectacular fireworks in a vain effort to wing their elusive enemy, the purring Thundermug headed for the open sea and safety.

Fifty Feet from Ocean.

Comdr. Miller and his crew were not even based within bombing range of Truk when they staged that first solo attack. They had taken off from a spot in the Marshall Islands, paused for fuel at a forward base where the air strip had just been completed, and had set course for Fananu Island in the Hall Islands north of Truk in search of enemy warships reported in hiding. Failing to find any warships there, Miller simply went on to Truk.

He believed that if he could maneuver a surprise approach to the Truk lagoon, he could bomb Japanese shipping there and get away safely. He made that surprise approach by flying the last 50 miles less than 50 feet from the surface of the ocean.

"Well, I've seen a lot of this world, Dad, and I don't think you'll have much trouble keeping ME down on the farm!"

1,500 WORKERS IN FUND DRIVE MEET TONIGHT

The last of seven meetings in the city division of the Community and War fund drive, which opened a week ago, will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the Graemere hotel, 113 N. Homan av.

Speakers at this meeting of more than 1,500 volunteers, headed by Ray McCarthy, 4005 Washington blvd., will include Elmer T. Stevens, president of the fund; Owen L. Coon, chairman city division, and Robert Uselton, navy soundman 3d class, who was in the invasion of Tarawa.

The fund's first report meeting will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the South Side Masonic temple, 6400 Green st.

A meeting of the business division will be held at 12:30 p. m. today in the Chicago club for a report on progress in Chicago's 6,000 industrial plants. Richard Wagner, head of the division, said the Maurice L. Rothschild company, first department store to report, exceeded its $1,800 employes' quota by $1,000.

Fund officials pointed out that thousands of residents will be visited during October by volunteer workers for the fund and that all of them are equipped with duly certified credentials.

MRS. ESTHER JARDINE.

Mrs. Esther Jardine, 21, of 2053 Webster av., and Russell Taylor, 25, of 3108 Logan blvd., were arrested early yesterday in the woman's home in a raid led by her husband, Pvt. William Jardine, 26, of North Fort Lewis, Wash., and Shakespeare av. police.

Both were charged with disorderly conduct and will be arraigned this morning in Domestic Relations court. Taylor was released on $25 bond, but Mrs. Jardine, lacking bond, was held at the station.

Jardine told police he had maintained a vigil outside his home for several hours, and had seen the couple go into the house at 4 a. m. Police obtained the feeding formula for the Jardines' four month old daughter, Suzanne, from Mrs. Jardine, and relayed it to her husband. They have another daughter, Judy, 2.

SUPREME COURT VOIDS CURBS ON PRESS FREEDOM

Tribunal Rules NRA Act Unconstitutional.

[This is another chapter of the new book, "Liberty and the Press," which records The Chicago Tribune's struggle to preserve a free press for the American people. Yesterday's instalment described the successful fight which American newspaper publishers made against the licensing feature of the NRA newspaper code.]

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The clamor on the part of small business against the working of the NRA grew during 1933 and 1934 and went into the congressional elections as an issue. On May 29, 1935, the whole question was settled by the action of the United States Supreme court in declaring the act unconstitutional.

The wisdom of the publishers in insisting on their constitutional rights was borne out in many incidents thruout the country under the various codes, in which the aid of the courts was sought for enforcement. In a brief filed by the attorney general of the United States in a case against the Weirton Steel company, it was stated: "The defendant, having applied for approval under the recovery act of a code of fair competition . . . and having obtained the benefits accruing to it under the act by reason of such approval, cannot now attack the constitutionality of the provisions of that code. It is a well settled rule in the federal courts that one who has himself voluntarily invoked a statute or who has received the benefits flowing from a statute is estopped to assert its unconstitutionality."

Uneasiness grew over this situation, and the President on Jan. 26, 1935, published an order under which all code signers were assured that they waived no constitutional rights under the Blue Eagle.

Reports on Tax Case.

At the 1936 convention of the American Newspaper Publishers association in New York, Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, reported on the Louisiana tax case:

"The freedom of the press," he said, "guaranteed by state and federal constitutions, remained open to misconstruction and evasion until defined in three cases: The City of Chicago vs. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE [$10,000,000 libel suit], decided by the Supreme court of Illinois in 1923; Near vs. Minnesota [Minnesota "gag" law case]; and Grosjean vs. American Press [Louisiana newspaper license tax case], decided by the Supreme court of the United States in 1931 and 1936.

"In the Louisiana tax case, suit was brought by nine publishers of newspapers to enjoin the enforcement against them of a statute of Louisiana, enacted July 12, 1934, which required that every person engaged in the business of making any charge for advertisments to be printed in any newspaper or periodical having a circulation of more than 20,000 copies per week should pay a license tax, for the privilege of engaging in such business in the state, of 2 per cent of the gross receipts of such business.

Operates as Restraint.

"Obviously, there were only two ways in which the publishers could avoid the tax; they must either reduce the circulation of each publication to less than 20,000 copies per week, or they must cease to publish paid advertisments. Restraint in either of these directions was held to be a deprivation of the freedom of the press. The Supreme court of the United States pointed out that the statute operated as a restraint in a double sense: First, it curtailed the amount of revenue realized from advertising, and second, its direct tendency was to restrict circulation. It stated that the tax was not bad because it took money from the pockets of the publishers; it was bad because in the light of its history and of its setting, it was a deliberate and calculated device to limit the dissemination of information to which the public was entitled by virtue of the constitutional guarantees.

"Having found the statute abridged the freedom of the press, the court held that such abridgment under the doctrine of the Minnesota 'gag' law case was prohibited by the 14th amendment. It logically extended the notion of the business, colloquially known as the press, to include advertisments without which newspapers cannot exist today. The decision is of great interest to us as it fully supports the contentions of your committee on the freedom of the press during the controversy over the preservation of this right in the newspaper code, and flatly rejects the view expressed by President Roosevelt, who would have limited it to the narrow phrase, 'The freedom guaranteed by the Constitution is freedom of expression.'

Establish Publishers' Rights.

"These three cases establish the rights of newspaper publishers under state and federal constitutions. Refinements may later change the boundaries; but the main channel is surveyed and charted. The elusive clause which Hamilton tried to whittle down in the Federalist and which President Roosevelt tried to emasculate in his approval of the newspaper code, is no longer illusory. The first of these three cases is a precedent to protect newspapers should an attempt be made against their liberties in the guise of libel suits started by the agencies of government now existing as alphabetical corporations. The other two show that the Supreme court will not tolerate abridgment, however disguised, of the right of the press."

The American Newspaper Publishers association in the succeeding years has watched and taken action in every case where freedom of the press was involved. In his 1938 report Col. McCormick said in part:

"Your committee on freedom of the press takes pleasure in reporting that on March 28, 1938, in the case of Alma Lovell vs. City of Griffin, Ga., the Supreme court of the United States again upheld the freedom of the press in another unanimous decision. The decision extends the protection of the first amendment to a field not hitherto adjudicated.

Pamphlets Also Included.

"Alma Lovell was convicted in the city of Griffin of violating an ordinance which prohibited the distribution of 'circulars, handbooks, advertising, or literature of any kind' without a permit from the city manager. The pamphlet in point was a religious tract setting forth the gospel of the 'Kingdom of Jehovah.'

"Chief Justice Hughes in delivering the judgment of the court announced that the liberty of the press is not confined to newspapers and periodicals, but necessarily includes pamphlets and leaflets which he described as 'historic weapons in the defense of liberty.' Moreover the court said the language of the ordinance was so broad that it necessarily embraced magazines and other periodicals and apparently could have been used to control the circulation of newspapers as well.

"Additional interest attaches to this decision because it was concurred in by the two new members of the court. This decision is in accord with the briefs and arguments presented in the cases of the Tribune company vs. Chicago, Near vs. Minnesota, and American Press, Inc., vs. Grosjean; and should silence those people who have been pretending that our long battle to maintain freedom of the press has been a selfish effort to maintain a special privilege."

FOR 34TH TIME: DID O'LEARY COW START 1871 FIRE?

Annual Argument on Anniversary Eve.

It has been just 73 years today since the Chicago fire, but in the La Salle hotel yesterday the argument as to who or what caused the fire which left one-third of Chicago's population homeless raged into its 34th year. The occasion was the annual memorial celebration sponsored by the Retired Firemen's association.

On one thing the firemen agreed. The fire was either the result of a stumbling cow that kicked over Mrs. O'Leary's milking lantern, or the aftermath of a quickly disbanded meeting of hoboes seeking shelter in the O'Leary barn.

Fire Commissioner Corrigan said he would not enter into the argument but that he knew one thing, "The great fire taught us many things about fighting fires—things we haven't forgotten."

Show Will Open Today.

The meeting was the first in a series scheduled thruout this week during the nationwide observance of Fire Prevention week. Opening today in the Commonwealth Edison building, 72 W. Adams st., and continuing thru Oct. 21, a fire prevention show will be staged under auspices of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Opening ceremonies will be broadcast over W-G-N at 10:30 a. m. and will include short talks by Mayor Kelly, and Jean Parker of the movies. Officials of the Association of Commerce and of Commonwealth Edison also will talk, and Miss Parker will demonstrate the effectiveness of a small, two pound carbon dioxide fire extinguisher.

Alarms to Be Transmitted.

During the show, fire alarms will be transmitted by telegraph and telephone to the show as they occur. Firemen will demonstrate the proper way to turn in alarms. In addition to displays of modern civilian equipment, exhibits of army and Coast Guard fire fighting equipment will be included. The show will continue daily from 9:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. except Saturday afternoons and Sundays.

Wednesday has been designated as Coast Guard day in recognition of the 24 hour vigil the service's gray picket boats keep in the Chicago river and along the city's lake front. Thruout the war Chicago has kept a record of no major waterfront fires or marine or shipping disasters.

Ceremonies will include a mock waterfront fire Wednesday noon.

Two Letters

Take a peek over my shoulder at a couple of interesting letters received in this morning's mail. Oh, I know, it isn't polite, but do it anyway just this one time.

One letter comes from a gentleman who fished recently in Hester's Lake in North Carolina. Attached to his letter was a narrow strip label reading "Blended and Bottled by Schenley Distributors, Inc., Schenley, Pa." While cleaning one of his catch, he found this label, neatly folded in the fish's stomach. Our correspondent asks, "Is it that the whiskey is so good that the fish will eat the labels?"

Just plain modesty prevents us from making a direct affirmative response. But our friend gives us an idea. We'd like to pass a suggestion on to those of our readers who have had fishing experiences similar to this recorder's. Haven't you often wondered how fish could turn down the alluring tidbits with which you tempted them? Well, you might save your Schenley labels for the next time you go fishing.

And then there is another letter,—this one from a PFC, serving overseas. He asks us to "save" him a case of his favorite beverage—"to celebrate with, after this war is over . . . I am not asking this as a gift, just want to be sure I can buy it when I return to the 'GOOD OLD U.S.A.'"

This doughboy's letter sort of strikes deeper. It reminds us that our lads are thinking of the "good things" America provides, and they want to come back to these "good things," among which, good American whiskey is by no means of the greatest importance.

And it makes us stay-at-homes feel that it is our duty to see to it that our kids find their homeland unchanged in its fundamental way of life, when they get back from having risked their lives to preserve it.

The mail was unusually good this morning . . . we enjoyed it.

Swing Toward G. O. P. Is Seen Thruout State.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 8 [Special].—Rural Indiana appears more anti-New Deal than ever, and the final three weeks of the campaign will see a concentrated drive on the industrial areas of this predominantly agricultural state.

Talking with dirt farmers on trains, one hears that in some of the traditionally Democratic counties in southern Indiana the swing is increasingly towards the Republicans. In the coal mining counties, too, the trend, as noted in recent elections in Illinois, is from the New Deal.

In the seven major industrial counties, both Republicans and Democrats are campaigning for registration. In the last three elections, the trend in these areas has been towards the Republicans. Hillman's CIO-Political Action Committee and other groups have been active in enrolling CIO members and so have both party organizations.

Both Parties Confident.

The Republicans say they were never better organized in the mill and factory towns. The Democrats say the registration looks good for them and that the industrial vote will be as large as in 1940.

About 37 per cent of the state vote is cast in the seven counties which are: Marion [Indianapolis], Lake [Gary], Allen [Fort Wayne], St. Joseph [South Bend], Vanderburgh [Evansville], Vigo [Terre Haute], and Madison [Anderson].

In the Gary area the Republicans say their party organization this year is in its best form in 20 years. They expect the local fight against gamblers and racketeers to aid in rolling up a vote. Lake county is the toughest spot on the state map for the Republicans. It has often swung an election when the going is close.

Old Democratic margins in Lake are expected by the Republicans to be cut down. As indicative of feeling inside the CIO, which is strong in Gary, Republicans point to the revolt last August of a CIO local in the Gary plant of the American Bridge company, against the drive of Hillman's PAC to "raise dollars for Roosevelt."

New Deal Slipping.

A few homespun statistics: Roosevelt in 1936 carried all seven big industrial counties with a plurality of 162,000, getting 63 per cent of the vote. In 1940 when he lost Indiana by 25,403, he slumped to a net majority of 42,152 in these seven areas, carrying five of the seven counties, and getting 53 per cent of their total vote.

This time, the Republicans say, their polls indicate they may come close to an even break in these seven regions. In Marion county they say the ticket will run so strong that even Rep. Ludlow, a Democrat, may lose, tho Republicans have voted for him.

On the form sheets, Ralph Gates, Republican nominee for governor opposed by Sen. Jackson, seems to have a harder fight than has Homer Capehart, Republican candidate for senator opposed by Gov. Schricker altho G. O. P. leaders regard Gates as a leader.

Hoosier voters who are well trained in ballot scratching on state and local offices, will probably do a little scratching on the national ballot, letting it ride with a cross in the party circle. Thus Capehart is likely to ride well up with Dewey and Schricker's vote may tend to be gaited to Roosevelt's. That's the theory, anyway.

The total vote is expected to be smaller than four years ago. Republican statisticians figure the vote will run to a 1,300,000 total. Some forecasters, rated as conservative, say it looks like Dewey by 125,000 to 150,000 majority. Final registration figures will give a better line.

That's our latest in wall safes, no one would ever think of sticking his hand in there!

ABSENTEE VOTE TO BE DELAYED FOR 3 OR 4 DAYS

Absentee balloting by civilian voters, originally scheduled to begin today, has been postponed until Wednesday or Thursday because of the delay in delivery of polling supplies, John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the board of election commissioners, said yesterday.

Army and navy voters who expect to be absent from Chicago on Nov. 7 may vote in the city hall week days from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. except Sunday, when the polls are open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. until election day. Absentee voting by civilians will close three days before Nov. 7.

Rusch said registration, which closed in the city hall on Saturday, will be held from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. tomorrow in the various ward polling places. About 250 employes of the board worked yesterday to assemble supplies for the registration.

Because failure is so tragic

Slowness in school and a sense of inferiority are the toll poor vision levies on children. A high price for a handicap that can be overcome easily and at low cost, isn't it? Truly, few things you can do for your child's happiness will equal calling on an eye-physician now. And if your child does need glasses, ask Uhlemann about those it styles for active children.

WILLKIE'S BODY TO LIE IN STATE IN N. Y. CHURCH

Burial Will Take Place at Rushville, Ind.

ginning about six months before the Republican national convention of 1940, which nominated him for President, and ending last April 5 when, at Omaha, Neb., he announced his withdrawal from the 1944 Presidential race after learning of his overwhelming defeat in the Wisconsin primaries.

In the current campaign, he was for the most part inactive, altho he wrote articles from time to time on public questions and announced his intention of forcing President Roosevelt and Gov. Dewey as far out in the open as possible on domestic and foreign policies. His last magazine article was a discussion of the Negro problem in which he denounced both the Republican and Democratic platforms as "tragically inadequate" on the subject.

His last public act was a conference Aug. 21 in New York with John Foster Dulles, Gov. Dewey's foreign affairs adviser. This conference took place after Dewey had designated Dulles to meet with Secretary of State Hull for discussions of foreign policy. A joint Willkie-Dulles statement said their exchange of views was "not animated by partisan consideration or having to do with any candidacy."

Worked for Education.

Willkie was born Feb. 18, 1892, in Elwood, Ind., one of six children of Herman and Henrietta Willkie.

While in the army in 1918 he married Edith Wilk, a librarian, of Rushville, Ind. She and their son, Philip, survive.

After the war Willkie went to Fort Wayne, Ind., where his parents had moved, and resumed the practice of law. After a time he joined an Akron law firm, Mather and Nesbitt, which handled many utility accounts, among them a subsidiary of Commonwealth and Southern. In 1929, B. C. Cobb, president of Commonwealth and Southern, took Willkie to New York as general counsel for the corporation.

Four years later, when Cobb became ill, Willkie succeeded him as president.

Was a Democrat.

With the 1940 Presidential campaign approaching, Willkie was in the public eye in the role of spokesman for private enterprise as a result of his TVA battles. Never previously active in politics, he had been known as a Democrat. He was a delegate to the 1924 Democratic convention and had voted for Roosevelt in 1932.

A Republican boom for Willkie for President developed during the spring of 1940. Without announcing himself as a candidate, Willkie began expounding his theories on public questions in speeches and writings. Willkie clubs were organized thruout the country and these organizations campaigned for him.

Views Like F. D. R.'s

He was a dark horse when the Republican national convention assembled in Philadelphia, but he got 105 votes on the first ballot while the galleries shouted "We Want Willkie." Willkie gained strength as the balloting continued and was nominated on the sixth ballot.

Willkie conducted a strenuous campaign. With the nation embarked on a tremendous armament program, he soon made it clear that he differed little from President Roosevelt on basic principles of foreign policy. Both favored aid to Great Britain and an invincible army and navy, and both pledged that they would not send American troops to fight in Europe.

When the ballots were counted Willkie won only 10 states to the President's 38, but he polled 22,333,801 votes, the largest popular vote ever given a Republican Presidential candidate. After election he pledged to support Mr. Roosevelt.

Willkie made a trip to England in 1941 to observe war time conditions there, and in 1942 made a 31,000 mile tour of the middle east, Russia, and China as a special representative of President Roosevelt. On his return he wrote "One World," which sold 1,500,000 copies.

He was an avowed candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1944. The campaign collapsed when he failed to obtain a single delegate in Wisconsin.

F. D. R., DEWEY VOICE REGRET AT WILLKIE'S DEATH

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

President Roosevelt led off the nation's expressions of sorrow over the death of Wendell L. Willkie yesterday.

"The nation will long remember Wendell Willkie as a forthright American," the President said. "In this hour of grave crisis the country loses a great citizen thru his untimely passing."

Gov. Dewey, Republican Presidential nominee, described Willkie as "one of the great men of our time."

"His death will be mourned thruout the world," Gov. Dewey said upon his return to New York from Charleston, W. Va., "A forceful and courageous man, he made a notable contribution to the political and philosophical discussions of these critical times."

Gov. Bricker of Ohio, Republican Vice Presidential nominee en route to the Pacific coast on a campaign trip, issued the following statement aboard his train in Minnesota:

"I am shocked at the death of Wendell L. Willkie. He was a close personal friend. I knew him 15 years ago when he was trying cases before the public utilities commission of Ohio of which I was a member. That friendship continued thru the years."

Former President Herbert Hoover said Willkie's death "deprives the nation of a great and deeply patriotic citizen."

Rabbi Wise, in Chicago, Lauds Willkie and Smith

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of Free synagogue, New York, yesterday took part in services of Central church, Studebaker theater, whose pastor is Dr. Harold Ruopp. Dr. Wise paid a brief but glowing tribute to "two great Americans," Gov. Alfred E. Smith and Wendell Willkie. He said his heart was "particularly sorrowful" over the loss of these two leaders. Tonight, at First Congregational church, Ashland and Washington blvds., Dr. Wise will address a dinner-meeting of the Chicago Congregational union.

RADIO STOLEN FROM AUTO.

Howard De Long, 127 S. Dearborn st., reported to police yesterday that a radio and cigaret lighter, valued at $58, were stolen from his automobile parked on the lower level of Wacker dr. near State st.

WILLKIE DIDN'T PLAN TO BACK F. D. R., SAYS LUCE

New York, Oct. 8 (AP).—The Blue network quoted Henry R. Luce, editor of Time and Life, tonight as saying Wendell L. Willkie "had no intention whatever" of voting for or supporting President Roosevelt for a fourth term.

The network said Luce made the statement in answer to a question stemming from Drew Pearson's assertion, in a broadcast earlier in the evening, that Willkie had indicated in an interview "shortly before his death" that he probably would come out for the President.

"I have no intention of answering Mr. Pearson or his reputed conversation with Mr. Willkie. For my part, one thing I do know, from many conversations with Wendell Willkie that went on for many long hours both in my home and in his until a few days before he was stricken, is this: He completely distrusted Franklin Roosevelt's statesmanship and had no intention whatever of voting for him or supporting him.

"His [Willkie's] concern was wholly with what measure of support to give to the Republican candidate and how and when to give it in order to support the cause of liberalism for which he always stood."

PAINTER FALLS 40 FEET.

Earl Johnson, 38, of 4254 N. Tripp av., yesterday fell 40 feet from a scaffold on which he was painting a building at 1345 N. State st. to the roof of a nearby building. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital with serious injuries.

600 POUNDS OF SUGAR TAKEN.

Hyde Park police yesterday were seeking burglars who Saturday night broke into the S and L Beverage company, 809 E. 45th st., and made off with 600 pounds of sugar, citric acid, and flavor concentrates valued at $1,540.

At Usual Small Loan Rate, You Pay $20.84
At Merchandise Bank You Pay Only 8.00
YOU SAVE $12.84
For a 12 mo. $200 LOAN
At Usual Small Loan Rate, You Pay $39.52
At Merchandise Bank You Pay Only 16.00
YOU SAVE $23.52
*Savings shown apply to "signature only" loans repaid in 12 monthly instalments, cost to be deducted in advance. You can save even more if you borrow with one co-maker. In either case, you save at least half of usual and lawful Small Loan Charges.
OFFERS of personal, or "salary loans," meet the eye everywhere. But LOOK at the stated "tables of payment." They show what loans actually cost you—if you take time to figure it out. In most cases, for a loan of $100, you're asked to make 12 payments of about $10.07 each. That totals $120.84—or $20.84 more than you borrow.
SAVE NEARLY TWO PAYMENTS
Merchandise Bank has two loan plans: On a $100 loan, if you use the popular plan of borrowing with one co-maker the cost is only $5.50—and you save $15.34 on $100 for 1 year. If you borrow on your signature only the cost is only $8—and you save $12.84. In either case the saving amounts to nearly as much as two payments—and it's money in your pocket. Only two examples are shown in the table above—but you save proportionately on any amount you borrow at Merchandise Bank.

IN OREGON
The WAR CRY is "Timber"
There's the warning shout "timber" and a giant of the Oregon forests crashes to earth. With lumber and its by-products so vital to the Allied cause, "timber" is a war-cry in Oregon.
Far-sighted pioneers realized the potential value of Oregon's magnificent forests, verdant valleys and salmon-filled waters. These abundant natural resources were an incentive that spurred the settlers to labor from dawn to dusk . . . encouraged personal initiative.
Today, as in peace-time, trainloads of Oregon products roll eastward over the Union Pacific "strategic middle route" which unites the Pacific Northwest with nation-wide markets. Today Oregon and Union Pacific are welded together in an all-out effort to win the war and preserve the American doctrine of equal opportunity for all.

PAC HUSHES ITS POLL TAX FIGHT IN TEXAS DRIVE

Cry for Racial Equality Also Soft Pedaled.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 8.—Earl Browder's Communists and Sidney Hillman's Communist dominated CIO political action committeemen who whoop it up in the north for racial equality, political rights for Negroes, and the abolition of the poll tax are soft pedaling all these things in their Texas campaign for the fourth term.

With the Democratic state committee relegated to the background, partly from lack of funds, the Hillman committee with a campaign war chest filled from levies on the 150,000 CIO workers in the state is taking the lead in promoting the election of the pro-Roosevelt Presidential electors.

Texas is one of the states imposing a poll tax for the purpose of preventing Negroes from voting, a discrimination in denunciation of which the Communists have spilled oceans of ink and agitated the ether. Texas also is one of the southern states that excluded Negroes from Democratic primaries by law, until the Supreme court held such laws invalid. Such denial of racial political equality also has evoked condemnation by the Communists—north of the Mason and Dixon line.

Plan to Dodge Court Rule.

But in Texas the Browder and Hillman political actionists are campaigning for the Democrats, who make no secret of their intention to circumvent the Supreme court decision by barring Negroes from Democratic primaries not by law but by party regulation.

Asked for an explanation of the apparent regional inconsistency in the PAC stand, C. A. McPeak, director of the PAC campaign activities in Texas, blandly said that "publicity suited to one part of the country is not always suitable to another part."

Harry L. Seay, secretary of the new Democratic state committee set up after the pro-Roosevelt forces purged the old committee of Gov. Stevenson's friends, considers the battle already as good as won. He predicts the anti-Roosevelt Texas Regulars will not poll 50,000 votes in a total vote of probably one million. E. B. Germany, leader of the Regulars, expects the pro-Roosevelt and anti-Roosevelt electors will receive about 400,000 votes each, admitting the Regulars will need Republican support to win.

"Asleep," Secretary Admits.

Seay says he and Secretary of Commerce Jones, Speaker Rayburn, Democratic National Committeeman Myron G. Blalock, and other Roosevelt leaders had no idea of what was brewing and were sound asleep at the switch when the Texas revolt in the Democratic party developed last spring.

Hillman, however, was wide awake and went into action for the fourth term. He came to Dallas late in March, held a big PAC organization meeting, and formed a political army with its generals, colonels, majors, captains, lieutenants, and sergeants to line up the voters for Mr. Roosevelt.

Demand States Rights.

Thereupon, the anti-Roosevelt Democrats, captained by Mr. Germany, George A. Butler, nephew of Jones by marriage, and Charles Simons, sprang to arms. They sent 5,400 precinct committees resolutions proposing an uninstructed delegation to the national convention, a demand that the national convention restore the two-thirds rule for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice President, and a demand for a national platform declaration in favor of state rights to draw the color line in primaries and schools.

These resolutions were the basis of those adopted by the state convention May 23, which named anti-Roosevelt electors. Eventually, another state convention last month rescinded the action of the May convention and under a state Supreme court ruling got pro-Roosevelt electors on the ballot under the Democratic emblem, thus relegating the anti-Roosevelt electors to a third party position under the name Texas Regulars.

Oct. 8, 1944.

WITH the arrival of fall duly noted and cold weather on its way, the time has come for farmers and city dwellers alike to make their plans for moving or planting trees. October generally is a good month to get this job done because hard frosts put a stop to the growth of the trees, which are adaptable to transplanting during their dormant stage.

This is the season when shade trees best can be planted and nuts gathered in the woods for planting in the nursery to start new seedlings.

Farm Woodlot Useful.

As trees are one of the most important crops produced on the farm, the gardener generally makes a practice of picking up nuts in the woods and getting them started in the greenhouse. The farmer respects his woodlot; it not only furnishes him with new trees to replace the old ones, but it also supplies fence posts, building material, and fuel.

September and October are considered the best months to set out evergreens. These generally are set out earlier than the deciduous trees so they may achieve some root growth before winter begins. Altho an evergreen will not make any top growth if planted now, its roots will get a start for the coming spring.

Combination Advisable.

Planting trees is not in itself a difficult job. To choose the right tree and the right location, however, calls for study and an understanding of the natures of different trees. Trees mature slowly and one must have patience to wait years for the results of his work.

If possible it is advisable to plant a combination of rapid growing and slow maturing trees. The fast growers will provide shade and scenery in a relatively short time, and when the slower growing trees have matured, the first ones may be removed. Too many trees must not be planted in a small area because the tops will become crowded, and the weak trees will not receive enough light and moisture.

Among the most popular shade trees in this area are oak, poplar, elm, maple, catalpa, black walnut, hickory, and locust. These are among the most beautiful trees thriving in this area.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

THE gardener who wants to save time and trouble when the planting season starts next spring will do a thoro job of cleaning up his plot this fall. Participants in coöperative garden projects have an obligation to fellow gardeners and the owner of the plot to eliminate all weeds, corn stubble, vines, and other standing or dead vegetation which could harbor insects or weed seeds during the winter.

All weeds in and around the edge of the garden should be cut close to the ground, piled in a waste place and burned. Corn stalks should be pulled out of the ground and placed either in a shock or on a wire platform where they will dry for later burning. This is especially important in locations where the European corn borer is a menace, since the borer larvae are sheltered inside the stalks during the winter months.

Similarly, all dead cucumber, squash, and melon vines should be pulled and burned to destroy the cucumber beetles which winter on the vines and fruits.

NORSE LANDING IN AMERICA IS MARKED BY 1,500

More than 1,500 Americans of Norwegian descent last evening commemorated the Norsemen's discovery of America in the year 1000 at the 20th Leif Eriksen gathering in the Logan Square Masonic temple, 2451 Kedzie blvd. The meeting was sponsored by the Norwegian National league of 52 organizations, headed by Carl G. Knudsen. The audience heard a musical program and saw motion pictures showing Norway in war and in peace. Speakers were Theodore Jorgensen of the faculty of St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., and Lt. Col. Ira C. Berlove, former professor at Columbia university.

U. S. MARITIME SERVICE NEEDS MORE OFFICERS

The United States maritime service is urgently seeking candidates to train for officers' positions in the merchant marine, it was announced yesterday. Men with a minimum of 14 months' sea experience in the deck or engine departments of naval or merchant ships are enlisted as acting chief petty officers. Upon graduation, after four months at officers' school, they are commissioned ensigns and licensed to sail as third mates or third assistant engineers. The service also provides officers' training for men with specialized engineering training. Enlistments are accepted at the United States maritime service office, 844 Rush st.

PRESENT CAMPS TO BE USED FOR RETURNED MEN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 (AP).—Existing army camps will be used as redistribution centers for soldiers returning from overseas, the army announced today, adding that it may be possible to release "a few" of the hotels now used for that purpose.

Numerous hotels now are operated by the army for housing soldiers while they are being reclassified after coming back from overseas duty.

Pending establishment of the camp centers, Negro returnees will be processed with white returnees thru existing northern redistribution centers, the army statement said.

Under the new program, certain army camps which are "better situated and more attractive" will be used as redistribution centers. The department said that many such camps are becoming available because of the movement of troops overseas.

HURT IN FALL OFF STREET CAR.

BOMBER CRASH AT OIL REFINERY KILLS 14 IN CREW

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 8 (AP).—A heavy bomber crashed and burned on the edge of the tank farm at the Texas company refinery near here today.

Lt. W. E. Dowell, assistant operations officer at Hensley field, said all of the 14 men in the crew were killed.

The huge craft clipped a power line, cut a corner off a refinery warehouse and burst into flame within 50 feet of two big gasoline and kerosene mixing tanks.

BOSS PENDERGAST'S MAN.

Mr. Harry S. Truman, who went broke as a haberdasher, paid off his creditors 10 cents on the dollar and was a failure until Boss Pendergast found a use for him, may turn out to be Thomas E. Dewey's real opponent in this election. Mr. Truman is running for the Vice Presidency, but his principal, Mr. Roosevelt, is not a well man and his pictures show it.

During the winter the White House medical report listed Mr. Roosevelt's various ailments as influenza, sinusitis, bronchitis, and intestinal trouble. Last May he went to the naval hospital for a checkup and his personal physician, Adm. Ross T. McIntyre, reported afterward that "we are well within our normal limits." The public has been given no light on Mr. Roosevelt's condition since. He is a man 62 years old who came into the White House under physical handicaps and has been under strain for 12 years. His normal limits might not be the same that the actuaries would define for other men of his age group.

Mr. Truman's qualifications are those which have endeared him to the corrupt big city bosses who got him the nomination. Henry Wallace was dumped in the process. Mr. Wallace had many faults of judgment and his utterances reflected an instability which would not have boded well for the country if he ever had come to succeed to the Presidency, but he might have been no worse in the job than his chief. He represented what slight shreds of integrity were left to the New Deal, and in contrast to such a man as Truman he shines. He is honest in the league in which he travels.

Mr. Truman was a failure when he became the creature of Boss Tom Pendergast, the ex-convict boss of the Kansas City Democratic machine. His political philosophy is represented in his statement of indebtedness to Pendergast: "If a candidate hasn't got sense enough to see who helped him win and hasn't sense enough to recognize that man's friends, there is no use asking for favors from the candidate in advance." That is the kind of political morality and statesmanship which could be expected of Mr. Truman if the nation ever had to suffer him as President.

When the big city machines ditched Wallace and dictated Truman, they knew they had the right man. He had their brand of ethics. In his days as a county officer, Mr. Truman had found it convenient that his records should perish in a fire so that no one could check up on him. He had been elected to the senate originally by the ballot frauds of Pendergast's machine, and he would owe his renomination to the present Democratic national chairman, who could deliver St. Louis for him by hook or crook. Mr. Truman knows who owns him and he is content. So are the bosses.

Gov. Bricker, with his record of honesty and able administration, would be an asset to the nation as Mr. Dewey's Vice President. Mr. Truman's value is confined to his performance in his assigned role as lookout man for the city gangs if they ever get to pull their planned heist of the national government.

THE SOLDIERS' REPLY TO MRS. ROSENBERG.

Since Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, the White House favorite, was reported to have said that the men fighting in France and the Pacific are unfit for civilian life and should be reeducated, New Deal fashion, before being permitted to take off their uniforms, we have received a number of letters on this proposal. Some of the more striking among them appear today in the Voice of the People.

The men who are fighting this war for us hate war. They don't hate it in the hypocritical, vote-seeking rhetoric of a chautauqua speech. They hate it deep in their guts. They hate its destruction, its cruelty, its filth, and its monotony. There are few crusaders in American uniform today, a fact that perturbs some of our bird-brained ideologists. Our men are fighting because their country called on them to fight. They are fighting for the homes their wives and mothers are keeping for them, and their one great wish is to come home and find their homes and country as they left them.

Mrs. Rosenberg isn't unusual among New Dealers, even in her facility for keeping herself on a variety of private and public pay rolls at the same time. She is typical of them. They are not interested in making America a land fit for heroes to return to. In their conceit and arrogance, they would undertake to make the heroes fit to live in America as they plan to remodel it.

Furthermore, they'll try that very thing unless their patron, and the source of their mischievous power, is defeated next month.

OUR CONQUERING NAVY.

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal's statement that no American warship has been lost thru enemy action in the Pacific in more than nine months coincides with the announcement from Tokio that seven more Japanese admirals have gone to their ancestors. That makes 19 Jap admirals who have departed within a month.

Our planes, submarines, and surface craft have been steadily taking toll of Japanese warships and merchant craft. Almost 1,800 have been sunk or damaged since the start of the war. Among these losses are listed two battleships, seven aircraft carriers, 31 cruisers, 81 destroyers, 10 destroyer escorts, six submarines, two tenders, and 43 miscellaneous fighting ships.

Adm. Halsey's recent strike into Philippine waters resulted in the sinking of 103 Jap ships in two days and drove the Jap navy out of the islands. In conjunction with Secretary Forrestal's statement, there would seem to be ample statistical proof that our navy now controls a large part of the Pacific and that the Japanese may expect to find our fleet operating in their home waters, among the Indies islands, and off the China coast before long.

Secretary Forrestal stated the obvious when he suggested that losses to our own navy are inevitable when we come to grips with the remains of the Jap fleet in waters where it will be given strong cover by land based planes. But the Jap admirals who are contemplating the showdown can't avoid sounding glum. Adm. Suetsugu concedes that the coming battle of the Philippines will be the decisive battle of the Pacific war, but he isn't rash enough to make any predictions. He probably has profited by recollection of the fact that Adm. Yamamoto, who was going to dictate peace from the White House, was drastically corrected. Yamamoto is still another Jap admiral no longer among the living.

SLINGS AND CONTUMELY.

Thomas Jefferson once said: "We are not afraid . . . to tolerate any error so long as reason is left free to combat it." The wisdom in that remark was illustrated anew the other day at the convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor in Peoria. Two officials of Milk Wagon Drivers local union 753, discussing a resolution criticizing newspapers for stories about the hotel brawl which followed Mr. Roosevelt's speech before the teamsters' union, made a bitter attack upon THE TRIBUNE. Victor Olander, secretary and treasurer of the Illinois Federation of Labor, then took the floor to present a stout defense of this newspaper. He was seconded by George Brown, a Typographical union delegate and Tribune employe.

Their presentation was admirable and we greatly appreciate it, but in all candor the case was not difficult to make. This newspaper is not likely to be or become an enemy of labor as long as it venerates the memories of Joseph Medill, its founder, who was himself a printer, and of his brother, Maj. William Medill, a member of the Typographical union, who was killed leading his men in battle during the Gettysburg campaign.

The praise given THE TRIBUNE by Mr. Olander and Mr. Brown for fairness in the treatment of labor news, for wholesome relations with the unions in its shops, and for an outstanding program of employe benefits certainly would not have been heard on the floor of this labor convention if THE TRIBUNE had not been attacked. The people who attack THE TRIBUNE only call attention to us. Reasonable examination by persons whose attention is thus drawn combats the error and establishes the truth. That is why THE TRIBUNE pensions, sick benefits, and health program for employes, its compensation for families of employes on military leave, and its many other progressive acts in employe relations are so well known all over America.

We have been written up and talked about in magazines of national circulation for years. One article is in a current national magazine and others are scheduled for publication soon. Magazines which reach every corner of America write us up not only because we are successful but also because the violence of the attacks upon us has made us a topic of national interest. Needless to say, the number of these attacks, and their similarity, can leave little doubt that they owe their origin to a common source, and that must be the White House.

The plot hasn't succeeded. Those who try to smear us generally are answered by somebody else who is more interested in fact, and the fact kills the lie. Often we are saved the trouble of defending ourselves in our own columns. This is a good thing, not because THE TRIBUNE would hesitate to correct misapprehensions created by slanders against us, but because we have other and more interesting use for the space.

The controversies raised by our enemies in their attacks have helped to establish THE TRIBUNE as a national institution. They also have helped to spread all over America the principles for which we stand—sound American patriotism, good government, and a progressive human society achieved under the greatest charter ever given to man, our Constitution and its Bill of Rights.

LESE MAJESTY.

Maj. J. T. McLoughlin, a Canadian army officer in England, has been cashiered for making improper remarks about the king. Maj. McLoughlin is alleged to have said: "I have no use for that guy [King George] or his wife. Eddie [the duke of Windsor] is my type of guy."

Lese majesty is an offense as old as the first king. Under absolute monarchy anybody who criticized the king or any of his acts could expect to lose his head. Such conduct was held to be an offense not only against the state but against the church and against religion.

The propriety or wisdom of Maj. McLoughlin's remarks probably would not be defended anywhere in the British empire, but that he should suffer such a severe penalty for making them certainly must cause British subjects the world over to pause for a moment and take stock of their situation. England claims to be a democracy. One of the inalienable rights of citizens in a democracy is freedom of speech. A good many Englishmen have died to establish that right.

Instead of talking about establishing rights and freedoms for the other people in the world the British and their Canadian cousins had better start doing something about winning back their own.

If the Nazis had the breath to spare, it would be interesting to hear what they think now of the decadence of democracies.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. The word "collateral" should remind one of which man?
   Football player Banker Masseur Chef
2. The next United States national census is scheduled for what year? 1945 1948 1950 1955
3. The song "On the Banks of the Wabash" should remind one of which state?
   Illinois Ohio Kentucky Indiana
4. A person who said he had shot a birdie would probably have been Duck hunting Golfing Quail hunting Playing Badminton
5. Which one of the following is now outlawed in professional baseball?
   Screw ball Fast ball Spit ball Curve ball
6. In the left hand column below are the names of five famous women whose constructive efforts will cause them to be long remembered. Try to match them with the items in the opposite column that are associated with each. You deserve one point for each correct judgment.

[a] Clara Barton	[v] Temperance
[b] Betsey Ross	[w] Social betterment
[c] Jane Addams	[x] Red Cross
[d] Frances Willard	[y] Nursing
[e] Florence Nightingale	[z] Our flag

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

LINEBOOK WEEK.

This is Linebook week, and the 21st annual edition of Line o' Type or Two items, chosen from a year's crop, will appear day after tomorrow. It will be available at many newsstands and bookshops, and also at THE TRIBUNE's two public service offices—on the lobby floor of the Tower and at Madison and Dearborn sts.

* * *

Mail orders, which come from Linebook fans all over the United States, should be addressed to the public service office, accompanied by the wherewithal. The charges [new this year] are 25 cents over the counter, 30 cents for domestic mailing, 40 cents for mailing overseas. Orders that come to the editor are promptly transmitted to the public service office [John F. Gillespie, manager].

* * *

The Linebook of 1944 is a month and a half ahead of former schedule. Its publication date, Oct. 11, provides time for its inclusion in Christmas boxes for shipment to service men overseas, but not much time, since the terminal date for such packages is Oct. 15. The need to hurry, however, applies only to Christmas boxes. The mailing of single copies overseas is another matter, for which there is plenty of time. A letter from a soldier in a Burmese jungle recently reached this office less than two weeks after its start.

* * *

Please note that last year's Linebook was sold out in a week. The same number will be printed this year, unless we can talk the paper dealers out of supplies for a second run.

* * *

The book represents approximately one-tenth of the prose and verse that have filled a year's columns. After submitting the selections to the most exacting test—three proofreadings—we think it's a good number.

IN QUIET BRAVERY.

Your daughters, America, look to them!
Our eyes fixed fondly beyond the seas
On gleaming standards of the great advance
See but the sons who strive; yet these who wait
Thru lagging months of loneliness,
Quietly serving, petition our tenderness.
They hear no trumpets, feel no ardent lure
Of battle zeal in comradeship of arms,
Yet share the purpose of our high-called sword;
Not maid, nor wife, nor widow, as they bear
The day-long dreariness of home and mill,
Then face the nights uncomforted, with none to hear
The pillowed whisper of the long, dark hours:
"Keep him in constancy; unchanged and unchanging,
Guard him from harm, by night and by day;
Till the time of returning, cherish him still,
And may it be soon, be soon, be soon!"

An Article He Never Finished.

While vacationing at El Rancho Rata Desierto, Cinnamon Redjors, the glamorous titian-haired film star, arose early one morning to avoid the throngs of admirers that follow her every waking footstep. Saddling her favorite paint pony, she rode forth into the vast and sepulchral wastes known as the Bread Pudding desert.

The faint flush of a new day tinged the tawny slopes of the distant sand hills as she drew rein at the first water hole. Dismounting, she kneeled gracefully to refresh herself, when suddenly the fearsome warning of a rattlesnake broke the deathly stillness of the surrounding desert. Having been in even graver situations in the movies, Miss Redjors did not flinch or scream, but coolly removed a sheer nylon from a shapely limb and with a skilful flick of her wrist fitted it down over the vibrating rattles of the snake.

This confused the reptile, or he may have thought that the undulating stocking was his hated rival, Diamondback Pete, trying to horn in on his racket. Anyway, after the briefest interval he struck, sinking his fangs into the stocking and his sinuous body at one and the same time, then expired from his own venom.

Ruefully viewing her ruined nylon, Miss Redjors, who is currently being seen in the O K O feature, "Plains of Fancy," remounted her pony and galloped glamorously into the roseate desert dawn as tho she were merely rehearsing the final sequence of . . .

LOST LOVE.

I wanted to love you and, God knows, I tried,
But somehow Love sickened, and one day Love died.
And I wept all the night by my dying Love's side—
But I wept all in vain.

And now Love is gone, there is naught you can do
To bring back the old tender longing for you.
Love comes when it will and it goes when it's thru—
Nor comes back again!

But the saddest of all is that you do not see
That Love lives no longer with you and with me.

O. L. asks: "Is it true that nobody under 26 years of age can be classified 3-D? I'm 24 and a machinist. I had a 2-B classification, then was put in 1-A, and the company appealed. The appeal was turned down, 3 to 0. I have a bedridden invalid mother, and I have to do the housework after 10 to 12 hours in a war plant. The board agreed that it was a terrible situation, but said it couldn't defer men under 26 for occupational reasons or for hardship."

There is nothing in the regulations or instructions to prevent a board from putting men between 18 and 26, or any other age group, in class 3-D. If all of the data pertinent to your dependency situation was in your file, as it should have been, at the time it was reviewed by the appeal board, and your situation warranted a hardship classification, the appeal board should have given it to you irrespective of your age. If you feel that in this process you were not given every consideration, write to the state director giving the facts and request a stay of induction and an investigation.

HORMONE SECRETIONS AND THEIR EFFECTS.

THE other day I was asked to define a hormone. For a moment I was stumped. We know all too little about these substances. We can say, however, that they are chemicals which are secreted by special cells. They are absorbed into the circulation and exert a strong influence upon distant tissues and organs.

As the chief controler of production, we must think of the sympathetic [autonomic] nervous system. In addition, much will depend upon the vitamin intake. At any rate, hormones should be manufactured automatically and in such quantities as will take care of the needs of the body.

Yes, but would I illustrate with some concrete examples. Those from the thyroid are fairly well understood. The effects of a surplus and an inadequate supply can be observed on the epidermis. When the gland is overactive, the skin will be warm, moist, and flushed. Excessive sweating may be complained of and dark spots may present themselves on the backs of the hands, the face, and the neck.

If the amount is reduced the cuticle will feel dry, rough, and scaly. Furthermore, the lower layers will soften and form a mucuslike material. In consequence the face will become expressionless and appear dull and stupid. Meanwhile, the scalp and hair exhibit poor nutrition and the strands will become coarser. One of the chief diagnostic signs of this condition is thinning of the eyebrows at their outer edges. Brittle fingernails are typical.

In the pituitary, we have the boss of the herd. What it does is reflected by the behavior of all the other endocrine depots. If the anterior portion is out of balance and disturbed the adrenals [adjacent to the kidneys] may deposit brown coloring matter, resembling freckles, on the cuticle. It is this combination which imparts to women more masculine characteristics than they merit.

Some time after middle life the quantity of sex hormones begins to diminish. The effect upon the complexion and the development of wrinkles is particularly abhorred by the fair sex. Strange to relate, these changes appear later in males than in females.

What happens? The skin loses much of its water and starts to atrophy. The normal, rounded contours of youth vanish. Many of the capillaries disappear. As time goes on the underlying fat is absorbed and, because of the shrinking process, folds put in their appearance. Here again pigmentation is more common. Much of the service of our beauty emporiums is directed toward counteracting the waning output of the sex depots.

Can we utilize some of these preparations in maintaining vigor? It is perfectly safe to do so if the deficiency is exhibited abruptly. Thus we employ thyroid extract, testosterone, theelin, and other forms to slow down rapid signs of degeneration. But these products do not constitute the fountain of youth. We can't resort to them to turn back the clock from age 70 to 17. Furthermore, they must be prescribed by a physician who is familiar with their use.

Fire! Fire!

It has always seemed strange to this department that the Episcopal litany, which asks deliverance from so much that is evil or fearsome, does not mention fire. It mentions lightning and tempest, plague, pestilence, and famine, battle and murder and sudden death, yet fire, which probably holds more terror for the average person than any other elemental catastrophe, is ignored. Certainly accounts of holocausts that reduced great cities are read with avid horror for years and centuries after new cities have risen from the ashes. Is it the fascination of horror, or is it the reader's projection of himself into the mass of fleeing householders?

The great Chicago fire started 73 years ago today, and, in the event there is any doubt on the subject, it can safely be said that the average person's reaction to the panic of fire has changed little since then. Now, as then, fire victims rush out of doors or jump thru windows carrying extraneous, and in the long run, wholly useless objects. Just to test the modern reaction we polled a few fellow workers. One said: "I lie awake nights wondering what I'd take with me. My money, if I had any, I guess." Another said: "My wits, I hope." A third said: "My baby." These seemed sensible, but these are conjectures before the fact. When fire comes the householder is prone to race out with Aunt Daisy's cherished cut-glass toothbrush or the pendulum from the grandfather clock.

That is just the way it was on Oct. 9, 1871. One man rushed down the street carrying a window blind under one arm. Another walked along with a kerosene lamp. More practical persons tried to bury their treasures as the fire approached. Typical of these was a man who frantically dug a large hole in his front yard and buried in it his winter supply of coal. He had just covered the cache with earth when he saw the fire by-pass him a full block to the east.

In an early stage of the fire firemen were carrying all movable objects from a burning Catholic church. Each man systematically carried his burden down a long plank and gave it to a volunteer helper. One poor fireman dragged out the heavy image of a saint only to find no one ready to take it from him. Wjth the full weight of the statue on his back he cried, "Where in Hades shall I put this?"

As the flames progressed shopkeepers, fearing that their stock would be burned out, frequently invited the passing mobs to come in and help themselves. The proprietor of one hat and cap shop, however, could find no takers for his free hats, the fire was too close.

Saloonkeepers had better luck. Daniel W. Quirk was one of these. Of the hundreds to whom he gave free drinks and cigars a few stopped, turned the fire extinguishers on his saloon's walls, and saved the building.

In general, the generosity of the saloonkeepers made life miserable for the fire department, for helpful drinkers constantly pestered the firemen. In desperation one fire supervisor ordered his men to turn the hose on such a crowd. This was done, but it turned out to be just a merry old game. Those who were knocked down by the force of the stream enjoyed it so much that when they got up they amiably suggested the hose be turned on the rest of the watchers.

Go into the fire room of the Chicago Historical society museum any day of any week and you will find some one poring over relics and trivia relevant to Chicago's great fire. One of these is the record of the first OPA of Chicago's history. This started the day after the fire when a city ordinance was passed to prevent profiteering in the sale of bread. The ceiling price was fixed at 8 cents for an eight ounce loaf.

Included in the relics are contemporary newspaper accounts of the tragedy. Our favorite item is a letter from Robert Bonner Esq., proprietor of the New York Ledger, offering aid to newspapermen left destitute by the fire. Almost losing its editorial equilibrium, THE TRIBUNE announced with gusto: "Bully for Bonner!"

MRS. ROSENBERG DISTRUSTS HIM.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—I wonder if any part of this letter my husband sent to me from Corsica, after a year right behind the front lines in Italy, might be of interest to you. He is a physician in civilian life, has been overseas since January of 1943, and in the army since June, 1941.

"Dearest: Your letters from Aug. 10-21 caught up today, and received a box due since my birthday which didn't have much left in it—those boxes they sell for mailing come apart at the ends.

"It's really chilly tonight—don't know what I'll do when it gets cold. Think I'll try to get transferred to a hospital unit as three years away from it is pretty long. I'm plenty tired tonight, so maybe I ought to write down some of the things I'm tired of, such as: eating food cooked the same way every meal, every day; seeing the same people, and living with them without any privacy; sitting around evenings with nothing to do and nothing decent to read; using a box latrine full of splinters; working in mud with no warm place to go and dry off; needing a woman and knowing I won't get one until I get home [or even intending to]; drinking "ratgut" when we have no beer [that's pretty often]; being shelled and shot at but not nearly as badly as others; listening to minor ailments from a bunch of G. I.'s who are only homesick [like me]; realizing that people still want heroes and are dissatisfied with living their normal lives [thus probably starting another war in 30 years]; watching the effects of rank [or lack of it] on the soldiers—even if it is the only apparent way to run an army, it is not fair to all; thinking of all the children in Germany who don't know any better; reading columns from magazines at home, written by people who don't know what they're talking about [ask any of the boys over here]; getting up at 6:45 every morning—if we're lucky; living out of a suitcase, wearing the same drab brown suit of clothes; fighting mosquitoes, flies, and spiders [or worse] constantly; thinking of the men and boys whom I've seen with broken bones, shattered limbs, holes in them, and those sewed up in mattress covers; thinking about all the wasted money and lives. Boy, am I tired!

"The catch is that I'm glad I'm alive; nobody is shooting at me now; I love you and my boy [tho my two months of living with him was pretty meager, as he is over 2 now] and have plenty to look forward to if I get back; but I think of those others who have had it much worse than I, and I'm so glad I'm still alive!

"I sent in my vote today and followed your advice, tho we all over here doubt if he can get in. You say you're getting old and I'd better get back there if we intend to have a companion for our son. Thirty-one isn't so old. We're just maturing—I? I'm doing it rapidly! Love."

That story about Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg keeping the boys overseas longer prompted this.

SOLDIER'S WIFE.

A MOTHER WAITS FOR HER SON.

Hinsdale, Ill., Oct. 5.—My plan this morning was to go into my garden and pot the remaining plants to be taken inside to add cheer to the home for my son to enjoy on his return from the combat zone when his missions as a pilot of a B-24 bomber have been completed. But after reading about the plans Mrs. Anna [White House] Rosenberg has to offer after her long sojourn, 17 days in all, in France, for the adjustments necessary before returning our soldiers to their homes, I put aside the trowel for the pen.

My ambition is to keep our home as nearly like it was when my son left it two years ago, like the home he writes about coming back to, the home he keeps telling us he is fighting for and from which he received the moral courage which carries him on his way today. No sacrifice he adds will be too great, in his eyes, to preserve that home. Am I to let some strange person, highly trained tho he or she may be, enter that sacred chamber with advice on how to make adjustments in his home? God forbid.

There are millions of other homes like the one I speak of and there must be just that many millions of plans by wives and mothers for the day when these men return. We will brook no interference. So please, please, we ask you, keep your hands off.

No doubt many mothers feel as I do about the two prominent social workers who have been residents at the White House for a long period. With the many changes in the "first" family with whom they live, there has been a great deal of room for adjustments which have been overlooked by these experts. A good example from our first family would be a great influence on many of our citizens.

"RUSSIAN BORN."

Shabbona, Ill., Sept. 25.—In a recent speech Harold Ickes, in denouncing use of the term "Russian born," said: "Russian born blood was being spilled on the battle fields of Europe for the allied cause." I have been under the impression that "Russian born blood" was being spilled on the battle fields for the Russian cause and that American born blood was also being spilled for the same cause.

GREEN ASSAILS F.D.R. VETOES OF VETERANS BILLS

Brooks and Lyons Lash New Deal Policies.

BY ROBERT HOWARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 8.—Gov. Green branded the Roosevelt administration as the foe of the war veterans today. It was called the friend and protector of communists by Sen. Brooks and Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for senator.

They were the principal speakers at the 17th annual convention of the Illinois Republican Servicemen's league, which launched a program of informing soldiers and their families about the "anti-veteran record" established by President Roosevelt.

Gov. Green, candidate for reelection, told the audience of more than 300 that the New Deal has displayed "indifference or contempt for the veterans of the nation's battles."

Ended Vets' Benefits.

"The New Deal occupied Washington, D. C., on March 4, 1933," the governor related. "And, strangely enough, to us now, the New Deal immediately invented of all things, an economy bill, with all the haste they could muster, under the lash. The congress passed the measure which reduced for the veterans of the great war those benefits provided for them by previous Republican administrations."

Green said the economy act, signed March 20, 1933, by the President, penalized veterans by reducing by 20 per cent the compensation for veterans crippled by battle wounds.

"Either men like you veterans will run this nation, or we will have the Browders and the Hillmans in control of America," Lyons told the convention, warning that Earl Browder, communist leader pardoned by the President, and Sidney Hillman, head of the political action committee, are in charge of the New Deal campaign.

Indorsed by League.

Lyons, Gov. Green, and other Republican candidates were indorsed by the league.

Sen. Brooks denounced Browder as a World War I. draft dodger who, after being pardoned in 1942 from a federal sentence for perjury, came to Chicago to hold a mass meeting in the Civic Opera house and advocate the election of Brooks' opponent, Raymond McKeough. Brooks won reelection by more than 200,000 votes.

Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett, another speaker, warned "if communism achieves permanent and total power in America, then American freedom will be no more."

Other Republican candidates addressing the convention were Arnold P. Benson, nominee for Secretary of State; Conrad F. Becker, running for state treasurer, and the congressman at large, Stephen A. Day.

Joseph B. McGlynn of East St. Louis was elected chairman of the league, succeeding Joseph F. Novotny of Chicago. The new senior vice chairman is W. Glenn Suthers of Chicago.

KANKAKEE POLL GIVES BIG EDGE TO REPUBLICANS

Fifth Larger than It Was in 1940.

Kankakee county will give Republican national and state candidates majorities ranging upward from 70 per cent on the basis of a poll taken in the city of Kankakee Saturday afternoon by Werner W. Schroeder, Republican national committeeman for Illinois. This is an increase of nearly 20 per cent over Republican majorities in the county in 1940.

Schroeder, a native of Kankakee, emphasized that the poll was taken during the Saturday afternoon shopping period and the 253 ballots cast contained a fair representation of business men, factory workers off for the afternoon and farmers making their week-end purchases.

Split Tickets for Dewey.

The poll included 175 straight Republican ballots and 72 straight Democratic votes. There were only six split tickets, all of which were for Dewey and raised his total to 181, or 71.7 per cent of the total vote. This compares with 52.5 per cent for Willkie in 1940.

Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for senator, received 175 votes. His Democratic opponent, Sen. Lucas, received 73 votes, giving Lyons a majority of 70 per cent. Sen. Brooks carried the county in 1940 by 54 per cent.

Green Shows Gain.

Gov. Green received 175 votes and his Democratic opponent, Thomas J. Courtney, 72 votes, giving Green a majority of 70.5 per cent. Green carried the county by 55 per cent when he first was elected governor in 1940.

Kankakee county is normally Republican. Roosevelt carried the county in 1932 and again in 1936, but Willkie carried it by 52.5 per cent in 1940.

TWO NEWSBOYS FIND OPOSSUM; IT AIDS BUSINESS

Arthur Aevernann, 11, of 2416 N. 72d ct., Elmwood Park, and Frank Gard, 12, of 7200 Grand av., found an opossum yesterday morning on their way to work at a newsstand at Grand and Harlem avs., and now they want to keep it.

The animal, alternating between playing 'possum and snarling, proved a class A business stimulator at the newsstand, the boys reported later, and resulted in the sale of 50 additional newspapers.

Mrs. Eleanor Aevernann, Arthur's mother, failed to share the boys' enthusiasm.

5 OF MUNICIPAL JUDGES FAIL TO PASS BAR TEST

Defeat Recommended in Report of Committee.

BY GUY GENTRY.

The most serious condemnation ever given any group of Municipal court judges seeking reelection is contained in this year's report of the committee on candidates of the Chicago Bar association, recommending that five of the 12 Democratic judges seeking new six year terms on the Municipal court bench be defeated.

This is the largest number of sitting judges failing to win the approbation of the bar committee since establishment of the Municipal court in 1906. Nearest approach to this record was in 1936, when four of the sitting judges failed to gain recommendations for reelection. In addition to the five which the bar report recommended for defeat, two of the remaining seven received the "fairly" qualified classification which is the lowest the bar committee gives and is next to urging defeat.

Rating Explained.

Republican opponents charge that the low standing of so many members of the Municipal court bench is because of the fact that all 37 judges of the court are now Democrats and that this party monopoly is being maintained by the city hall machine with the aid of gambling syndicates and to the detriment of the impartial administration of justice in the Municipal court.

The formula under which judges are classified in the bar association report is based on personal and professional integrity, legal ability, and judicial fitness in character and temperament. Judges are rated as not qualified, then upward as fairly qualified, qualified, well qualified, and—only in the case of judges who have distinguished themselves—exceptionally well qualified.

Judges and Ratings.

N. J. Bonelli, 53 years old, 12 years on bench, not qualified.

William V. Daly, 47, six years on bench, well qualified.

Frank E. Donoghue, 70, six years on bench, fairly qualified.

John Gutknecht, 54, six years on bench, well qualified.

Eugene J. Holland, 49, 12 years on bench, not qualified.

Samuel Heller, 54, six years on bench, qualified.

Victor A. Kula, 40, six years on bench, not qualified.

Edward P. Luczak, 43, six years on bench, not qualified.

John R. McSweeney, 54, two years on bench, fairly qualified.

Joseph H. McGarry, 49, 11 years on bench, qualified.

Cecil Corbett Smith, 51, 11 years on bench, well qualified.

Mason S. Sullivan, 50, six years on bench, not qualified.

FAIL TO IDENTIFY MARINE IN RAPE SLAYING OF GIRL

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 (AP).—Earl McFarland, marine corps private charged with murder in the strangling of Dorothy Berrum, 18, war department clerk, appeared today in a police lineup with five other marines before several persons who had given information in the case.

None of the witnesses, including a taxicab driver who said he drove the girl and her escort to the Potomac park golf course early Friday morning, was able to identify McFarland, who continued to protest his innocence.

The body of the slain girl, who Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said was raped before being garroted, was turned over today to her father, R. S. Berrum of Chippewa Falls, Wis. A coroner's inquest will be held tomorrow. The coroner's jury released the body after being sworn in and viewing it yesterday.

Park Playhouse Program Opens on W-G-N Tonight

A new radio program dramatizing the recreational and other benefits afforded Chicagoans by the Chicago park district will start this evening on W-G-N. Entitled "Park Playhouse," the program will be sponsored by the Chicago Motor Coach company, and will be broadcast from 8:30 to 9 p. m. [CWT]. It will be heard each Monday at the same time.

'The Key' . . . . . By Patricia Wentworth

(Copyright: 1944: By Patricia Wentworth Trumbull.)

INSTALMENT XIX.

MEDORA ADAMANT.

After an impressive pause old Lamb was leading off. "You are Miss Medora Brown?"

"Yes."

"You gave evidence yesterday in the inquest on Mr. Michael Harsch, during which you stated that, having used your church key on Tuesday morning, you put it back in the top left-hand drawer of Miss Fell's bureau, and that you did not go to the church again."

"Yes."

"Would you like to modify that statement at all, or to add to it?"

Her lips hardly moved, but they said, "No."

Lamb made a show of unfolding a paper.

"I have here the statement of a witness who says he was in a lane known as the Church Cut somewhere between nine and a quarter to 10 on the night of Mr. Harsch's death. He states that you came thru the garden door into the lane, and that Prof. Madoc met you, and asked you whether you were going to the church to see Mr. Harsch, who was playing the organ there. He said that you should not go, and that you should hand him over the key. When you refused, he twisted your arm and the key fell. The witness declares that Mr. Madoc picked it up and went off in the direction of the church, whilst you went back into the garden and shut the door. Have you any comment to make?"

"No."

"It is only fair to tell you that Maj. Albany says that your key was not in the drawer on Thursday evening, but that by the time you all returned from the inquest on Friday morning it had been replaced. There is further evidence to show that you left the house at midnight on Thursday for a quarter of an hour, and that you went into the lane. There was some broken glass there, and you brought a bit of it in on your dress. Mr. Madoc also picked up a bit of broken glass. From which we infer that you met him again on Thursday night, and that he then gave you back the key which he had taken from you on Tuesday."

There was a somewhat prolonged pause. Lifting his eyes from his notebook, Sgt. Abbott surveyed Miss Brown. It was as if, having heard the worst, she was assembling her courage.

"Of course I don't know who your witness is, but he is quite mistaken in what he saw. I can tell you exactly what happened. I could hear that Mr. Harsch was playing the organ in the church. He was a very fine musician. I have often gone into the church to listen when he was playing. I meant to do so on Tuesday evening. I took my key because sometimes he has locked the door. I was just going into the lane, when I heard footsteps and saw some one coming from the direction of the village. It was a man, but I didn't recognize him. It certainly wasn't Mr. Madoc. The man called out something, I don't know what, and I went back into the garden and shut the door, as your witness says. I thought the man was intoxicated, and I gave up the idea of going to the church. Afterwards when I got up to my room I found that I had dropped my key."

"Did you go back to look for it?"

"It was getting late—the man had startled me—I thought Miss Fell would be coming up to bed—I didn't want to make explanations—I thought I would leave it till the morning."

Frank Abbott thought, "One reason would have been enough—and she's given us five. Five explanations means that something wants a lot of explaining away."

He wrote what she had said, and heard Lamb ask,

"How do you know that it wasn't Mr. Madoc who came along the lane?"

"It wasn't any one as tall as Mr. Madoc."

"Did you see his face?"

"You are sure that you didn't recognize him?"

"Quite sure."

"Then how do you account for the fact that he addressed you as Medora? That is your name, isn't it?"

Her hands took hold of one another. Frank watched them. They strained and tightened.

"I told you he called out. I couldn't hear what he said. He may have mistaken me for some one else. The cook next door is called Dora."

Bent over his notebook again, Frank Abbott permitted himself a slight sarcastic smile. Lamb said,

"You deny having had any conversation with this man? The statement I spoke of says that words passed between you on the subject of Mr. Harsch."

"There was no conversation. I went back into the garden."

"Yes—leaving your key. When did you get it back again, Miss Brown?"

"I went to look for it on Wednesday morning. I am afraid I didn't look very carefully. We had had the news of Mr. Harsch's death, and I was terribly upset. I didn't think about the key being important until some one—I think it was Miss Doncaster said that of course the police would ask a lot of questions about the other church keys. That was on Thursday. So that evening I waited for the moon and went out into the lane to see if I could find my key."

"Why did you have to wait for the moon? Wouldn't it have been a good deal simpler by daylight?"

"I hadn't time—I couldn't get away. I am Miss Fell's companion, Maj. Albany was coming to stay—there was a great deal to do."

Lamb said, "I see. Go on, Miss Brown."

"There isn't anything more. I found the key. There was some broken glass there, as you said. I suppose I must have brought a bit in. I naturally didn't imagine that any one would be spying on me."

He said gravely, "Where did you find the key?" and at once she was relaxed.

"Which side of the door?"

Lamb got up, went to the window, and stood there looking out. He could see the wall, and the shape of the door breaking it. Without turning round he said,

"The handle's on the left. Those doors open inwards, don't they?"

"Yes."

He came back to his seat. Miss Brown went on speaking.

"The key must have fallen out of my hand when the man startled me. It was right up against the wall, quite close to the jamb. The moon happened to shine on it, or I might not have seen it."

"And did Mr Madoc come there to help you look for your key?"

She drew back. The effect was that she flinched.

"How could he help me? He wasn't there. Nobody helped me."

"You deny that you met Mr. Madoc in the lane on Thursday night?"

"Of course I deny it. He wasn't there. I went out, and found the key, and put it back in the bureau drawer."

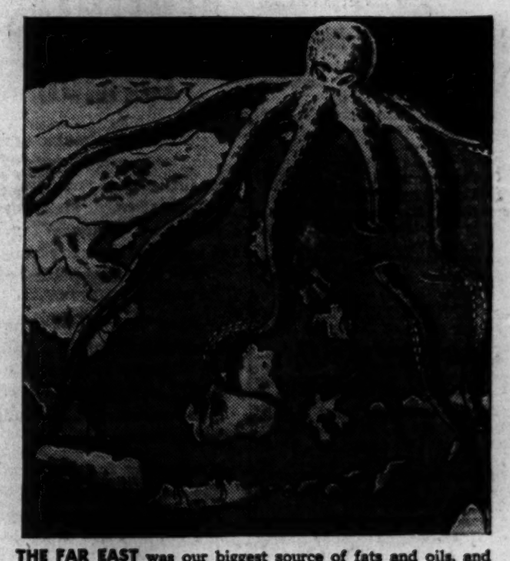
SAVE A BUNDLE!

Waste paper is desperately needed to pack food, plasma, ammunition. Save a bundle a week and save a boy's life.

THE JAPS STILL HAVE THE FATS!

You must keep saving used kitchen grease!



THE FAR EAST was our biggest source of fats and oils, and the Japs still hold that . . . still control the billion pounds we used to import every year. So even though we are winning victories in Europe, we can't relax on saving used fats. Our victories so far haven't helped our shortage problem one bit.

YOU WOMEN OF AMERICA have been doing a grand job saving used fats. This year you are turning them in at the rate of more than 200,000,000 pounds a year. It isn't a glamorous job but you have plugged away at it . . . scraping the grease from pans and broilers . . . saving the meat trimmings and table scraps. They seem so little at the time, but how they mount up!

KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK! Those used fats are needed more urgently than ever to make explosives, tanks, guns, synthetic rubber, soaps, medicines and hundreds of other vital war and civilian materials. So save now as you've never saved before and, as soon as the can is full, rush it to your butcher. He will give you 2 free red points and 4¢ for every pound.

Chicago Opera Lovers Await Opening Curtain Next Week

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH the opening of Chicago's own grand opera season one week away, anticipation of a pleasurable five week operatic calendar is mounting in the hearts of opera fans. It is expected that opening night next Monday will draw a brilliant audience to witness a dashing "Carmen," with Gladys Swarthout in the leading role.

All boxes have been sold for the first performance, and those who bought coupon books have been busy during the last two weeks reserving seats. Seats will go on sale to the public today.

Chicagoans whose names have been synonymous with opera audiences for generations will be in the theater, but in main floor seats and not in the boxes they once dignified. The list of boxholders for this coming opening night contains the names of many families who have been active in the support of opera during more recent years, among them John D. Allen, head of the opera's board of directors; Robert Hall McCormick and Jason F. Whitney, past chairmen of the board; Abner J. Stilwell, Conrad H. Poppenhusen, Herbert J. Lorber, L. Lewis Cohen, and others who have served and still serve on the board and who have brought new blood and enthusiasm into the task of keeping grand opera alive in Chicago.

Two new hostesses in opening night boxes which have had bachelor hosts for many years will be Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. Fred A. Poor, whose husband is a member of the board of governors and chairman of the subscription committee. Mr. McCormick and the former Mrs. George Baker Robbins were married last February, and Mr. Poor and the former Mrs. Martha B. Dalton were married in August. At present the Poors are having a short holiday at the Homestead in Hot Springs, Va., but will back for the opening night performance.

Miss Anna Fitzu, who has engaged five boxes for the opening, will take her guests back to her studio at 1016 N. Dearborn st. for a Chinese supper after the performance. Other boxholders for opening night are the Malcolm J. Boyles, the Fredrik A. Chramers, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Goldstein, Mr. and Mrs. George I. Haight, the James D. Harveys, the Harry I. Hoffmans, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Hollender, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Leverone, the James G. McMillans, the Sigurd Olsens, the Vincent P. Reillys, the George S. Wrisleys, Dr. and Mrs. Melford Zinser, the Fausto Clevas, the Illinois Opera Guild, and the Opera Guild Juniors.

Mrs. McMillan presented the Opera Guild Juniors' box to that youthful organization, and sharing it opening night will be the four young women who have sold the most coupon ticket books. Miss Mary Jane Brummel, president of the Juniors; Mrs. Edward A. Wheeler, Miss Marilou Heilman, and Miss Betty Berry will be hostesses. The senior guild's box will be occupied that night by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Mikolas and their party.

Engagement News.

Young friends of Miss Elizabeth Jane Amberg and John M. Murtaugh who were invited to tea yesterday in the Lake View av. home of Miss Amberg's mother, Mrs. John Ward Amberg, learned of their engagement at the party. Miss Amberg, who attended the Convent of the Sacred Heart and was graduated from Barat college in Lake Forest, is one of 11 children. One of her brothers, John, was ordained a Jesuit priest last June, and two others are in the service, Sgt. William Amberg with the army in Texas and Lt. [j. g.] Thomas Amberg with the navy in the Pacific. She also is a sister of Mrs. Charles F. Pigott, Mrs. George Fiedler, Mrs. Edmund Egan, Miss Virginia and Miss Catherine Amberg, and Bertrand and Gilbert Amberg.

Mrs. Murtaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. Murtaugh of Marshfield av., received his degree from Loyola university.

Today's Events.

Every box has been sold for a celebration at 8:15 p. m. tonight in Orchestra hall to observe the 33d anniversary of the founding of the Republic of China. Gen. Shang Chen, chief of the Chinese military mission to the United States and a veteran of seven years of warfare against the Japanese, will be the speaker. Gen. Shang, who with his aides is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald P. Boardman in Lake Forest, will be introduced by Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, commander of the army service forces. The American Friends of China, the Chinese community of Chicago, the Community and War Fund, the Institute on Pacific Relations, and the Chicago committee of United China Relief are sponsoring the program. Proceeds will go to China relief. Before the celebration the governors of the American Friends of China will entertain at dinner at the Casino club.

The Evanston Junior league will hold its opening fall luncheon today in the Orrington hotel in Evanston. As a pleasant innovation to the gathering, which in the past has been "purely business," Sarah Weidner Youngren will review Sumner Wells' book, "The Time for Decision," at 10:45 a. m. Mrs. Harold Yeggé will preside at the business meeting following luncheon. There also will be a brief talk on the Community and War fund drive by Prof. E. T. McSwain of the school of education at Northwestern university.

Mrs. Gösta Oldenburg, wife of the Swedish consul general; Mrs. Eyvind Bratt, wife of the Swedish vice consul; Mrs. Hugo A. Anderson, whose husband is chairman of the Chicago chapter of the American-Scandinavian Foundation; Mrs. Hatford H. Kittleman, and Mrs. Nathaniel Leverone will pour at a tea which the chapter is giving at 4:30 p. m. today in the Woodrow Wilson meeting room in the International Relations center, 84 E. Randolph st. At 5 p. m. Miss Elsa Pehrson, magazine publisher from Stockholm, Sweden, will lecture on "Swedish Modern."

Here and There.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Colton Daughaday will give a luncheon on Dec. 29 at the Indian Hill club to introduce to society their daughter, Deborah. Debutantes of the season and other young friends of the bud will be invited.

Altho the name of Miss Nancy Bagley was included in the list of young women who will make formal debuts this season, Miss Bagley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Bagley of Winnetka, has decided against a large party. She will enter into the debutante festivities when she returns from Manhattanville college at Christmas time.

Mrs. William Fuller of Fort Worth, Tex., has been spending a few days in Winnetka as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Wallace D. MacKenzie.

Friends Honor Memory of C. W. Barnes

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Chicago Sunday Evening club, Orchestra hall, last night paid memorial tribute to its founder and late president, Clifford Webster Barnes, who died three weeks ago. Speakers included Edward L. Ryerson, Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of the Methodist area of Washington, D. C., and Dr. Alfred Lee Wilson of Kenwood church, who spoke at the early club service at 7 o'clock.

Speaking as an associate of Mr. Barnes in the club, the Community Fund and the Chicago council of social agencies, Mr. Ryerson reviewed his broad civic interests and activities. Mr. Ryerson pointed especially to Mr. Barnes' work as head of the Legislative Voters' league, and his founding of the Committee of Fifteen, designed to fight for moral and civic decency.

"In addition, Mr. Barnes served as vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and was for two years president of the Chicago Church federation," said Mr. Ryerson. "I have seen him deal with difficult situations where strong influences were brought to bear in an effort to obtain a compromise agreement, but I have never seen him divert from the standards he believed were right in order to obtain the desired result."

Like the Keystone state in which Mr. Barnes was born, Bishop Hughes declared him to be a "keystone for many serviceable arches in Chicago and the world."

"He appeared to be at home with the big bass drum of the Salvation Army, with the music of the cathedral organ, and counted priests and rabbis as his good friends," said Bishop Hughes.

"Out of that ample spirit, broadly nonsectarian, there came the Sunday Evening club," Bishop Hughes recalled. "This has been his lengthened shadow. In its meetings have been discarded all labels that claimed monopoly on the road to heaven. He brought the plan from the Latin quarter of Paris, thus the prototype was international. He was its founder over there, and the pattern he imported to Chicago was his own. The work was always interdenominational."

Dr. Wilson reviewed the 37 years of the club, and Dr. Barnes' association with it. Dr. Wilson recalled the early days of Dr. Barnes' informal Bible talks which soon required Orchestra hall to accommodate his listeners, saying that for 30 years Mr. Barnes spoke to 1,500 to 2,000 persons each Sunday night during the club season.

Miss Thorborg Recital Lacks Only Warmth

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Some of the things a song recital should be, and some of the things such an observance might well avoid being, were both demonstrated in the recital given by Kerstin Thorborg at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. Leo Mueller was the accompanist and the event was under auspices of the American Daughters of Sweden.

Miss Thorborg is a routined and mature artist with a keen musical intelligence that prevents her from violating good taste or the soundest traditions. While her voice may not now have the sheen or the full lower register strongly in evidence in her notable recording of Mahler's "Lied von der Erde," made eight years ago, it is still a serviceable and at times a brilliant instrument.

Where yesterday's recital fell short was in the absence of a heartwarming sense of beauty that might have brought varied and individual life to the songs she sang. The details were mostly unexceptionable — the style correct, the vocal resources adequate. But this very perfection—essentially cold and intellectual—contributed to an impression of monotony.

There was much that was fine after the low level of the opening Handel [an aria from the forgotten oratorio, "Alexander Balus"] and Beethoven ["Die Ehre Gottes," incorrectly programmed as "Hymn"]. The Brahms songs varied, from "Von ewiger Liebe," in which the different voices were not sufficiently differentiated, to a lively "Ständchen" and a vigorous "Der Schmied," the latter an encore.

"My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delilah," had the touch of the operatic expert, and two songs by the American composer, Marion Bauer, were of musical interest and invested with warmer eloquence than anything else on the program. Four songs by Swedish composers, plus two folk songs of that nation as encores, ended the afternoon in somewhat chill fashion.

Little opera continues to prosper as little theater once thrived. Last night's performance of "La Traviata" by the Chicago Concert and Opera guild at the Eighth Street theater had its merits and inconsistencies, and was generally fortunate in having a conductor, Silvio Insana, who both literally and figuratively knew the score.

It had a first act that went brightly and with dispatch. The chorus was good, the stage business smooth, and the Violetta was an attractive young woman, Marilynn Sherman, with a voice of lovely quality, who sang well in spite of momentary hazards in "Sempre libera." The tenor, Robert Fitzgerald, had a lyric voice of decided promise, tho his acting is still on the naive side. But the second act slumped. Miss Sherman's voice began to show signs of strain, and the elder Germont, Pete Kuhns, was not one to separate two lovers. He knew the part and acted it reasonably well, but he not only often swallowed his voice but sometimes chewed it first.

Ballet Russe Puts Its Best Foot Foremost as Farewell Gesture

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

THE BALLET RUSSE went away smiling, having coaxed some $79,000 into the Civic Opera house in 15 performances, eight of them sold out, with the disappointed hovering hopefully at the doors, just in case you weren't using your tickets.

Ordinarily, this would put a return engagement in the bag, but the trouble is we are short of bags. Ever since the Auditorium vanished from the booking scene, big shows have had to wait their turn at the opera house. Ballet Theater comes Nov. 24, between the opera season and "Porgy and Bess," and Ballet International is a likely visitor if it is a success at its New York début. But the chances are we wait another season for the return of the Ballet Russe.

By that time another Balanchine ballet or two may have been restored to the repertory, and that promised piece about New Orleans may be more than a designer's dream. For the season struck Balanchine gold, for all his silver jubilee, and while the most brilliant of the three novelties turned out to be the brand new "Danses Concertantes," in collaboration with Stravinsky and Berman, both "Ballet Imperial" and "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" look to me like regulars in the repertory.

Particularly as it was danced yesterday afternoon, with chic Moylan and Magallanes in high spirits with elevation to match, "Ballet Imperial" was a lovely thing to watch, a young and exuberant gesture in the not quite classic mood. "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" is a satirical jest, even in décor, and tho it rates as a revised revival, Balanchine himself says it is incomplete to the point of improvisation. Give it time, a conductor who understands and can project Richard Strauss' complex score, put Franklin back in the role created for him, turn the comic of the title role into a figure like the Little King, as Balanchine planned, and I think you have something. In fact, I think so even the way we saw it.

But "Danses Concertantes" is complete, audacious, and exquisite, just as it bursts on one of the most brilliant stages in ballet, all jewel colors glittering against the grayed black of an old engraving. Sergei Denham, director of the troupe, says it is the "Classical Symphony" of ballet, and I wish I had thought of that first. It has precisely the elegance, the unexpected wit, the tongue in cheek gaiety of Prokofieff's symphony, and it is danced by Danilova, Danielian, and 12 picked dancers in the wiry elegance of true Prokofieff, as well as Stravinsky, idiom.

In all these ballets, as in the treasured "Serenade," Balanchine has almost obliterated the standard corps de ballet. Every one is treated as a soloist, and that gracious generosity seemed to have invaded yesterday's "Sylphides," where every one danced in moonstruck mood, with memorable results. Krassovska, dancing both mazurka and prelude, was at her best, with a drifting dreaminess reminiscent of Markova, while Danielian caught the reserve that is the saving grace of the sole male in the ballet, and Talichief danced with the clarity that makes some people call her the exclamation point. Why does the ballet start to dance like that just when it is leaving town?

Former Missionary Will Talk Before Church Group

Mrs. Arthur F. Tylee, a member of the staff of the Moody Bible Institute, will speak on Thursday at 2 p. m. before the Lockwood avenue Evangelical church missionary society. Mrs. Tylee is a former missionary in South America. While working with the Indians in the Matto Grosso region in Brazil, their station was attacked by natives, who killed her husband, daughter and a nurse, and injured her. She is now conducting church classes for the Bible institute and on the radio.

Bob Crosby Sings in This Western Film

"THE SINGING SHERIFF."

"The Singing Sheriff" is a tongue-in-the-cheek Western—and that's probably as good as any kind.

The importance—if any—of this picture is that it gives Bob Crosby his first full length acting role. Well, you can call it an acting role, and you might say he acts. Without splitting hairs, Bob is personable, likeable, and romantic in a kid brotherly sort of way. Whether you like his singing more or less than brother Bing's depends on your taste. It hasn't that touch of melancholy which devastates some people, but it has at least as many vitamins—and he doesn't do things to Schubert's "Ave Maria" or "Silent Night, Holy Night."

The Bob may be proud of his acting assignment, he is still best when he sings and he delivers some good quasi-cowboy lyrics in this picture. There's an amusing musical courtroom scene in which the judge and the accused are both drawn into the merriment, and Bob has some other catchy tunes with smart lines—"When a Cowboy Sings," "Another Night," and "Reach for the Sky."

You may like Fay Mackenzie, Gene Autry's erstwhile leading lady—I didn't. Iris Adrian is an adequate toughie, and Fuzzy Knight is the best all 'round trouper in the show.

The plot—but there's no need to bring that up.—A. G.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 8.—Arthur Schwartz, producer of "Cover Girl," is back from New York after getting background material on the life of Sime Silverman, of Variety fame. He's practically certain that Humphrey Bogart will play Sime, and it's likely Ann Sheridan will be Hattie, his wife, because Hattie was also a redhead. . . . Joel McCrea is saturating himself, looking at all the old Will Rogers pictures, because there's a deal brewing at Warners for him to play Will. . . . It's about time. Twentieth has bought Frances Marion's story, "Molly, Bless Her." It's about Marie Dressler's life. Gracie Fields and Monty Woolley will do it. Part of the story concerns Marie when she was forced to become a cook to keep things going. At one time Metro was almost ready to go into production with it, with Sophie Tucker and Fanny Brice in the leading roles. I don't know whom Monty's taking over for.

Would Hamlet Pass?

O, my gosh! The Hays office has put a ceiling on the number of bodies you can have in a Western. Now it's eight. . . . Producers are mighty sensitive, too, about gunwomen on the screen these days. Are they afraid it might give some Hollywood ladies an idea? . . . Even the crew at Goldwyn's is saying that Danny Kaye's success has gone to his head. . . . Casey Robinson is just another commuting husband since his ballet dancing wife is doing her stuff in New York. . . . "Rhapsody in Blue" is Warner's bid for an Academy award this year. "Saratoga Trunk" with Ingrid Bergman and Gary Cooper, being a costume picture, will hold over until next season.

Friendship That Lasted.

When Lucille Bremer and Jane Ball shared dressing rooms in the stage show "Panama Hattie" and later at New York's Club Versailles, they made a bargain that whichever got a big break first would help the other. So when Lucille came out to Hollywood, she brought Jane with her and shared her home with her. Now Jane has her first featured role in "Keys of the Kingdom" and Lucille is well on her way—her next being with Fred Astaire and Lucille Ball in "Yolanda and the Thief." . . . Vince Barnett, kidding on the "Thrill of a Romance" set, said "I know a young couple and the OPA even set a ceiling on their castle in the air." . . . Depending on his picture commitments, Lowell Gilmore may go to New York for about three months to co-direct and produce a play with Robert Milton. It's the Russian play, "Distant Point," by Afinogenev, first produced in London in 1941.

Closing in Self-Defense.

Trains, hotels, and bars have planned to close down on V-day. So will studios, department stores, and all business. They know folks won't work anyway. Hotels and trains are afraid if bars aren't closed the happy celebrants will wreck the joints. . . . Virginia Weidler's only 17, but wants to go overseas to entertain. . . . Ralph Bellamy won't return until early next summer for another Hunt Stromberg picture. . . . William Trenk, Continental vaudeville star, got himself a comedy part in Republic's "Hitch Hike to Happiness." Several years ago, before our entry into the war, he did a gag magic act in Vienna. One by one he made flags of all nations disappear. Then out came a big Nazi flag—but suddenly it exploded in a big flash. His Austrian audience applauded wildly, until one night the Gestapo saw his show. He was over the border and away the next day.

Household Forum

—By Louise Bargeh—

Mrs. H. J., South Bend, Ind.—My son taught me how to press trousers, "army style." I press as always, a damp cloth over creases, and then follow up by laying a double sheet of newspaper over trousers, and run iron over them smoothly.

Sarah A., Kankakee, Ill.—Last winter, in an emergency, when we had to raise temperature in a sick room we covered entire window openings with cellophane sheets, thumbtacked to window frame's indoor face. This made room a little warmer and did not shut off light.

Goren on Bridge - - - By Charles H. Goren

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ.

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠QJ3 ♥93 ♦A754 ♣KQ106
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. This is somewhat unorthodox with only three trumps, but unfortunately there is no good bid available. Had you not previously passed the proper response would be two of a minor suit intending to support spades on the next round. But since you have once passed a takeout into two of a suit might readily be passed by partner, who could not support such a good hand.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠954 ♥Q72 ♦K1062 ♣KJ5
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 club	Double	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump. This is a good hand opposite a double and the no trump response is preferable to showing the minor suit. Had your suit been hearts or spades, preference should be given to the major.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠Q63 ♥753 ♦KJ62 ♣532
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
1 spade	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. You have done your duty by giving partner one chance on this hand. Since you are prepared to play one spade, no further action should be taken. Partner's change of suit is not forcing on you since you did not open the bidding. If partner wished to insist upon hearing from you, he should have bid two spades.

Q. 4—Both sides vulnerable. As South you hold:
♠73 ♥AK1074 ♦A93 ♣KQJ
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South
3 spades	?

What do you bid?

A.—Double. This is always a difficult situation. A double of three spades should be treated by partner as more or less optional. If he has a balanced hand, and leaves the double in, the opponents should be down. If he has a long suit without honor strength he should bid it. By all means do not overcall with four hearts. The man who did went down for 1,100 points and three spades could have been defeated.

Q. 5—You are South and vulnerable, opponents are not and you hold:
♠A4 ♥AQ74 ♦A85 ♣AQ76
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 diamond	Double
1 no trump	2 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. In one bid suggesting a slam, in view of partner's free bid. I know this appears to be a pinochle deck, but the opposition is no doubt, essaying a piece of highway robbery.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠J ♥KQ93 ♦765 ♣AQ965
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Six hearts. Partner's jump shift is the strongest bid in bridge aside from an opening bid of two in a suit. Your hand has the playing value of more than an opening bid, so that the slam is an absolute certainty. If there is a grand slam in the hand partner should be able to bid it, when he knows you have powerful heart support and a good club suit.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠104 ♥J1095 ♦AKJ9 ♣K95
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. When the king of clubs is regarded as a sure trick because of partner's bid of that suit, your hand is equal to an opening bid and you should assume responsibility for game.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠KQJ2 ♥5 ♦A1097 ♣KQ75
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	2 clubs	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

What is your opening lead?

A.—King of spades. This is preferable to the singleton heart the partner bid that suit. With such strong trumps you are not anxious to obtain ruffs. Better force declarer. You will have plenty of time to lead the heart if it becomes expedient to do so.

Baking powder coffee cakes which may be prepared in short order are favorites. Many women like the quick muffin mixes which may be transformed into coffee cake by spreading the batter in a pan instead of filling muffin cups, and sprinkling it with brown sugar and margarine.

A breakfast coffee cake shouldn't be too sweet, but almost every one loves a sugary topping. Brown sugar is more easily to be had than white, these days, and it tastes better on a coffee cake, too. Or the hot bread may be drizzled with honey and sprinkled with cinnamon a few minutes before it is ready to come out of the oven.

Orange Coffee Cake.
[8 or 9 inch square pan.]

2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
Grated rind of 1 orange
¼ cup lard or vegetable shortening
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
Topping

Sift flour, salt, sugar, and baking powder. Add orange rind and cut in fat. Add milk and egg and stir just enough to blend. Turn into greased pan and add topping made by blending ½ cup brown sugar with the juice of the orange used to flavor the cake, and 2 tablespoons melted margarine. Spread over coffee cake and bake about 25 minutes in a 400 degree oven.

If you feel extravagant, make a sweeter, thicker topping for the same cake, in this way: Blend 1 cup sifted flour with ¾ cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons melted margarine, 2 tablespoons orange juice, and 1½ teaspoons grated orange rind.

Southern Style Coffee Cake.
[8 inch square pan.]

¼ cup vegetable shortening
½ cup brown sugar
3 eggs
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening and sugar. Beat one egg and one yolk, saving second white for topping. Add to creamed mixture. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with milk. Mix to smooth batter and add vanilla. Turn into greased pan and bake 25 minutes at 375 degrees. Spread with topping and bake five minutes longer.

Topping: Combine 2 tablespoons margarine, 1 egg white, ½ cup confectioners' sugar, 3 tablespoons molasses or brown sugar, and ½ cup chopped nuts.

Try any of your favorite coffee cake recipes using brown or confectioners' sugar in place of white, if you, like most cooks, have found the former kinds of sugar easier to get than the granulated. Sometimes the substitutions make the coffee cake even better!

PREPARE TIN CANS FOR SALVAGE!

Tin Can Salvage Lags; Restaurants Get Blame

Tin can salvage reached its lowest point in Chicago during September, when less than 150 tons were sent to the detinning plant at East Chicago, Ind., Mrs. Walter J. Kelly, chairman of the Chicago OCD tin salvage committee, reported yesterday. The breakdown is caused largely by lack of coöperation by heavy users of cans, such as restaurants, hotels, and industrial institutions, she said, and indicated tin can salvage may become compulsory unless collections improve.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE.

Linser Torte.
[Serves nine.]

½ cup shortening
Grated rind of ½ lemon
½ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup ground almonds [not blanched]
1¼ cups sifted cake flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ cup raspberry jam

Cream shortening with lemon rind and sugar thoroly. Beat in egg, then ground nutmeats. Sift flour with salt and spices and add. Spread mixture in bottom and around sides of greased 8 inch cake or pie plate, reserving about one-quarter of the mixture for lattice topping. Spread jam over dough. Use pastry tube to make lattice strips of remaining dough across top of torte. Have strips thin and widely spaced. Bake until browned, about 1 hour, in a moderate [350 degrees] oven. Cool thoroly in pan. Cut in small wedges to serve.

Large Family Needs Bedding and Furniture

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The P. family has had a great deal of misfortune. It is a large one, consisting of a mother and nine children, but so far they have managed to get along without asking for public aid. The husband is a member of the merchant marine, and has been missing for the last two years. The children recently suffered from scarlet fever, and their illness added to the expenses of the family.

Furniture in such a home naturally receives hard wear, and because of circumstances, it has been impossible for their mother to replace any of the household items. They have insufficient bedding for the coming winter, and if any readers could provide sheets or blankets, they would be very useful. The mother would also be grateful for curtains, a studio couch, and if at all possible, a radio for the children.

Can any reader provide a suit, size 35 or 36, for Mr. C.? He has just been released from the hospital after undergoing a series of operations. It has not been possible for him to work for several months, and he will be unable to seek employment for some time in the future. His clothing is very shabby.

AWVS War Geography Course Will Start Today

A course in war geography, "Our Yanks Are Here," will be presented at 2 p. m. today at the Field building, 135 S. La Salle st., under auspices of the American Women's Voluntary Services. Designed to give the civilian a better understanding of the countries and territories to which service men are being assigned, the course was prepared and will be conducted by Mrs. Charles Doaks Lowry Jr., of Evanston. Further information may be obtained thru AWVS headquarters, 160 N. La Salle st.

Winter Clothes Will Be Alive with Sequins

BY REA SEEGER.

The fashion in flickers is about to take over winter clothes. Sequins, paillettes, bangles, beads, and seeds of all sizes and shapes, and everything that shines in the light, decorate every article from hats to footgear. Theater hats are masses of sequins in every color you ever thought about. Little dinks are back, also covered with the shiny glory of flat scintillating featherweight sequins.

Hair pins, combs, and dress parade halos employ wings, flowers, and large round discs of colored sequins in such unusual shades as citron, chartreuse, chalk white, azure blue, copper, bronze, scarlet, and vivid greens.

Evening bags, both the drawstring bags and the pouches, as well as the flat, swanky envelopes, are made entirely of circular cut sequins. The same shiny stuff flecks veils for dark hats, edges cuffs of pull-on gloves, is dusted lavishly over blouses, studs wide or narrow belts. In addition, it does a shine-up job on shoulders of dark wool coats and even suit jackets. Everywhere you'll see the flash of colored sequins, a sure sign that the dress parade fashions are here.

When the newest evening gowns are unpacked, you will find many of them alive with the twinkle of tiny paillettes. The sheath dinner costumes and evening jackets of wool, brocade, or bengaline also are brave with the glittering of hundreds of firefly discs. Cocktail dresses, discreet with sequins or festively ablaze with winking bits of color, complete an all-over pattern of the flickering fashion for winter, 1944.

Thru the Looking Glass

With fashion gone Victorian in a big way, there is a lushness even about the new makeup aids this fall. That "alert" and "scrubbed" look that came in with the severe war time fashions is a dead duck. This year, say the experts, women are going to look feminine, a little languid, and as elegant as they possibly can.

Women will be efficient, but they'll try hard not to look that way, apparently. They'll wear feathers in their hats, and lots of fussy jewelry, and their faces will be made up to be interesting with eye shadow, beautifully tinted powders, and lipstick shades that are different.

One of the latter is a plush red shade, brand new, that was created to go along brightly with the lush colors of the new clothes. It's the exact red of the good old red plush that was a symbol of elegance in Victorian days. It's very deep, intense—and easy to wear. It's a creamy stick, too, with sheen, which also is important this year.

With this rich, warm red, the skin must be made up to accent lushness, and even have a gardenia-like lushness itself. Very little color on the cheeks, and a foundation and a powder shade [there is a gorgeous opalescent one to harmonize with this plush red] that gives the skin a luminous quality. And eyes should be accented, subtly and cleverly, to give them the quality of depth or, better yet, the suggestion of mystery. It's all done with mirrors and makeup.

If you like whimsical trifles, you'll like the adorable little plush red Victorian slipper chair in which this new lipstick is presented in a special package. It's a decorative ornament for your dressing table, or a marvelous gift, and in it you'll find the new lipstick in the shade of the plush that covers the tiny chair, cheek rouge to match, and a box of the luminous face powder that complements it.

Don't Pamper and Don't Prod Child to Eat

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"We do have such a time getting Eleanor to eat," said a mother the other day. "She doesn't like some vegetables, and she won't touch certain kinds of fish or meat. I'm afraid if a record was made of my voice just before meal time, it would sound something like this—

"'If I cream green beans tonight, dear, will you try to eat them?'"

"'Won't you just taste a little of this baked blue fish? It's really delicious. You'll never find out whether you like it or not, if you don't try it just once.'"

"That's not the way things go in my family," answered another mother. "The food is put on the table—without any discussion—but each child knows he's got to eat everything on his plate or he'll get no dessert. What's more, he'll have to sit at the table until he's eaten everything set before him."

Both of these attitudes on the part of parents are extreme, I'll admit, but apparently they are methods still used by some mothers and fathers. Tactics like the former are almost sure to make a child pernickety about her food, to result in her eating less than she should, and having unbalanced meals. The latter method takes no cognizance of small appetites, strong likes or dislikes, or indispositions.

The only course that really works out well all around and is still fair to the children is a medium course. And the reason I say fair to the children is this: They have reasonable preferences in food, and sometimes their preferences are actually due to a physiological condition. As an example of the latter state, some children cannot, as the physicians put it, "tolerate" certain foods. On the other hand, a child may not have that physiological condition, but he may seem to have a real repulsion for certain dishes. I do not believe he should be forced to eat them, altho they should be put before him occasionally prepared in various ways.

The medium course, then, which works out well, on the whole, is to put before your children, without deferring obviously to their tastes, the food which you think is right and also palatable for them to have. Vary it as much as you can, and vary the ways of preparing it, too, for after all, some foods are more delicious than others.

Many Glasses Are Flattering —Even Smooth

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Gals are funny people—give them two eyes, long hair, pink cheeks, and a red sweater to wear to school on week days and they'll want curly eye lashes, a date with Van Johnson, a boy's class ring for each hand, and a mink trimmed snood to wear on Sundays besides. Here's a letter from a girl who is attractive to look at but nevertheless singing the blues because she has to wear glasses. Even tho they are helping her vision she has herself chalked up as a goon gal that no boy would want to look at twice. Her story gives out this way:

on the SOLID side

"I have a problem for which I think there is no solution. It's glasses. I'm 16 and a senior in high school and I have to wear glasses. I hate them and don't want to wear them. What I need, I guess, is a different point of view but I can't get over the feeling that a person with glasses, especially a girl, isn't on the beam. It detracts from personality. It's queer, I don't feel that way about other people who wear glasses—one of my best friends wears them and I think her very attractive. It's just about myself that I feel self-conscious and conspicuous. I've got to wear them and there's nothing I can do about it. I've had to wear glasses for study ever since I was in fifth grade, but now it's for good. I don't think boys like girls with glasses, either. . . . I'm sure they don't."

Ask your eye doctor's advice—perhaps you need glasses only for study, reading or special eye strain. On his advice you might not need to wear them always—especially at dances or other bright light occasions. Many of the newer types of glasses, styled in shape and frame especially for high school or college wear, are flattering. You may be a prettier pigeon with than without glasses, but you just don't know it!

Girls who wear glasses need a special type of grooming. Hair should be worn smoothly with fewer curls or rolls about the face. Think twice about jeweled earrings, hats with veiling, and bright bows or flowers for the hair. Do everything you can to avoid a "fancy nancy" look about the face. And whatever you do, don't talk yourself into the Cinderella department—even some of the smoothest gals wear glasses. And use a little black and white reasoning. If you had your choice, which would you take—a neat pair of shell rimmed glasses or a dog and a cane?

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

The newly elected panel of officers of the Chicago Service Men's Wives' club will take over the organization's activities at the monthly meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Wednesday at headquarters, 59 E. Monroe st.

Mrs. Ruth Field will head the club during the October to March term. Elected to serve with her are Mrs. Helen Lempera, vice president; Mrs. Val Milazzo, recording secretary; Mrs. Jeanne Sallinger, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Arlene Kruse, treasurer.

Mrs. Lucille Mayer, past president, has been named to the board of directors, other members of which are Mrs. Lillian Janus, Mrs. Shirley Goldstein, Mrs. Dorothea Zittenfield, Mrs. Vivian Shea, Mrs. Marion Ott and Mrs. Beatrice Zvone.

All wives of service men, whether commissioned or noncommissioned, and in all branches of the fighting forces, are eligible for membership and are invited to attend Wednesday's session.

Mrs. John Stillwell, secretary of national headquarters of Bundles for America, will entertain in the Buttery of the Ambassador West hotel at luncheon today for Mrs. George F. Hartford, president of Bundles' Chicago branch; Mrs. Bruce A. Young, distribution chairman, and Mrs. John Bird, national headquarters' production chairman. Mrs. Stillwell and Mrs. Bird have been inspecting midwest headquarters where thousands of Christmas stockings for service men already have been filled and prepared for overseas shipment.

WAVES Ensign Betty Shelby, SPAR Ensign Helen Fleming, and WAC 1st Lt. Patricia Stribling will be the feminine members of the Chicago Public Relations Officers' society in attendance at 12:30 p. m. today in Marshall Field's tearoom at the monthly luncheon session of the organization. Business matters of interest to the officers will be discussed.

Five Chicago WACs are included in a contingent which has been transferred to Fort Sheridan from Fort Custer, Mich., Col. George H. Cushman, the fort's commander, has announced.

Now handling new assignments at the north shore station are Pvts. Regina V. Wexler, 952 N. Campbell av.; Jenny Rozak, 2037 N. Laramie av.; May J. Lazar, 621 Armitage av. and Frances H. Herb, 158 E. Pearson st., and Tech. 5th Class Blanche B. Ostell, 111 W. Washington st.

The WAC Mothers' association of Chicago will have a Halloween party at its regular monthly meeting on Oct. 24 at headquarters, 188 W. Randolph st. Decorations, refreshments and entertainment will be in the spirit of the autumn holiday. Mrs. Joseph H. Stephan will be chairman of the evening. Mrs. George B. Schulten, president, extends a special invitation to all mothers of WACs to become members of the organization, which looks after the welfare of army women and supplies them with personal items.

Catherine Agnes Collins, 1524 N. Lotus av., a graduate of the school of nursing of St. Anne's hospital, has been appointed to the army nurse corps with the rank of 2d lieutenant, headquarters of the 6th service command announces. Lt. Collins has been assigned to Camp McCoy, Sparta, Wis., for army training, after which she will serve in an army hospital either in the United States or overseas.

Kate Smith says:

"The Best Friend Any Woman Ever Had"—

"Every woman, at some time or other, knows what it means to face a problem endangering her love, marriage or security. And when important personal decisions must be made, a woman appreciates a true friend who supplies guidance and comfort. That's why I think TRUE STORY MAGAZINE so well deserves its overwhelming popularity. For we all learn more from the revealing true-life experiences of others than any other way."

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Does It Pay?

A reader who signs herself Teacher takes exception to a recent account of a new-to-the-business world white collar girl well on her way to promotion because she does more than is expected of her.

"We should do only what we're paid for. We can't live on promises of promotion," says Teacher. "This gratis work is overdrawing the reserved strength that every woman must retain to meet crises and to appear fresh and calm.

"After years of too conscientious service," Teacher finds "the definition of a job to be: A task at which we work to earn the money with which we live our own lives." If the job is both a vocation and an avocation—as teaching was to her—"well and good," she says, "but this seldom is true. What we pray for is a job at which we do only what we're paid for—leaving the extra time for ourselves."

Opposites.

Honorable Mention.

Madeline Ryan, secretary to the front office manager of the Hotel Sherman. It's Madeline who wangles a table for a marine from overseas, heart set on taking his girl night clubbing. And, it's Madeline who does a super-sleuthing job to find rooms for service men when her own hotel is filled to the roof. Countless G. I. Joes can testify to her thoughtfulness.

The Whiting corporation girls' club, which is putting on a minstrel show to buy Christmas gifts for employes in uniform. The girls not only will raise their voices in the chorus—to raise the money—but will choose, wrap and mail all the gifts.

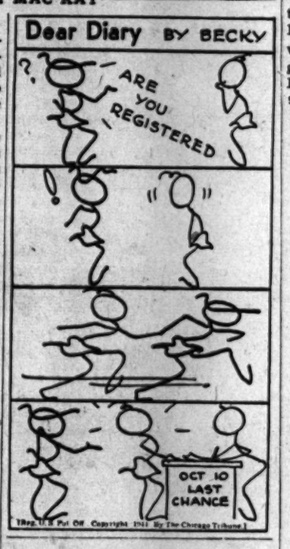
Mary Hardy of the welfare department at Hibbard Spencer Bartlett who has just completed 28 years employment. She corresponds with the boys and girls in military service, keeps a fascinating scrapbook, and contributes [from the letters she receives] to the company bulletin, welcome at many an A. P. O. address.

More Things to Do.

The loop center of the Y. W. C. A. is offering courses again this fall on subjects ranging from artcraft to contract bridge. Of interest to many white collar girls is a series on marriage slanted to the service man's wife. Also there is a series on the courtesies of life which should be helpful. Randolph 2420 is the number to call for information. . . . The Central Eleanor association, a recreational center for business girls, will have a series of book talks and classes in Spanish this fall. . . . The Chicago Historical society, in addition to Sunday afternoon movies, will begin a free series of lectures on history and current events, Wednesday evening, Oct. 25. . . . Some of the classes at Jones Commercial High school, 607 Plymouth ct., are not as full as they might be, considering the subjects: Glamor [for office workers] court reporting, information, please [a course to teach secretaries the various sources of business information], and secretarial psychology. Call the board of education, Dearborn 7801 for details.

Three Syllable, Four Letters.

In the three syllable, four letter group may I add Iowa, Ohio and Ella? DOLLY FROM IOWA.



Catholic Poetry Society to Have Dance Recital

A dance recital by George Tapps at 7:15 o'clock tonight will usher in the 1944-'45 season of the Catholic Poetry society. The program will be given at the quarters of the Alliance Francais, 410 S. Michigan av. Mr. Tapps will be introduced by the Rev. Albert Durant, chaplain of the society. Miss Nora Frances Cawley, who heads the poetry group, will preside.

Club Tea Today.

Mrs. Carl Defebaugh will entertain at tea today in her home, 1120 E. 50th st., for members of the Kenwood Social Service club, which will give a Lucky 13 cocktail party on Friday at the Racquet club.

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Oct. 8.—The Chicago Bears' four year mastery in the National Football league's Western division came to an end this afternoon under darkened, drizzling skies and on the muddy turf of League park.

In disbelief, a moist crowd of 15,750 spectators watched the Cleveland Rams hammer the 1943 champions into a 19 to 7 defeat, their second league loss in a row. For the Rams, back in competition after a 1943 recess, it represented a second victory in two league starts. Thus, only Cleveland and Green Bay are unbeaten in their sector. These teams meet Oct. 22 in Green Bay.

Famiglietti Chased.

The Bears really came apart at the seams today. Their patchwork squad, riddled by military calls since Pearl Harbor, and current injuries, hit a new low level. But the crowd had little sympathy for the retiring and distraught champions, who drew 14 penalties for 115 yards. The rough contest reached a crescendo in the fourth period when Gary Famiglietti was chased. It had its humorous touch when several of the Rams waved goodby to the big full back as he shuffled off the field.

Before the season started, the Bears' coaches repeated over and over that this was the year for their rivals to gain revenge for previous whippings. Two weeks ago the Green Bay Packers extracted a full measure of revenge, beating the one time league terrors for the first time since 1941. Today the Rams went farther back for their big moment. They had last whipped the Bears in 1938 and in the interim had suffered eight consecutive shellackings, most of them by topheavy scores.

Bears Injury Riddled.

The crowd saw the spectacle of 35 year old Gene Ronzani trying to carry on the potency that once was the Bears'. They saw Skinny Bill Glynn trying to rally the old champions—saw him fumble on the first play and cheered when Jim Benton picked up the ball and raced 23 yards for the score which really clinched the victory. This was in the third quarter and gave the Rams a 16 to 7 lead. Later they added three more points on an entirely unnecessary field goal.

With Ray [Scooter] McLean on the field instead of the bench, where he was sidelined by a side injury, the Bears might have pulled this one out. His absence forced Johnny Long's shift from quarter to right half and put the signal calling up to Ronzani, who had more zip and skill than you would expect from a fellow who had been away from big league gridirons for half a dozen campaigns. An injury also kept the other right half, Al Grygo, out of action.

One Flash of Old Greatness.

The Bears had only one of the sparks of their former greatness. After the Rams had pushed into a 3 to 0 lead in the second quarter on a field goal by Lou Zontini from 39 yards out, Ronzani whipped a 66 yard touchdown pass which Rookie Abe Croft of Southern Methodist caught on his 49, running the rest of the distance. Then Pete

Redskins and Eagles Play to 31-31 Draw

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 8 (AP).—The Philadelphia Eagles and the Washington Redskins played to a 31 to 31 tie today in a National Football league game before 32,835. The game early developed into a passing duel between Frank Filchok of Washington and Roy Zimmerman of the Eagles with honors ending about even.

Zimmerman, sparking the Eagles' attack, got off a 53 yard pass to Mel Bleeker on the Redskins' 21 yard line in the first quarter before Bleeker scooted around left end for 16 yards and the Eagles' first touchdown.

Jack Hinkle's line plunge from the 6 yard marker gave the Eagles another touchdown early in the second period before Zimmerman tossed from the 39 yard line to Jack Ferrante on the 30 yard marker and Ferrante carried the ball over.

Redskins Score Twice.

At that point the Redskins began to revive and in the closing minutes before the half Filchock launched his aerial attack, completing the third pass from the 3 yard line to Les Dye in the end zone.

Zimmerman kicked a field goal from the 33 yard line at the start of the third quarter, but the Redskins came back with two touchdowns, one on Larry Fuller's run, and the other on Filchock's spot pass to Bob Seymour who took it on the 30 and ran it over.

In the final minutes of play Joe Aguirre's kick-off went behind the Eagles' goal line and they took it on the 20. After they had taken the ball to the Redskins 8, Jack Banta picked up a fumble behind the line and went over for the Eagles' fourth.

LIONS WHIP TIGERS, 19-14.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 8 (AP).—Frankie Sinkwich passed and ran the Detroit Lions to a 19 to 14 victory over the Brooklyn Tigers before 15,702 spectators today for Detroit's first National Football league triumph. Sinkwich scored two touchdowns, one on a twisting 73 yard dash, and Bob Westfall, former Michigan full back, plunged for the third Lion score.

Sinkwich gained 135 yards in 16 rushing attempts and complet d seven of 17 passes for 158 yards.

It was Brooklyn's second straight defeat in league play. The Tigers took the lead three minutes after the second quarter started, when Charles McGibbony passed 39 yards from his own 35 to Ray Hare who caught the ball and dashed 26 yards for the touchdown.

Westfall Drives Across.

The Lions tied the count when Sinkwich passed to Art Van Tone for a first down on the Brooklyn 19 and subsequently slipped off tackle for four yards and the score.

Sinkwich's 73 yard touchdown dash came a minute and a half after the second half kickoff. The third touchdown, which provided the winning marker, came five minutes later when Sinkwich ran to a first down on the Tiger 45 and passed to Van Tone, who ran 20 yards to the 1 foot line, from where Westfall drove across on his first try.

In the fourth quarter a penalty for defensive holding gave Brooklyn a first down on the Lions' 23 yard line. Frank Sachse tossed a pass to End W. S. Lafitte on the Detroit 8 and Pug Manders hit the line four times, scoring from the 1 yard line on the fourth try.

GIANTS BEAT YANKS, 22-10.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 8 (AP). — The New York Giants opened their regular National Football league season by beating Boston's vastly improved Yanks by a 22 to 10 score while giving an impressive kicking exhibition today in Fenway park. The veteran Ken Strong contributed six of the victor's points with 36 and 16 yard placement field goals.

Stardust.

The stars of the stage of yesteryear
Who came up the long hard way,
Must often smile at the manner
In which "stars" are created today;
A young actress you'd never heard of,
Plays a role a shade above par,
The very next day she's proclaimed to the world

A movie scout sees a pretty girl
At work in her checkroom cage,
Presto, she's signed to a contract,
Tho she's never set foot on a stage;
She may never have heard of Shakespeare
Or of ancient authors Hellenic,
But what's the odds, so long, I mean,
As she's blonde and photogenic?

The stars of the stage knew the lean hard years
Of repertoire and of stock,
The dismal trail of the one-night stands,
Disillusion, heartbreak, shock;
A walk-on part or a bit as a maid,
Then next season a line or two,
Rung by rung the ladder was climbed,
The top reached by a relative few.

But once they arrived their spot in the sun
Thru the years gleamed steadily on,
While the overnight "stars" of these speed-up days
Oft as quickly come are gone!

Truce in Calais.

From out the shattered city of Calais
The foe emerged, with flag of truce held high.
"We must remain," they said, "to bar your way,
"But thousands of civilians mustn't die.

"But when they've gone, this interlude we know

When ruthless slaughter has been left behind.

Thus, for one holy moment, men were men,
And silence fell upon their grateful ears.
A respite brief, before the guns again
Awoke them to war's terror and its fears.
But there were some, perhaps, who saw a star
Shine brilliantly, with promise, from afar.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 8.—Irv Comp, a limber armed half back, wrote his name this afternoon alongside such famous Green Bay passers as Cecil Isbell and Arnie Herber as the Packers won their fourth consecutive National Football league game, 34 to 7, from the Card-Pitts. The other member of this forward pass combination? Why, Don Hutson, of course.

This is Hutson's 10th year with the Packers. In this time the veteran from the University of Alabama has radically altered defensive strategy in professional football by his speed and uncanny catches. Seldom has he been greater than this raw autumn afternoon before a home town throng of 16,525, for Comp's timing and accuracy were up to the standard these folks have learned to expect from the man who pitches to Hutson.

Completes Nine in Succession.

In the first half, while the Packers were scoring three touchdowns to insure their league leadership, Comp had nine consecutive completed forward passes. These gained 151 yards. Hutson caught seven of them, two for touchdowns and another that placed the ball 1 yard from the Card-Pitt goal. Hutson's seven catches gained 117 yards.

This really is the statistical story of today's game, altho the Packers, after a scoreless third quarter, added a fourth touchdown before the cardinal clad eleven finally hit the bull's-eye on a pass from John Grigas to John Butler. Green Bay then invited additional trouble when Don Perkins' punt was blocked and taken on the Packers' 14 yard line.

Perkins Goes 83 Yards.

In the first quarter Hutson scored on a 55 yard pass from Comp, who had passed to Harry Jacunski on the Packer 45 on the preceding play.

The Packers' second touchdown drive started on the last play of the first period when Perkins ripped thru defensive left tackle for 20 yards. In all, 13 plays covered 84 yards and during the assault Comp passed to Hutson for 15, 21, and 11 yards. The latter throw put the ball on the Card-Pitt 1 yard line, from where Ben Starrett plunged over.

After the subsequent kick-off, McCarthy's fumble was recovered by Milburn Croft, Packer tackle, on the Card-Pitt 35. Perkins' 26 yard run was followed by a Comp to Hutson scoring pass and the Packers led 21 to 0 at the intermission.

Brock Plunges Over.

Comp and Hutson also signaled the next scoring maneuver. Near the end of the third period Hutson got 15 yards on a pass and on the opening play of the final period Lou Brock plunged for a first down on the Packers' 42. Comp threw to Hutson for 18 yards and then Perkins lugged the ball to the Card-Pitt 25. Brock went over defensive left tackle on a delayed play and cut to the corner of the goal.

McCarthy's long pass to Clint

SCORING WINNING RUN FOR CARDS

DOUGHERTY'S 72 WINS ALL-STAR GOLF TOURNEY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Large Robert Dougherty, Harrison Tech's football coach these 22 autumns, yesterday chose a typical gridiron afternoon to win the first annual All-Star Public Links tournament, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and the Chicago park district over the ancient leas of Jackson park. Big Bob, runner-up for the Midwest amateur crown last summer, posted a 72, two over par, to lead the field of champions and runners-up in four outstanding park and public links events.

Evans Wins in Play-off.

Tied for second place with 74s were 54 year old Chick Evans of Edgewater, who regained the City Amateur title after a lapse of 33 years, and Lou Esposito, the personable young man who had defeated Dougherty for the Midwest crown. THE TRIBUNE had offered trophies for the winner and runner-up of the All-Star inaugural, so that a sudden death play-off was necessary to determine the recipient of the second prize. It went to Evans, after he holed an eight foot attempt for a birdie on the second extra hole.

Following the leaders were Harold Mathisen of St. Andrews, four time city titleholder and runner-up to Evans this season, 77; Hymie Judelson of Old Orchard, Cook county champion, 79; Harry Wils of Waveland, county runner-up, 81; Chuck Boywid of Mid-City, Illinois Public links winner, 82, and Mike Polacci of Bunker Hill, runner-up to Boywid, 83.

Ohioan Waits 13 Years for ChampionDog

BY BEN MARKLAND.

A dog breeder who waited for 13 years for the right dog to come along was the hero of the final sessions of the Western Specialty club dog show in the Chicago Arena last night.

The man is Andrew Sharp, a Montgomery, O., defense worker who had raised spaniels since 1931 without seeing a single one of his dogs become a champion. Last night Sharp's first champion, a 2½ year old black male named Talked About, was judged the best of 114 cockers in the annual Chicago show, giving the persistent Ohioan one of the major show awards of the year.

Champion Talked About is a son of the famous California champion, Stockdale Town Talk, and is handled by Wright Smith. His other major triumphs included best of all breeds in the Memphis show last June 4 and best of breed in the Beaumont, Tex., specialty show May 2 this year.

Jean Funk, 2040 Lincoln av., a 14 year old miss who attends 8th grade in the Lincoln school, borrowed one of her brother's eight Irish setters and then showed the red dog to first place in the Tribune sponsored children's handling classes.

Jean owns a cocker spaniel of her own, but decided that one of her brother's dogs named Patrick the Flaming Beauty would behave better in the ring.

Second place went to Robert Andree, 9, son of a Renasselaer, Ind., veterinarian, who handled a huge bulldog which weighed more than Bobby. Other class winners were Jimmy Carlyle, Evansville, Ind., winner of the class for boys from 12 to 16, and Betty Ann Boonstra, Plainfield, Ill., winner of the competition for girls under 12.

[COMPOSITE BOX SCORE NEXT PAGE.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 8.—Morton Cooper, who held the Browns to two hits in the world series opener last Wednesday, and lost to Denny Galehouse, 2 to 1, because George McQuinn hit a two run homer, this afternoon pitched one of the finest world series games of recent years. Today it was Galehouse who pitched the home run ball, two of them to Ray Sanders and Danny Litwhiler, and the Cardinals gained a 2 to 0 victory, tho the Browns outhit them, 7 to 6.

Cooper struck out 12 and Galehouse 10 to set a new record for both teams in a world series game. The two pitchers topped a strike out record of 21, set by the Chicago Cubs and Chicago White Sox in 1906 and tied in the famous Howard Ehmke Cubs-Athletics opening game of 1929.

36,568 See Fifth Game.

The game was played before the biggest crowd of the series, 36,568, who paid $157,019. But chilly weather prevailed, taking some of the conviction from the hitters' protest that white shirts in the center field bleachers were responsible for the many strikeouts in the series.

Cooper, with his 12 strikeouts, fell one short of Ehmke's all time record for one pitcher in a world series match.

Sanders' homer, the smack essential to victory, came after two were out in the sixth. Litwhiler made his at the start of the eighth. Sanders struck out twice, and Litwhiler once, tho he opened the game with a double.

Big Mort Stops Threat.

After Sanders' smash, the Browns developed their biggest threat—and Big Mort stopped them cold, after singles by Mike Kreevich and Vern Stephens, and a pass to McQuinn had loaded the bases with one out. Al Zarilla and Mark Christman were called out on strikes, so badly fooled they meekly scooted away with nothing resembling a yelp.

Galehouse struck out Johnny Hopp, Walker Cooper, and Sanders after Litwhiler had opened the game with that double. Cooper didn't effect three strikeouts in an inning until the ninth. Then he got pinch batters Milt Byrnes, Chet Laabs, and Mike Chartak in succession.

The outcome gave the Cards a chance to end the series tomorrow when either Blix Donnelly or Max Lanier will be sent forth against Nelson Potter, who lost the second game in 11 innings, 3 to 2, when the Cards made their only earned run to break up the battle.

Several Sparkling Catches.

The game was unquestionably the best of the series from the standpoint of tenseness. It certainly was brilliant from the pitching viewpoint. There were several sparkling catches, but not standouts. Each side erred once, a fumble by Stan Musial on a hit by Myron Hayworth being the first charged against the National leaguers in the series. Vern Stephens was charged with his second misplay of the series, the Browns' seventh.

Litwhiler was the only Cardinal who made more than one hit off Galehouse. Against Cooper, Stephens made two singles and a double in three times at bat. Kreevich had a double and a single. The other two were singles, one by Hayworth in the fifth, the other by Galehouse in the seventh. Galehouse walked one and Cooper two.

The Cooper victory was his second in five decisions covering the last three world's series. Today's start was his sixth in world series play.

Mt. Carmel, St. George Take 2d Straight Losses

Mount Carmel of the south side and St. George of Evanston, co-holders of the Catholic league title last year, yesterday suffered their second straight losses in league competition. Mount Carmel was defeated by Leo, 12 to 7, in Shewbridge field, while St. Mel upset St. George, 13 to 14, on the Dragon's gridiron.

Don McAuliffe, Leo half back, scored twice on runs of 45 and 20 yards, to give Leo a 12 to 0 lead in the first period. Mount Carmel scored its touchdown in the second period when John Van Loon took Ted Mullen's 30 yard pass in the end zone. Bill Trendell kicked the extra point.

Coletti Scores Twice.

Dominic Coletti paced St. Mel in the St. George upset. Coletti plunged seven yards for the opening score and a few minutes later went over from the one yard line. The longest run of the game was made by Dick Scherer of St. George, who took a 20 yard pass from Al Brenan and ran 80 yards.

In the other south side meeting, St. Rita, which meets Leo in the Sisters of Mercy charity game in Comiskey park on Sunday, Oct. 22, defeated De La Salle, 6 to 0, on St. Rita's field. Ted Reise ran 15 yards in the first period for the touchdown.

Elsewhere in the north section, St. Ignatius won its second straight victory by routing St. Patrick, 38 to 0, after leading, 26 to 0, at the half. Six players shared the scoring as Coach Ralph Malliard substituted freely.

Domenico Leads St. Philip.

Joe Domenico scored three touchdowns as St. Philip defeated De Paul, 32 to 0, in the third north section meeting. Domenico scored twice on runs of 13 and 11 yards, and another time on a 40 yard pass from Dick Kluck.

Fenwick, after winning its first league game last Sunday, played an exhibition contest against Joliet Catholic, of the south section, in Hanson park yesterday. The Friars scored in the first three periods to win easily, 41 to 6, with Dick Martin tallying twice. Roger [Moose] Brown, Fenwick half back, made the longest run of the game when he went 23 yards to score in the first period. Joliet scored in the final period.

VIKINGS DEFEAT NECAXA, 6 TO 1, IN CUP FINALS

M'Dermott Scores Three Goals, Has 3 Assists.

BY OFFSIDE.

Center Forward Jimmy McDermott scored three goals and assisted on three others as the Vikings defeated Necaxa, 6 to 1, before more than 2,000 fans in Winnemac Park stadium yesterday in the final game of the National Soccer league's class A cup series. The Vikings now are Chicago's only undefeated soccer team, and Necaxa's goal yesterday is the only one that has been scored on them in six games.

The Vikings led by 4 to 0 at the half as a result of goals by John Potti, McDermott, Al O'Hare, and Sailor Jimmy McGuire, scored in that order. McDermott got his second goal and the Vikings' fifth in the second half before Gonzales Lascone scored for Necaxa. McDermott finished his day's work with a 30 yard shot for a goal near the game's close.

Kelly Cup series games will send the Vikings against Hakoah-Centers and the Schwabens against Nexcaka next Sunday. The Vikings are to meet the Norwegian Royal Air Force from Toronto, Canada, in Winnemac park stadium on Sunday, Oct. 22.

2 Stakes Top Week's Card at Hawthorne

Racing at Hawthorne goes into its final full week this afternoon, this being the 27th day of a fall session billed for 34 days. Once more, an extra charity race has been scheduled for today.

Topping this week's program is the $10,000 Illinois Owners handicap, a race on Saturday for horses owned by Illinois residents. The purse has been doubled from last year's value of $5,000. The distance is a mile and one-sixteenth and it is expected to attract such horses as Burgoo Maid, Valdina Foe, Devalue, Espino Gold, Juke Box, Take Wing, Martian, Rosy Brand, Happy Pilot, Bright Willie, King Epithet, and Diderod.

Before the Illinois Owners handicap is run, however, there is another event of importance on the docket. This is the Columbus Day handicap, a $5,000 race for 2 year olds which will headline Thursday's charity program.

Tentatively listed as likely to be seen in action in the Columbus Day are Foreign Agent, Limestone, Expediter, Satin Aca, Calm Seas, Joe's Choice, Jesting Fox, Port Chester and others. Post time on Thursday will be moved up to 2 o'clock.

NYES FIRST IN SIX RACES; CAPTURE DINGHY TROPHY

Harry Nye Jr. and his wife, Betty, won the Leeds Mitchell trophy yesterday in the Chicago Yacht club's seven race series for Frostbite dinghies. Twelve D class craft competed.

Nye won six of the seven races for a total score of 72 points. Sam Clarke, who with Ruby Shaw placed second in the series with 64 points, won the remaining race. Russell Moon and his crew, Lou Shilladay, were a close third with 63 points.

Martin Nielson and his crew, John Kinsey Jr., were thrown in the lake when their entry, No. 236, capsized as a gust of wind struck it. They were taken to the Chicago Yacht clubhouse in a dinghy rowed by Lou Gilbert, owner-skipper of the R class sloop Pidgie.

Jack Holbrook won the Columbia Yacht club's opening Frostbite dinghy series for B class boats with his entry, Quest. Holbrook and his wife, Frances, as crew, finished the five race series with 36½ points. George Macha, sailing Digit, was runner-up with 34½ points, and Don Campbell was third in Granny with 27 points. A one mile course was sailed in Chicago [downtown] harbor. Eight boys from the Todd school, Woodstock, Ill., competed in the series as skippers and crews.

Hisert Wins Lincolnshire Title for 4th Year in Row

Ken Hisert, former Big Nine champion, yesterday won the Lincolnshire Country club golf championship for the fourth consecutive year by defeating Jack Miskell, 5 and 4. Hisert played the first 18 in 72, one under par, for a six up intermission lead. The match was the feature of Joe Noonan day, in which members honored the man who has been club professional since Lincolnshire's founding in 1926.

Orioles Beat Louisville in 14th, 7-4; Lead Series, 2-1

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 8 (AP).—The Baltimore Orioles took a 2 to 1 lead in the junior world series today by defeating the Louisville Colonels, 7 to 4, in 14 innings.

SERVICES TODAY FOR R. A. PARKER, INSPECTION HEAD

Services for Robert A. Parker, 44, of 10337 Oakley av., manager of the Cook County Inspection bureau, who died Thursday in St. Luke's hospital, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the Second Presbyterian church, 20th st. and Michigan av. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

Mr. Parker, who had a wide acquaintance in insurance circles, began his career with the Underwriters' Laboratory in 1919. Later he joined the Western Actuarial bureau and in 1923 he became an inspector for the Chicago Board of Underwriters, later becoming manager of the rating department. He resigned to become manager of the Cook County Inspection bureau when that bureau was formed in April, 1942. He was an authority on the analytic system for the measurement of relative fire hazards.

He is survived by his widow, the former Margaret Bulfin, and two daughters, Grace and Alice.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam

BENEDETTI — Maria Benedetti, Oct. 9, 1943.
As the twilight hour draws near,
We think of you, dear mother,
And the happy days gone by.
Thoughts of you come drifting back
Within our dreams to stay,
To know that you are resting
When the twilight ends the day.
LOVING CHILDREN.

CIECHNA—Adeline Rose Ciechna [nee Krupowicz] In loving memory of my dear wife who passed away three years ago today.
The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one I love,
From memory pass away.
LOVING HUSBAND WALTER CIECHNA.
Requiem mass at 7 a. m. at St. Rose of Lima church.

DUNAS—Phil Dunas. In memory of our beloved son and brother, who passed away one year ago today.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days.
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
A beautiful memory he left behind.
He had a nature you could not help loving.
A heart that was purer than gold,
And to those who now him
and loved him,
His memory will never grow old.
MOTHER, FATHER, SISTERS AND BROTHER.

GRASSO—Maria Antonia Grasso, October 9, 1944.
You're not forgotten, mother dear,
Nor ever should you be,
As long as life and memories last,
We shall remember thee.
LOVING HUSBAND, CHILDREN, AND GRANDCHILDREN.

JOHNSON—Jensine M. Johnson. In cherished memory of our wonderful mother, who passed on six years ago.
JENSINE AND LENORE.

KORANDA—Mary Koranda, passed away Oct. 9, 1943.
God, hold your loving arms around her,
Keep her in Your tender care;
Please make up all she had to suffer,
And everything that was unfair.
LOVING HUSBAND, SONS, AND DAUGHTERS.

OPP—Alyce Opp. In memory of our dear one, who died a year ago today.
HUSBAND AND DAUGHTER.

PIERCE—Agnes V. Pierce, Oct. 9, 1942. In cherished memory of our beloved mother.
LOVING SON, BILL.

ROME—Hazel Rome. In loving memory of my dearest mother, who passed away two years ago today. DOROTHY.

SWARD—Emma Christine Sward, nee Wennerstrand, Oct. 9, 1940. In loving memory of a devoted wife, mother, and grandmother, who left us four years ago today.
"You will be forever in our hearts."
ANTON E. SWARD AND FAMILY.

TOKARSKI—Ida Tokarski.
God called you and you went away.
She bade no one a last farewell,
She said good-by to none;
Her loving heart had ceased to beat.
Before we knew it, she was gone.
She did not fail to do her best.
Her heart was true and tender;
She worked hard for those she left,
And ever will be remembered.
DEVOTED HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

EDISON'S BOND PROGRAM BOON TO LA SALLE ST.

Refunding Project Chicago Job.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Servicing and sales plans for the forthcoming 180 million dollar Commonwealth Edison company bond refunding are described in La Salle street as an answer to the financial community's prayer for more opportunity to handle the money needs of the Chicago area.

New York long has dominated financial operations thruout the nation. This domination has extended to the Chicago region, altho for several decades the Chicago financial district has been progressively extending its financing of middle western activities.

Halsey, Stuart in Charge.

The Commonwealth Edison program—one of the largest on record—is Chicago managed. Halsey, Stuart & Co. heads a nation-wide group of 163 investment houses which will offer 155 millions of bonds to the public on Oct. 18. The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company will be trustee for the 180 millions of bonds to be issued, including 25 millions to be given eastern insurance companies in exchange for old bonds.

The Edison issue is described as the largest corporate bond issue ever to be offered to the public for cash. A larger American Telephone and Telegraph issue of 230 millions in bonds and stock was not underwritten, but was offered stockholders. Further, the check for about 160 million dollars which Halsey, Stuart will hand over to Chairman Charles Y. Freeman of Commonwealth Edison will, it is said, be the largest check ever to be passed in a private Chicago business operation.

Trustee to Pay Old Bonds.

Officials of the Commonwealth Edison and Halsey, Stuart will meet in the corporate trust department of the Continental Illinois bank on the morning of Oct. 25 to complete the transaction. Technically the investment house buys the new bonds from Commonwealth Edison and the money obtained will be used to pay off the old bonds. The check will be deposited with the bank which as trustee has the job of paying off the old bonds.

Banks in transactions of this type insist that checks given be "super" good. In this instance it will be a Halsey, Stuart check and the investment house will arrange in advance a credit that will assure the bank the check is "good." Halsey, Stuart will be reimbursed for its advance as investment houses in the underwriting group take delivery of the bonds. The fact that the check will exceed 155 millions is because there are bond interest and premium to be paid.

Viewed as Business Aid.

The ability of Chicago financial institutions to engineer transactions of the Commonwealth Edison type enhance the prestige of the city as a financial center and automatically help bring business to Chicago. The investment house tightens its contacts with other cities. The trustee engages in correspondence with security holders outside the city and this frequently results in new business contacts.

Chicago financial leaders say they have no quarrel with their colleagues in New York and want to maintain friendly relations with the nation's financial capital. However, they say that they believe that Chicago financial houses are entitled to handle the business of Chicago area companies.

Seek Railroad Business.

In this connection Chicago financial houses hope they will get business in the forthcoming reorganization of the North Western, Milwaukee, Rock Island, Monon, and Alton railroads. Both banks and investment houses have long complained that there has been too much business of Chicago railroads transacted in New York.

Recent large financial programs handled by Chicago firms include an exchange of 228,000 shares of Northern Indiana Public Service stock handled by the Continental Illinois and sale by Halsey, Stuart of 100 millions Great Northern rail way bonds.

Rails Propose Tax and Debt Retiring Plan

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 (AP).—The Association of American Railroads today proposed that plans be made to pay off the national debt within a 100 year period after the war at the rate of 1 per cent annually.

The proposal was given the Republican post-war tax study committee by R. V. Fletcher, A. A. R. vice president, in a letter to Rep. Reed [R., N. Y.], committee chairman.

Assumes 300 Billion Debt.

Reed said the railroads' plan "contains the first detailed proposals submitted to the committee on behalf of any of the scores of industries whose views were sought."

The A. A. R. assumed that the national debt would have soared to approximately 300 billion dollars by the end of the war and that national income during the first five post-war years would amount to 120 billion annually. Retirement at the rate of one per cent annually would require 3 billion principal payment and 6 billion interest charges.

Urges Lower Exemptions.

The A. A. R. tax program urged an increase in normal income tax rates and a lowering of personal exemptions to bring in more taxpayers; a reduced tax rate for persons with incomes of less than $2,000; substantial reduction of personal surtaxes; revision of the corporate income tax structure; repeal of the excess profits tax, the capital stock tax and the declared value excess profits tax, and coöperation with state governments to prevent overlapping and competing forms of taxation, with the federal government being exclusive in the field of income taxes and the state governments in the sales tax field.

PUBLIC HEARINGS ON MINE DISPUTE SET FOR OCT. 18

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 (AP).—Public hearings on the disputes which resulted in government seizure of 67 bituminous coal mines in August and September will begin Oct. 18 in Pittsburgh, Pa., before a three man public panel, the war labor board announced today.

The panel will investigate, then make a report after the hearings on all issues presented, except bargaining rights and alleged discriminatory discharges, which are under the jurisdiction of the national labor relations board.

The dispute is between coal companies operating 114 mines in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Alabama, and Kentucky, and the United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employes, district 50, United Mine Workers of America.

Minnesota Mining Buys Gummed Paper Company

Purchase of Mid-States Gummed Paper company, Chicago, by Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing company, St. Paul, Minn., was announced yesterday by W. L. McKnight, president of Minnesota Mining. Mid-States occupies 171,250 square feet of plant, office, and warehouse space in a three story building at 2515 S. Damen av.

LIQUOR PRODUCTION IN AUGUST THIRD OF NORMAL YEAR TOTAL

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 (AP).—Distilleries during their month's holiday from production of industrial alcohol, produced approximately 50 million gallons of spirits for beverage purposes in August, about one-third of a normal annual production, the treasury reported today.

In addition to the 129 beverage distillers, most of whom converted completely to beverage production in August after making nothing but industrial alcohol for 22 months to meet war needs, some commercial alcohol plants devoted part of their output to beverage alcohol.

The bureau of internal revenue, which keeps tabs on alcohol production for tax purposes, gave these figures on August production: Whisky, 13,584,910 gallons; rum, 201,705 gallons; gin, 897,221 gallons; brandy, 467,563 [including some redistillation]. Also available for beverage purposes were 23,083,499 gallons of spirits produced in registered distilleries; 3,785,734 gallons of "unfinished spirits," which may be used in part for drinking, and 11,514,000 gallons of alcohol produced at industrial alcohol plants.

During August 9,783,894 gallons of whisky, rum, gin, brandy, and other spirits were withdrawn from government bonded warehouses for marketing, compared with withdrawals of 7,213,521 gallons in August, 1943.

BUILDING PLANS HELD FAR UNDER POST-WAR NEED

New York, Oct. 8 (AP).—Post-war construction plans under way or completed by Sept. 30 totaled $4,438,190,000, Engineering News-Record figures submitted to the committee on post-war construction of the American Society of Civil Engineers showed today.

The total showed a gain of 103 per cent or $2,253,113,000 during the last six months but "indicates much slower progress than is necessary if the nation is to have 15 billion dollars of projects ready for bids by July 1, 1945, as deemed essential by the committee to permit a healthy resumption of construction activity in the first year of peace," the committee said.

Of the projects included in the report, public works plans total $4,068,791,000, while privately financed projects total $369,399,000.

ILLINOIS CASH OUTGO.

U. S. RECEIPTS, OUTLAY.

Please inform me on the federal treasury's receipts, principal sources, and expenditures for the last fiscal year.—A. F.

The federal government's budgetary receipts in the fiscal year ended last June totaled 45 billion 408 million dollars compared with 23 billion 385 million in the preceding year. After transfers to the social security trust fund, net receipts were reported at 44 billion 149 million, compared with 22 billion 282 million.

The increase was chiefly in income and profits taxes which rose to 34 billion 655 million from 16 billion 94 million. Other receipts were employment taxes, 1 billion 739 million; miscellaneous internal revenue, including excise taxes, 5 billion 291 million; customs, 431 million, and other receipts, including contract renegotiation refunds, 3 billion 292 million.

The 1944 fiscal year expenditures were 93 billion 744 million against 78 billion 179 million in 1943. The net budgetary deficit was 49 billion 595 million against 55 billion 897 million.

PACKARD ENGINE PLANT STRIKERS VOTE TO RETURN

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 8 (AP).—About 1,000 striking maintenance workers at Packard Motor Car company voted today to return to work on their earliest respective shifts.

The Packard plant, making aviation and marine engines, was one of 33 war factories in which production was hampered or halted last week by a 27-hour strike of about 7,000 maintenance men, who returned to work Thursday and Friday. The Packard workers, members of local 190, United Automobile Workers [CIO], however, continued to strike.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO international vice president, told the Packard men that he would make a fight for upward revision of maintenance workers' wages. He said the war labor board would consolidate all maintenance, construction and powerhouse workers' wage cases and hear them before a fact-finding panel of the WLB's automotive section, which in turn would make recommendations to the WLB.

EASE CANCELED ORDER SMALL CLAIM PAYMENT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 (AP).—War contractors were authorized today to make final settlement of contract termination claims made against them if the sum is less than $1,000 and if the subcontractor keeps or disposes of all the surplus materials left in his hands.

The office of contract settlement said the new provision, which eliminates referral of small subcontractors' claims to the government, was made to speed settlement of canceled prime contracts.

Anglo-Belgian Pact Held Key to Pound Bloc

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 8 — The monetary agreement between Britain and Belgium, signed last week in London, is interpreted in financial circles as providing a basis for a substantial western European currency bloc linked to the British empire. A similar agreement with the Netherlands is almost ready for signature, it was announced, and monetary pact talks also are going on with French and Norwegian authorities.

Altho each agreement will deal only with mutual support and collaboration between Britain and the particular country concerned, the combined effect of the pacts will be to increase the effectiveness of the sterling area.

Will Maintain Exchange Rate.

Under the Anglo-Belgian pact, which will serve as a model for the others, the two governments will help each other maintain exchange rates fixed by mutual agreement—in this case 176.6 Belgian francs to the pound — and they agree not to alter the rates except after mutual consultation.

If Belgium's balance of payments with Britain should be adverse, Britain undertakes to extend credit to Belgium up to 20 million dollars. Belgium, however, agrees to give a like credit to Britain plus the amount of sterling balances accumulated in Britain during the war by the Belgian government. Just how much sterling the Belgians have piled up since 1940 is a secret, but financial observers believe the total is several million pounds.

Avoids Bretton Woods Conflict.

The agreements will not conflict with the Bretton Woods international monetary fund proposal, it was emphasized, because the pact provides for amendment if during its three year life the Bretton Woods plan comes into force.

The News-Chronicle financial editor said the pact turns away from "the bilateralist barter policy and towards the multilateralist conception of international economic relations which is enshrined in the draft of the constitution of the international monetary fund."

POST-WAR IDLE OF 20 MILLION HELD POSSIBLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8.—The AFL monthly American Federationist today predicted 11 million Americans will be unemployed immediately after Germany is defeated and that the fall of Japan will be followed by a depression with 20 million unemployed unless immediate steps are taken to forestall such a catastrophe.

Boris Shishkin.

The prediction was made by Boris Shishkin, an AFL economist. He said an unchecked and unbalanced post-war boom will end in a disastrous depression.

Attacks "Prophets of Boom."

"It is not too late for labor, business, and government to agree and to act in concert and with speed to assure to all of us safe conduct thru the treacherous no-man's land of industrial transition which lies ahead," he wrote.

Shishkin attacked the views of "prophets of boom" and those who advocate immediate removal of production, price, and other controls when Germany is defeated.

He said the 18 month boom that followed the World war resulted in a collapse in which unemployment increased 6 million, pay rolls shrank 44 per cent, and farm prices and corporate profits dwindled.

Shishkin said a 60 per cent reduction in government purchases after the defeat of Germany will deprive nearly 9 million persons of jobs, while discharges from military services are likely to increase substantially. He said discharges of service men approximate 100,000 a month and that there are about 1 million unemployed persons.

Pay Roll Drop Expected.

Asserting there will be 11 million jobless after Germany collapses, Shishkin said the effect of shorter hours and elimination of overtime, reduction of employment, and moving workers to lower paying jobs will result in a 40 per cent drop in pay rolls, bringing them from 80 billion dollars to 48 billion dollars.

He said such a decrease will be enough to "knock the bottom out of the civilian market."

"When the war is finally won we can achieve a high level of employment only if we achieve a level of production without any precedent," he said. "Turning back to pre-war levels would spell disaster. If we return to the 1939, or pre-war, level of production while present prices continue to prevail, we cannot escape unemployment reaching 20 millions."

Bowles Urges Lowered Unit Profit to Boost Output, Jobs

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 (AP).—Price Administrator Bowles said today that "diminishing production and dangerous unemployment" will result if American industry pursues a post-war policy of high prices and high unit profits.

In a statement to the 8,100 members of OPA advisory committees, he asserted that "we face the dangers of another disastrous depression if major segments of industry attempt to cut prices by depressing wage rates." He described these views as "my personal opinion only."

Says Output Was Curbed.

"In too many industries [before the war] prices were held up artificially in order to provide higher unit profits," Bowles said. "Because of this policy, in some industries full production and employment were curbed."

This course was pursued rather than one of "going after larger total profits that might have come thru larger volume at a lower profit per unit," he said.

"It is unlikely after the war that our people, including our 11 million returning service men, will long tolerate any economic system which does not provide reasonably full production with reasonably full employment at a high standard of wages and farm income," Bowles declared.

Pledges Increase If Needed.

In cases where price increases over 1942 levels are "really needed" to bring consumer products back on the market, OPA is prepared to grant them quickly, Bowles said, adding: "We will make every effort to set ceilings that will lead manufacturers to expand, not restrict their production."

But he said that war time experience had shown that "increased wage rates and material prices need not be fully reflected in price increases for the finished product." He concluded with the promise that when supply and demand for products "come back into balance price controls will not be needed and we will drop them."

PAPER SALVAGE AWARDS READY FOR SCHOOLS

War production board citations for outstanding work of Chicago schools in the waste paper salvage campaign will be awarded to the Chicago board of education, four key employes, and two leading schools in ceremonies conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the offices of School Board President James B. McCahey, 228 N. La Salle st. Chicago's school campaign has been determined the best of any metropolitan area in the United States.

The presentation will be made during a special meeting of the board of education and the Chicago waste paper campaign committee by John R. Robinson, representing the Chicago Newspaper Publishers' association. During the meeting plans will be made for a new waste paper campaign beginning Oct. 16.

Chicago schools, during the period between Jan. 1 and June 23, collected more than 42,000,000 pounds of waste paper, averaging 1,000 tons a week. New York City, twice the size of Chicago, during the same period averaged 1,200 tons a month.

[Acme Photo.]

Typical sea forts of type that guards Britain's shipping lanes off coast of England. The seven forts in this group are connected by catwalks and are manned by army men.
